Phnom Penh's Fall to Reds Seems Imminent

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian officials formed a new "revolutionary committee" Saturday to continue the war against the Communist rebels besieging the capital while searching for peace.

The new government vowed to fight on despite the American abandonment of Phnom Penh.

Gen. Sak Sutsakhan, head of the armed forces, and Prime Minister Long Boret announced they would head a High Policy Committee of the Khmer Republic to make all military and political decisions.

Phnom Penh was calm following the American evacuation, but the Khmer Rouge rebels were barely 2½ miles away and the fall of the city seemed imminent.

Fighting continued around the capital, and mortar and rocket shells continued to slam into the city and its suburbs, 15 of them hitting near the abandoned U.S. embassy compound.

Radio Phnom Penh said the Cambodian parliament voted itself out of power for three months and backed the last-ditch government effort for survival.

Several leaders condemned Acting President Gen. Saukham Khy for abandoning his nation aboard a U.S. evacuation helicopter. Radio Phnom Penh said he might be tried in absentia by Cambodian courts for "his precipitous flight to exile."

The makeup of the new administration was mostly military. Radio Phnom Penh listed the members of the committee, apparently in order of rank. Sak Sutsakhan and Long Boret were named to the top two posts.

Included for the first time in three years in the new administration were members of parties which had been in opposition to former President Lon Nol, who left for exile last week.

No Khmer Rouge representatives were included.

Long Boret, in a radio address, said the committee will run Cambodia on a day-to-day basis, and conduct a search for peace.

"I will not abandon the people or the nation until the Khmer problem is solved," said Long Boret, who is on a "death list" of seven men the rebels have vowed to execute if and when they take control of Phnom Penh.

With the departure of the Americans, the emergency airlift of rice, fuel and ammunition came to an end.

Another domestic Cambodian airliner pulled off its course from Phnom Penh to the Cambodian coastal city of Kompong Som to land at Bangkok in an apparent attempt to flee the fighting.

The U.S. decision to pull out apparently was made Friday evening and was ordered by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. The insurgents had battled their way to within 2½ miles of the heart of the city, and the military situation was on the verge of collapse.

Communists Again Hit Key Provincial Capital

SAIGON (UPI) — Tank-backed Communist forces pinned down two South Vietnamese government relief forces and stormed into key Xuan Loc provincial capital in a new attempt to overrun the city, military sources said today.

The attack began just before dawn. The Saigon command said government troops were still fighting for the shell-flattened city on the Saigon defense perimeter in heavy street fighting.

It was the third time in five days the Communists had forced their way into Xuan Loc, which is 38 miles north-east of Saigon and considered a key to the defense of the capital. The two previous times the Communists were pushed back out.

Command spokesmen said Communist gunners slammed an uncounted number of 100mm artillery shells into Xuan Loc early today in an apparent effort to soften up government defenses for the ground assault.

Two would-be relief columns remained pinned down outside Xuan Loc by other North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces, unable to move in to help defend the city.

Government troops west of Xuan Loc on Highway 1 lost more ground, with Communist forces skirting the government column cutting the route only 25 miles north-east of Saigon.

The road cut trapped about 5,000 South Vietnamese forces trying to get to Xuan Loc between Communist lines. About 3,000 airborne troops were trapped Saturday in a rubber plantation south of Xuan Loc, and another 2,000 militia, ranger and infantry troops are on Highway 1.

Southwest of Saigon, Communist forces overran the training center for the government 9th Infantry Division, and turned captured guns on Can Tho, the largest city in the Mekong Delta 75 miles from the capital.

Fighting cut Highway 4, the so-called "rice road," and left the Communists in control of a wide swath of territory almost to the bank of the Bassac River directly across from Can Tho.

Military sources said the captured U.S.-made 105mm guns fired 28 rounds at random into Can Tho late Saturday.

day night, killing nine persons, wounding 42 others and destroying at least 50 homes.

Xuan Loc is considered a major test of the South Vietnamese military's ability to survive after the disastrous defeats sustained last month when the Communists overran the northern and central regions of the country and began driving toward Saigon.

Field officers said a 3,000-man brigade of elite paratroopers was trapped Saturday morning three miles south of Xuan Loc in a French-owned rubber plantation which had been the major employer in Long Khanh province.

The paratroopers were air-dropped behind enemy lines Friday stripping Saigon of half its defensive troops, in a desperate move to stop the Communist drive on the capital.

A second government unit was stalled by heavy fire nine miles east of Xuan Loc and unable to fight its way through entrenched Communist forces, field reports said. The Russian-made 85mm artillery pounding Xuan Loc itself was of the type used in the 1954 defeat of the French at Dien Bien Phu.

Southwest of Saigon, Communist troops Saturday overran the main training base of the government's 9th division across the Bassac River from Can Tho, a city of 170,000, in the vital Mekong Delta, on whose rice supplies Saigon largely depends.

Loss of the Cai Von training center put Can Tho, South Vietnam's seventh largest city, within range of Communist mortar fire.

Mansfield: U.S. Dragging Its Feet on Saigon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday he is concerned over the possibility of American military intervention in South Vietnam if the United States continues to "drag its feet" in the evacuation of Americans from Saigon.

Mansfield said in an interview he was happy the evacuation of 276 from Phnom Penh "went off as well as it did" but that it raised concerns over evacuation plans for Saigon, now under attack from three sides.

"I don't want to see American military intervention, and I think there is more time in Saigon to bring about a more gradual evacuation," he said. He said it should be begun without further delay.

"Evidently it (the Cambodian evacuation) was well planned, well carried out, in comparison with Saigon which seems to be extremely slow," Mansfield said, saying an estimated 5,000 U.S. citizens are still in the South Vietnamese capital.

Meanwhile, a U.S. invitation to return to Phnom Penh to form a new government was turned down Saturday by former Cambodian Chief of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Sihanouk, who has been living in exile in Peking since his ouster in 1970, said Washington's invitation was contained in a note the chief of the U.S. Mission in Peking, George Bush, handed him.

Mansfield, who said he learned of the Cambodian evacuation by a telephone call from the White House while the operation was taking place, charged, "The United States is dragging its feet in Saigon."

He said there is "still time" to evacuate American contractors, their work forces and dependents, and military and embassy personnel without using military forces "to carry out an evacuation along the lines suggested in the President's speech Thursday night."

The Senate leader described the legality of using American forces to aid in evacuation efforts as a "fuzzy point," but added: "If you keep over 5,000 people there (in Saigon), that raises a most serious question, constitutional authority or otherwise."

Mansfield said he is certain that because of the lessons learned from the Tonkin Gulf resolution many members of Congress are reluctant to approve any language allowing U.S. troops to be used in South Vietnam.

"I think the lesson of the Tonkin Gulf Resolution will not be forgotten but rather remembered, and I don't think Congress will ever be caught in that situation again," he said.

The Montana Democrat skirted a question on the legality of Ford's Cambodian evacuation.

"The question is easier to answer because it was successful, so whatever doubts I may have had about Cambodia have not borne fruit."

He voiced concern over whether Ford could, on his own initiative, order U.S. forces to be used in an evacuation of Saigon without any approval from Congress although Ford specifically asked Congress to give him "clarification" on that point in his Thursday night speech.

"That is a question which I am sure will be taken up in the Foreign Relations Committee this week," he said.

The committee has scheduled a Monday meeting, and Mansfield indicated the use of American military personnel in any future Southeast Asian evacuations will be a prime topic of concern.

Siller Beef ... Future Up in Air

KINGSTON As workmen were laid off and the "last" deliveries of meat were made to area butchers institutions and restaurants Friday, the future of Kingston's Siller Beef Company, on the area scene for 75 years, lay in the balance.

Last week's announcement was made that Okuraya Daves International Inc., the parent company, had filed bankruptcy but that one of the subsidiaries, Siller Beef, was not affected. It made sense because Siller has always been a going concern, operating a wholesale meat plant and fabricating high quality beef selling to most major institutions in the area.

But that was last week and now the picture has changed, according to Louis M. Siller, chairman of the board, who said that he is operating on an hour-to-hour basis, awaiting word from the parent company, Daves, which is trying to work things out with the First National City Bank.

Area meat buyers were hopeful, however, that in spite of the problems Daves is experiencing financially that Siller Beef will be able to pull out and reorganize on its own.

Siller himself said simply, "I don't know ... meat could arrive for delivery tomorrow or next week, but, I don't know," he repeated.

It was announced April 6 that among the factors in the bankruptcy decision were the residual debt left by the sale or liquidation of the company's unprofitable subsidiaries including Trunz Meat Company, Mon-Ark Shrimp Corporation, Big-O Hamburger Company, and Land Guild Ltd. Substantial portions of debt left by these terminated subsidiaries were guaranteed by Okuraya Daves.

At that time Frederick M. Kerr, newly elected president of Daves, explained that the energy crisis and poor weather affecting resort activities were contributing factors to the company's present financial plight. Subsidiary food operations, according to Kerr, also suffered greatly as a result of high food prices on the wholesale and retail levels, together with buyer resistance and substantially reduced sales.

Mount Snow in Southern Vermont, another Daves sub-siary, one of the largest and most popular ski and four-season resorts in the United States, was also not involved in the bankruptcy, according to Kerr's statement of April 6. Among its numerous facilities are 14 ski lifts, three hotels, six restaurants and an 18-hole championship golf course.

It was in June 1970 that Siller announced that after 70 years as a privately-owned concern, Daves had acquired 100 percent of its stock but that Siller would continue to operate as an independent company within the Daves corporate structure.

Siller said at that time that the merger would allow the company to secure additional capital from the parent company for contemplated expansion of facilities.

JFK Slaying ... Growing Web of New Disclosures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A spreading stain of suspicion that John F. Kennedy might have been the victim of a plot involving the Central Intelligence Agency has aroused President Ford's curiosity and stirred new excitement among advocates of the conspiracy theory.

"If I were a betting man," says trial lawyer Bernard J. Fensterwald, "I'd bet the full story will be known within a year."

"A year? I'm surprised at Fensterwald," said Dr. Richard Popkin, a philosophy professor at Washington University in St. Louis. "I'd make it six months."

Both men have noticed in recent months a growing web of unrelated disclosures, events and allegations which they believe will provoke the first serious re-examination of the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone as Kennedy's assassin in Dallas.

President Ford, who was a commission member, also apparently noticed the resurgence of interest in the circumstances of Kennedy's death, particularly when the CIA was mentioned.

Some time in March, the White House said, Ford looked up the precise language of the Warren Commission's findings which he had helped write. So, when he got a surprise question about the matter April 3 at his San Diego, Calif., news conference, Ford was prepared.

He defended the commission's "very carefully drafted" statement that "we had found no evidence of a conspiracy, foreign or domestic," but he did not dismiss the possibility. "So far, I have seen no evidence that would dispute the conclusions to which we came," he said.

But "if the facts seem to justify it," Ford said, the Rockefeller commission and the special House and Senate committees investigating CIA domestic activities might investigate.

An 'Amazingly, Rapid Buildup' Of Interest

Fensterwald, a dapper little Tennessean whose clients have included Watergate burglar James W. McCord Jr. and James Earl Ray, said he believes something big is about to break in the Kennedy case.

"I have the same feeling I did about Watergate, the feeling the game was up," when McCord broke his silence with a letter to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica charging high-level political pressures to cover up the scandal.

"There's just too much evidence around that the Warren report is not correct, that the CIA and the FBI both know a huge amount they didn't tell the Warren Commission," Fensterwald said.

But neither the Rockefeller commission nor Congress seems to share his sense of urgency.

The executive director of the Rockefeller commission, David Bellin, is a former Warren Commission counsel and staunch defender of the single-assassin argument. A spokesman said: "No evidence has been submitted to indicate any CIA involvement."

The Senate committee staff has acknowledged it will study the question, but only as a peripheral CIA issue.

Fensterwald believes the trigger for what Popkin called the "amazingly rapid buildup" of interest in the Kennedy case — the equivalent of a McCord letter — was disclosure of CIA involvement in assassination plots against several foreign heads of state, including Cuba's Fidel Castro.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., who has called for a new inquiry, says his suspicions were aroused by Watergate revelations of CIA activities and the Bay of Pigs.

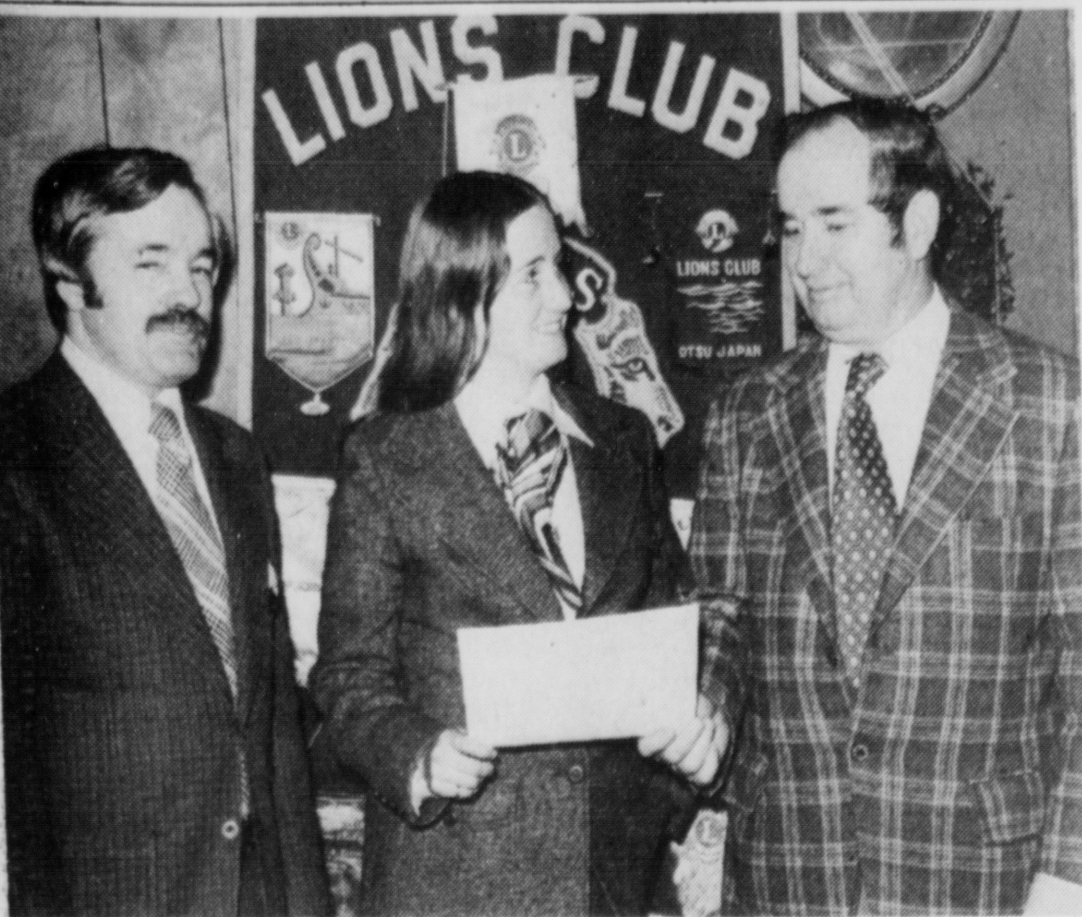

"I don't think there was anybody out at Langley, Va., (CIA headquarters) who set up Kennedy," he said, "but like Watergate I think you've got two problems. Shooting the President is a lot more serious than breaking into Democratic headquarters, but covering up who is responsible for it is more serious."

Another Freeman 'First'

KINGSTON Another "first" is on tap for readers of the Sunday Freeman in today's issue.

A 12-page tabloid, under the sponsorship of Rondout National Bank, the locally owned full service bank with main offices at Broadway and Henry Street, is included in today's publication produced in three-color, plus black and white on both sides.

This First annual Rondout National tabloid was put together on behalf of area automobile dealers associated with the local banking institution.

Not only is it the first time a bank has ever sponsored a tabloid for automobile dealers, but the special three-color makeup also is a "first" as far as the Freeman is concerned.

Donovan Advertising of Stanfordsville, handling the advertising for Rondout National Bank in this special tabloid, hailed the Freeman's participation, saying the Freeman is the only newspaper in the area to have the capabilities of offering the special three-color product on both sides of the same page. Included in today's tabloid is an introductory page giving information on trade-ins as well as other data promoting the various auto dealers included in the tabloid.

Salient information about personnel comprising the dealers includes the oldest auto dealership in the county — James J. Dargan of Saugerties and Kingston Chrysler-Plymouth — celebrating its fifth anniversary of business in the Kingston area.

Development Plan Lauded

KINGSTON The Central Broadway Businessmen's Association has thrown its support to the city's $1,359,000 Community Development program, as submitted.

"The Central Businessmen feel we've got a very workable program that's been set up by the city," Glenn Fitzgerald, president of the merchant's group, told the Freeman following the CBA's regular monthly meeting last week.

The city's Community Development program has come under considerable fire from the Ulster County Community Action Committee which has written the federal government with a request that all approvals be withheld until Community Action can come up with alternative recommendations.

Specifically, Community Action opposes what it considers an emphasis (about 40 percent of the funds) on recreation, pinpointing its criticism at the city's plans to spend $375,000 for rehabilitation of the Municipal Auditorium on Broadway. Community Action wants more money put into housing. Fitzgerald termed the city's plan, submitted to the federal government on March 26, "a livable situation."

"Actually, a third of the money is going for Central Broadway and the rest is going downtown," Fitzgerald said. "We support the city's original plan."

Fitzgerald warned that delays could jeopardize the entire plan. "If it's held up now we could lose the money that's coming to the city and if that happens we could be in the same situation we were before," he said.

Fitzgerald rejected the argument that the city needs more housing. "We've got enough housing," he said. "They've got housing all downtown."

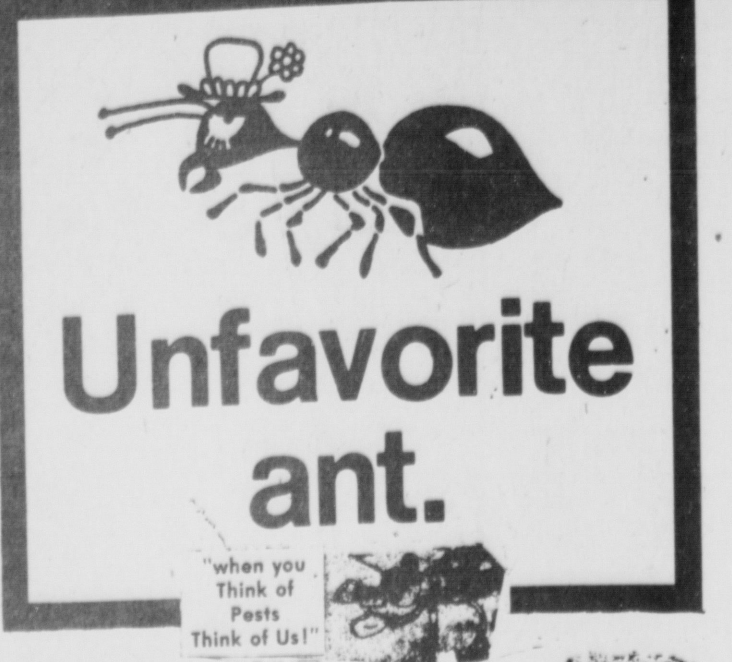

The city's Community Development plan allocates almost $480,000 for new and rehabilitated housing. However, it does not specify where it will be built other than a general reference to the need in the midtown area. Community Action wants specifics. Fitzgerald also defended the decision to spend $375,000 for the auditorium, in the context of the overall plan. "We don't think the city's plan should be jeopardized for $375,000," he said.

An ad hoc committee from Community Action meets with Mayor Francis R. Koenig on April 16 at 2 p.m. The businessmen meet May 12 at the American Legion hall on West O'Reilly Street where they will host Superintendent of Public Works Charles J. Cole.

City Planner Robert E. Pritchard will be at the June 2 meeting of the businessmen. All meetings start at 8 p.m.

Special Medallion for the President

STONE RIDGE

Members of the Ulster County Community College (UCCC) Alumni Association will present president Robert T. Brown with a specially engraved medallion at his April 26 inauguration as UCCC's third president.

The alumni association has commissioned Kurt Matzdorf, a professor of gold and silversmithing at New Paltz State University, to design and make the distinctive medallion.

Following presentation of the medallion to Brown at the inauguration ceremonies, it will be placed on permanent display in the president's office at the college.

The presentation of the medallion was announced at a recent meeting of the UCCC Board of Trustees.

"The alumni association takes great pride in being able to provide the medallion for this important event at the college," said association president Keith Jordan, "we are pleased to have it used for the investiture of President Brown, who has given great support to our alumni association."

Mrs. George F. Bushnell, chairman of the UCCC Board of Trustees, said the alumni association's "assistance is greatly appreciated and is indicative of the support the alumni association has been giving to the college."

Matzdorf, according to Jordan, has created medallions for similar purposes for a number of colleges and universities. He has been a silversmith for 22 years.

The medallion designed for UCCC consists of the college seal with the shield in the center raised and gold-plated. The entire piece — four-and-a-half inches in diameter — is made of sterling silver.

Schuler Seeks Project Aid

WASHINGTON, D.C. State Transportation Commissioner Raymond T. Schuler was in Washington last week fighting for advancement of such vital state transportation improvements as the Kingston Arterial, delayed by conflicting Federal Court interpretations concerning who should prepare environmental impact statements (EIS) for the projects.

In testimony before a congressional subcommittee, Schuler said many projects were at a complete standstill because of a Federal Court ruling, applying only to the states of New York, Vermont and Connecticut, that the EIS must be prepared by a federal agency alone. Five other U.S. Circuit Courts have ruled otherwise, however. To date, federal procedures have required the states to prepare the EIS.

Schuler urged congressional action to clarify responsibility for preparation of EIS so that the logjam of needed projects in New York can be broken.

As an example of the delays, Schuler commented: "In my hometown of Kingston, urban renewal was undertaken in conjunction with a planned arterial. But the draft environmental impact statement for the arterial was not processed, the urban renewal program was stopped in its tracks.

"No matter what progress we were able to achieve, the Court decision wipes it out and returns projects to the starting line," he said.

Schuler testified that the court ruling affecting New York is blocking nearly $1.3 billion worth of "urgently needed" highway construction and improvement planned in the state over the next two years. During a longer span, it could affect projects amounting to $3.3 billion on which the State has environmental work in progress.

"In these days of recession, he said, 'the decision means 122,000 construction jobs; it means 300,000 jobs in all industries and businesses. It also means the waste of millions of State and Federal taxpayer dollars for studies and reports which will have to be repeated.'"

The Commissioner testified before the U.S. House of Representatives Sub-committee on Fisheries and Wildlife Conservation and the environmental impact statements required by the National Environmental Policy Act.

The Commissioner read for the record a letter by Governor Hugh Carey to the House Committee on Public Works and Transportation in which the governor said "I strongly recommend relief for the intolerable situation created by the court decision. The $30 million Kingston North-South Arterial has cleared all local approvals. County Legislator Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist 8) recently issued the county's stamp of approval in urging construction of the road.

God asks you to give more than thanks.

The God we thank for the many blessings we have is the very same God who asks us to love and help our neighbors. "But there's nothing I can do," you say, "I am just one person." Then join with others at your synagogue or church. Together, you can accomplish wonders.

Like the congregation in Montana that found a lack of adequate housing for senior citizens. Today, these needy people have a new, non-profit place to live and be thankful for. But the congregation also has more to be thankful for than ever because they took collective and effective action.

Or consider the religious group in Atlanta that helps move families and elderly persons who can't afford a moving service.

Will New York Become Another Newark? . . .

NEW YORK — (LENS) — Despite New York City's size and wealth and status as the country's cultural and financial center, it is in financial peril, seemingly on the brink of bankruptcy.

During the past year it has been borrowing so frequently that its obligations now make up fully 25 percent of the country's outstanding municipal securities. Bankers are increasingly reluctant to handle more of its offerings, except at interest rates far above those other municipalities must pay to borrow. Moreover, there is little relief in sight. Abraham Beame, the doughty and elderly (68) mayor who first took office 16 months ago, is finding it extremely difficult to balance the city's present $11-billion budget. The new financial year that begins in July will be worse; outlays of $13 billion are forecast.

Although the city's plight has been exacerbated by the recession, most of its problems are of its own making. Traditionally, New York has tried to do too much for its people. It has its own college and university complex and its own housing and hospitals, and has helped to finance an impressive range of social services. But the ability to pay for all this has been deteriorating.

Lately inflation has taken a toll, but the city's tax base has been eroding for years as a result of the flight of the more affluent to the suburbs and the loss of commercial and industrial firms to more favorable economic environments.

During the past five years the city has lost over 300,000 jobs, and well over 10 percent of its work force is now unemployed.

Without a revival in business activity, it is estimated that 15 percent of the population will be receiving billions. Even more alarming, its short-term borrowings of less than a year, have gone from $747 million to almost $6 billion.

more costly for the city to market its debt.

New Yorkers are already the most highly taxed Americans. In addition to federal and state levies, they pay an 8 percent city sales tax on consumer goods and a local income tax of up to 3.5 percent. Resident property owners are taxed at close to 7.5 percent of assessed valuation (Beame is proposing over 8 percent for next year) and pay many other charges and fees.

Most authorities fear that fresh increases will lead to a renewed exodus of business and middle income residents. Even black and Puerto Rican spokesmen, who formerly threatened turmoil unless their demands for assistance to their communities were met, fear that New York could become another Newark.

A drive has now been mounted to reduce the city's responsibilities. Mayor Beame has announced that he will shut down a number of day-care centers, reduce fire, police and sanitation services, increase the size of classes in the city's schools and raise teaching loads in the city's university system. These demands have understandably encountered opposition from trade union leaders, who believe that they have the political power to resist the sacrifice of any of the big gains that they won under Lindsay.

In fact, they are agitating for a new round of wage increases to keep pace with inflation. Even if Beame yields, the city will be unable to pay them.

The state, under Governor Hugh Carey, has provided some additional money to help subsidize the city's flat fare on public transport but the state itself is hard pressed. Beame feels that the state should bear all of New York's costs that it shoulders for the other municipalities in the state. For example, public assistance and the criminal justice system are essentially state activities. But the city has committed itself to far more services than the state would ever contemplate.

Now time has run out. Beame has pledged that the city will somehow meet its obligations, although it will take continued resort to fiscal legerdemain to do so and, almost certainly, a confrontation with union leaders. Their rank and file may be more sympathetic of it is evident that the survival of the city is at stake.

Cities In Trouble .

New York and Atlanta

public assistance next year.

Because expenses have been under-estimated and revenues overestimated, the city has had to borrow to meet operating costs. Since 1968 its long-term indebtedness has tripled to $1.5

This means that the city must devote an increasingly large proportion of its income to servicing its debt. Last week Standard and Poor's suspended New York's credit rating making it harder and

Atlanta's Promise On Trial

ATLANTA — (LENS) — Early risers in Atlanta's Marriott Motor Hotel sometimes come down to the dining room to find the city's corrupt mayor already shoveling down a generous breakfast before setting off for a hard day's work at city hall. Fourteen months after taking office as the first black mayor of a major southern city, Maynard Jackson's appetite for bacon and eggs and grits is considerably heartier than his popularity among the citizens of Atlanta.

A couple of years ago it was toasted as "the world's next great city"; today Atlanta is grappling with the problems of rapid expansion hotly followed by rapid recession, and the mayor is getting the blame for the way the fight is going.

The grumbles and accusations have recently become so intense that they have threatened to shatter the self-confidence and strong sense of civic pride that have incubated Atlanta's lusty growth.

The city's success in recent years had become legendary, and the legend nurtured greater success. Atlanta's early role as a center of transport blossomed in the 1960s and early 1970s.

Its airport became the second busiest in the United States, offering excellent communications to all parts of the country, and so helping to bring prosperity to the city. With prosperity came the offices of most major American companies, whose employees were drawn too by the exciting architecture of the city center and the pleasantly wooded character of the residential areas. A baseball team that included Hank Aaron, the game's greatest practitioner and a fine symphony orchestra were additional attractions.

But probably the main factor in Atlanta's astonishing growth was its history of harmonious race relations. The existence of a group of black colleges including Morehouse and Atlanta University had enabled blacks to climb the educational ladder more easily than in other parts of the south. Once educated, they found it easier to get jobs, if not in the south then elsewhere.

The resulting lack of tension was reinforced by the attitudes of a fringed newspaper editor, Ralph McGill, an unusually liberal chief of police, Herbert Jenkins, and a succession of progressive mayors. One of these, William Hartsfield, described Atlanta as a city "too busy to hate," a slogan which held the key to Atlanta's success, for those who ran the city were businessmen who realized that race riots were bad for business.

In 1969, however, control of the mayor's office slipped from the business community with the election of Sam Massell, a Jewish liberal who built a coalition of white and black voters to defeat the businessmen's candidate.

At the same time it became clear that the racial composition of the city was changing rapidly. By 1973 the city's registered voters were evenly divided between the races, and as deputy mayor the 35-year-old Jackson had little difficulty in winning that year's mayoral election.

He did so with the support not just of the black community but also of many white liberals and white businessmen. But in the past year he has antagonized almost all of them.

The first of Jackson's plans to go wrong was a bungled attempt to sack the police chief, John Inman, who was considered racist. Having given him his notice, it emerged that the mayor had no power to do so. Ignominiously, Jackson could only superimpose a "public safety commissioner" above Inman's head.

More serious are the charges that the mayor is either hostile or indifferent to the cares of the business community. These charges were made most forcefully in the autumn when a group of businessmen and property owners called Central Atlanta Progress wrote to Jackson giving warning that some firms were contemplating leaving the city center because of worries about crime and racial tension and the "perceived attitude of the mayor as anti-white."

Since then both the mayor and the chamber of commerce have gone out of their way to assure everyone that everything is just fine, and that no division between them exist. Ivan Allen, president of the chamber of commerce, recently said that "Atlanta's business community is committed to the continued strength of the central core, more than is true in any other city in America. The business community has no intention of deserting Atlanta."

Jackson is still in his own words, "The youngest, fattest, blackest mayo in Atlanta's history"; he can still engender awe and admiration with his silver-tongued oratory; and he can still display a sense of humor by clambering into the boxing ring with Muhammad Ali, as he did two months ago in order to promote black business in Atlanta. But for a nice guy with good intentions he seems to have lost a lot of friends in just one year.

Many of the charges against him are unreasonable. It is certainly true that he has been administratively unpolished and po-

Self-Serving Secrecy Clouds Firemanic Issue

FREEMAN HEADLINE—"Secrecy surrounds Firemanic Meeting."

One of the more amusing aspects of the big hush surrounding the on-going problems with the city's fire departments is that a good many people, on both sides, are convinced that part of the problem, if not the main problem, is press coverage of the problem.

The converse to that intriguing theory is that if "the press" (and by that, they mean, "the media") would just leave things alone why then the firemen and those that have responsibility over them could work things out.

Fact of the matter is that left alone (by the press) things did not get better, simply because the Koenig Administration, despite severe prodding from a number of important parties—both sides of the dispute and more than a few aldermen—took the same do nothing position.

To be sure, the mayor now likes to give the impression that he's been on top of the situation and that he has acted decisively. He suggests the problem goes back only three or four months and that now that he has a full fire commission he can get to work on it.

The mayor hopes his listener doesn't or know or forgets that the mayor appoints the fire commission and that if it is lacking members members it's nobody's fault but the mayor's. Fact of the matter is, is, Mort Finch's term expired on Dec. 31, 1974 leaving the mayor with two appointments, thanks to the Council's agreeing to his request for an extra commissioner. The mayor didn't fill the first vacancy until February. He didn't fill the second one until March.

We're going to be generous and say this (public) controversy between the paid and the volunteer firemen goes back only a year. And that's generous: the differences between the departments was an issue in the mayoral 1973 campaign.

Most of those close to the situation figured Koenig would go to work on it during the "off year" which is to say last year.

There were meetings, but Koenig wasn't directly involved. Alderman-at-Large Bob Gallo chaired separate sessions with aldermen and volunteers and with aldermen and paid men.

Nothing much came of the meetings but the groundwork was laid for what everyone hoped would be "the big meeting" with the mayor presiding.

"The big meeting" as reported in the Freeman, didn't come off until April 7, 1975.

The mayor is one of the people who would have liked to keep this whole thing under wraps. Witness his press ban and his refusal to comment on any of the goings-on at the meeting of the 7th.

And if the truth is known, Bruce McLean's real "cr-ime" wasn't in speaking out against Koenig but in speaking out on a problem grown far too serious primarily because it had been far too long ignored. Press coverage revealed that.

Maybe if the firemen took a good look at the situation they now find themselves in they might decide (the Administration never would) that a "cloak of secrecy" isn't all that comforting; that the real enemy isn't the press.

COMMUNITY ACTION—Somewhere around three weeks after the fact, sides are beginning to be taken on the city's Community Development Program.

The Community Action people, working out of Rondout, are raising questions on the city's priorities, noting that around 40 percent of the money allocated is going for recreation.

Up on Central Broadway, the businessmen, who've had their differences with the Koenig Administration, are with him all the way on this one.

We like the idea of public policy being aired publicly, although in this case, it seems to be well after the fact, since the city submitted its plan for state review near the end of February.

We do wonder, though, why the Community Action

Committee, working for the past ten years in the shadow of some of the most outrageous slums in the Hudson Valley, didn't come up with something more substantive at the two public hearings held in January.

True, Sam Wilson, at the time, president of the Rondout Advisory Board, spoke in general terms about conditions "downtown" and threw his support to the SCORE concept, but it seems to us that a social agency with a budget in the tens of thousands yearly for a decade, should have more to offer by way of concrete proposals. From what we can gather, Community Action's input into the city's Community Development Program is just about zero.

Community Action people defend themselves, when confronted with this apparent contradiction, by decrying the "absolute secrecy" at city hall surrounding the program.

We're no stranger to secrecy at city hall, but the fact is, there were stories in the Freeman in December announcing the fact that Kingston would get $5.4 million over the next five years.

We do feel they've got a legitimate gripe about the city's priorities. Recreation is dandy but there are much, much higher priorities in this town.

Or as one man put it at Wednesday's seminar on the subject: "How many people can sleep in a park?"

GOODBYE ANGELA—Angela Davis, who's usually described as a "self-avowed Communist militant" won't be coming to New Paltz College the first week in May after all.

The first week in May, for those who follow the red flag, is perhaps the most important week of all on the Communist calendar, beginning with "May Day," May 1st.

And so, Ms. Davis has apparently found more important places to be than New Paltz.

Now, there are some that have the idea that Ms. Davis "backed off" due to the opposition of State Senator Richard Schermerhorn.

With all due respect to the senator, we don't think that's the case at all. It was simply a case of scheduling.

The same people might also believe that Schermerhorn shaved off his beard in preparation for his debate with Angela. The beard, that argument goes, made the super Conservative senator look "too liberal."

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

Joseph Warren:

"We profess to be [the King's] loyal and dutiful subjects, and, so hardly dealt with as we have been, are still ready, with our lives and fortunes, to defend his person, family, Crown, and dignity. Nevertheless, to the persecution and tyranny of his cruel Ministry we will not tamely submit. Appealing to Heaven for the justice of our cause, we determine to die or be free."

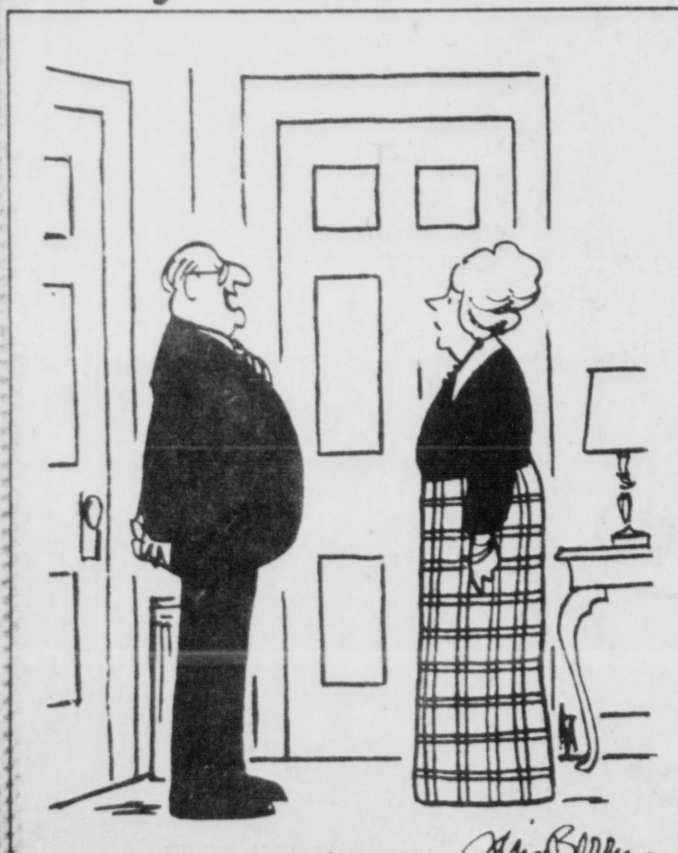

— By Ross Mackenzie and Jeff MacNelly.

Undoing the Damage

Despite assurances by the Ford Administration to our allies around the world that America intends to stand by all of its commitments, some uneasy doubt is prevailing the thinking of those governments. What is presently occurring in South Vietnam is being portrayed by our government as a happenstance that is unique in character and unlikely to repeat itself. The dissolution of President Thieu's fighting units before the onslaughts of a more heavily armed, better disciplined army from the north, it is argued, was inevitable once Hanoi's leaders realized that the threat of renewed bombing by the United States had dissipated due to a neo-isolationist mood that is affecting both the Congress and the majority of our people. What the State Department and key officials in the government are now attempting to do is convince the Australians, the Latin Americans, the Israelis and members of NATO that America's word is still her bond not withstanding some dents caused by the Vietnamese debacle.

Fortunately, our Western European allies are not dreadfully distressed by the American turn-about in Southeast Asia. Leaders in France, Italy and West Germany had long ago written off the American involvement in Vietnam as a lost cause, the sooner abandoned the better. Even the Israelis, who are most dependent upon America's support in their battle for national survival, are not unduly alarmed, feeling that the United States, both because of moral bonds and internal pressure, will never cast off its ties with Jerusalem. Russia, for fear of damaging the delicate detente currently in effect with the United States, has not sought to overly capitalize on the American fall from grace for propaganda purposes. But all in all, it will take a convoluted effort by Dr. Kissinger and his mates to keep at a minimum the damage done to the prestige of this nation.

"Guess what! Today a young man at the office called me a mover and a shaker!"

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—In secret testimony before the Rockefeller Commission, Watergate burglar Frank Sturgis has confessed that he was involved in several CIA assassination plots.

But he has emphatically denied charges that he was in Dallas on the day President Kennedy was shot or that he had anything to do with the Kennedy assassination.

Sturgis offered to take a lie detector test if the commission had any doubt that he was telling the truth. No polygraph test, however, was administered.

Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt, who was also called before the commission to answer the same charges, delivered similar denials that he was linked in any way to the tragic events in Dallas.

Questioned for two days by senior counsel Robert Olsen, Sturgis described assassination plots in Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti and Panama. He had participated in the plotting against leaders, both high and low, in all these countries, he testified.

The conspirators included persons he knew to be connected with the CIA, he said. His own role had been limited to helping "set up" assassination attempts. He had never taken part in any actual murders, he swore.

All the assassination plots, he explained had been aimed against foreign leaders, none against American citizens. Most of the attempts had failed, he said, although he was involved in the advance work that led to the successful assassination of Dictator Trujillo in the Dominican Republic.

Sturgis described Cuba as the "hub" of assassination schemes. He personally had participated in plots, he said, against several Cuban leaders from Fidel Castro on down. Sturgis had been one of Castro's commanders after the takeover of Havana. During this period, Sturgis claimed, he had reported to a CIA contact in the U.S. embassy.

The special commission, headed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, is examining "evidence" which allegedly links Sturgis and Hunt to the Kennedy assassination. The chief exhibit is a picture of two vagrants resembling Sturgis and Hunt, who were picked up in Dallas after the assassination.

Upon close examination, the picture of the man who is supposed to be Sturgis does not resemble him in some important details. The relative height of the two men in the picture also doesn't correspond to the actual height of Sturgis and Hunt.

Nevertheless, Counsel Olsen cross-examined Sturgis closely about the Kennedy assassination. Had Sturgis ever been in Dallas, Olsen asked. Yes, Sturgis acknowledged, "several times."

Had he been there on the day of the assassination, asked Olsen. No, said Sturgis, he has spent the day at his home in Miami. As witnesses, his wife, nephew and mother-in-law could place him in Miami on that day, he testified.

Had he gone to Dallas on the day before the assassination, Olsen demanded. Sturgis replied with a flat "No."

Had he ever visited the assassination site, Olsen pressed. Again Sturgis said he had not. Then he offered to take a lie detector test and answer questions about both the Kennedy assassination and his involvement in CIA assassination plots.

Sturgis also denied that he had anything to do with the assassinations of Robert Kennedy or Martin Luther King. He was questioned, too, about reports that the Watergate burglars had broken into the Chilean embassy in Washington. Sturgis denied that he had ever participated in the burglary of the Washington embassy but volunteered that he had once broken into the Chilean embassy in Havana.

By William F. Buckley Jr.

President Ford is so good-natured, it probably doesn't occur to him that invidious thoughts get thought by quite average people when ever so lightly provoked. That, really, is the philosophy of such "reforms" as total disclosure, conflict of interest laws, and such-like things. We are often encouraged to conclude that anything done by a politician is done for purely demagogic purpose, anything by a businessman, purely to nourish his greed. Freud endowed us with a scientific vocabulary metaphorically useful for tracing all of men's actions to impulses apparently extrinsic to the actions themselves.

I don't see why the President shouldn't play golf. In fact, I see many reasons why a President should play golf. Exercise, in my own case, is among the very few things I loathe so much, I force myself to do it. In President Ford's case it is happy that he not only needs exercise, but enjoys it.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Sturgis and Hunt Deny Dallas Plot

Footnote: Both Sturgis and a spokesman for the Rockefeller Commission refused comment on Sturgis' testimony.

"The final report will speak for itself," said the spokesman.

PENTAGON PREDICTION: The Joint Chiefs expected President Nguyen Van Thieu to lose South Vietnam all along, although the great retreat was more sudden and spectacular than they had anticipated.

As far back as Feb. 1, 1972, we reported: "The secret estimate of the Joint Chiefs is that the ceasefire will break down and the Communists ultimately will gain control of all Vietnam."

"This would mean . . . that nine years of American dying have been in vain. For the U.S. Government has spilled the blood of 55,000 American boys and squandered 150 billion to prevent a Communist takeover of South Vietnam."

"One intelligence analysis suggests that a sporadic cease-fire, at least, should endure for several months . . . But once the Communist infrastructure has been rebuilt in the South, warns the analysis, the Communists will seek to end their long struggle for control of all Vietnam with a final military offensive.

"Secretly, the Joint Chiefs don't believe President Thieu can survive. He is preparing for the political ravages by tightening his military control over the country. This will make his regime even more unpopular with the people and, therefore, more vulnerable to Communist agitation."

"After Thieu has been weakened politically, Hanoi presumably will try to finish him off . . . The Joint Chiefs have grave doubts about the South Vietnamese army's ability to repel an offensive without massive American air and artillery support."

The Joint Chiefs more than two years ago predicted almost precisely what is happening.

Ford's Activities Lack a Decorous Approach

But to play golf on the same day that young men and old women are falling out of American airplanes at 1,000 feet because they can no longer cling to the undercarriage and would rather die than live under, a regime four American presidents promised they would never have to live under, is, if not intrinsically insouciant, at least apparently so.

Seventy million Americans, who get their news from Walter Cronkite or one of the other networks, saw, for several days, first television pictures of acute misery in South Vietnam, then pictures of Gerald Ford playing golf. The juxtaposition inevitably gives rise to the suspicion that Gerald Ford simply doesn't care. I am sure that this is not so. But the obligation of chief of state is not only to behave properly, but to avoid behaving in such a way as might give the wrong impression.

The President is fortunately situated in that he has a security staff that can protect his privacy. He is prob-bably the only man in the world who can actually ski alone: they will commandeer an entire mountain for him, which is more even than the Shah of Iran can achieve at St. Moritz, until he gets around to buying his own mountain. Why not use these privileges to buy this privacy: and to reaffirm what the Farmers once called a decent respect for the opinions of mankind?

No doubt the audiences of the world, having absorbed the ghastly juxtapositions, will notice also that Hollywood awarded the prize for the best documentary film of 1974 to a paean to the Viet Cong. And that when the announcement was made, at the Oscar-award ceremony, the spectators gave the producer an ovation, and he promptly seized the microphone and hailed the forthcoming "liberation" of South Vietnam. Perhaps Mr. Davis's next documentary will feature the heroic activities of Arafat and the Palestine Liberation Front. Will Hollywood then give him another Oscar, and will he then, to the thunder of applause, hail the forthcoming liberation of Palestine?

There is only one thing that saves America from absolute obloquy. It is our essential innocence. There is a real innocence in the naivete of Gerald Ford. But the world has a right, in the face of our staggering diplomatic and military ineptitudes, to expect from the President a sense of decorum that harmonizes with what ought to be the national mood: shame, compassion, and guilt.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Smart to be Born Rich

WASHINGTON — The size of the vigilante committees waiting back in his home state to hang Nelson Rockefeller seems to grow with every day that he's lionized down here as, variously, a statesman, and administrator or a bold and fearless innovator. The Rock's reputation for even minimal competency as a public official had several more large chunks cracked off of it when it became known that his huge, billion-dollar-plus Urban Development Corporation would not only have to default on its notes, but had no immediately visible way of meeting much of its bond obligations.

The Corporation, one of those heinous public bodies with a non-elected board and the power to condemn anything in sight, was meant to be an instrument which would plan, finance, build and operate a large variety of real estate ventures anywhere across New York State. The manner of this monster's creation was described in a recent Barron's editorial (March 3rd): "With the help of convicted cover-up artist John N. Mitchell, the then-Governor devised this tricky way around the will of the electorate, which, via referendum, had twice turned down blueprints for ambitious state-aided programs of public housing and urban renewal."

Rocky had sought to get around his state's constitutional limitations on debt before, but this time, as Barron's charges, the method of funding his grandiose agency was conspicuously reckless. The Corporation issued its bonds not on the basis of any specific piece of property, no specially designated revenues, but on a vague "moral" commitment. Don't weep too many tears. The banks that stand to lose upwards of hundreds of millions — nobody really can say — didn't have to buy these "moral obligation bonds." As has happened so often in the last few years, their greed decimated their business judgment, and they were swept up in a giant public-private real estate speculation which, if you don't like Vice President Rockefeller, you might call a state swindle or an officially sponsored Ponzi game.

Conventional Rockefeller haters regard the operation as a plot by the ex-governor's banker and union boss friends to make themselves rich. Brother David and the Chase Manhattan Bank's names are usually invoked. I confess I once looked at Rocky's monumental building programs in that light, but the information developed during his Vice Presidential confirmation hearings argues for modifying that judgment.

The two brothers aren't especially good businessmen. In banking circles David rates a mediocre passing grade for his governance of Chase Manhattan, so that if the Corporation was thought up as a high-class scam, the ripoff was botched. People who inherit pots of money often have reputations for brains only because they were smart enough to get themselves born rich.

The Corporation was begun in 1968, well after the news had come in from all over the country that urban renewal and publicly assisted housing had failed in its objectives and lost most of its popular support. That Rockefeller would go for the creation of a "super agency" at that point, when it was occurring to everybody else that public bodies of this kind are inoperable per se, is evidence of how much of touch, how much of a retrograde, old-line, social engineering-type liberal he is.

His vast make-everybody-happy, house-everybody-well corporation was a sure shot for bankruptcy before it had sold one of its now famously discounted bonds. To make certain that success eluded him, the man Rocky brought in to head the project had practically been run out of his last job in Boston, not only for piling up public debt, but for infuriating and frightening the populace with his bulldozers.

A brilliant governor, a governor who could lead, or at least recognize the need for new ideas, even if he couldn't think them up himself, would have realized it was time for a wholly different way of grappling with interrelated problems of housing, race, low income and community development. There are enough new ideas around, there were six years ago, but they're not to be found where Rockefeller customarily looks for his talent — among stylish media con men, foundation pussy cats and juiced-out university professors who wrote the last generation's influential books.

Nothing of the very little Rockefeller has said on this subject suggests he's capable of learning from experience. As his power and influence on President Ford strengthens, to that degree we can expect to see him push for new failures of his old ideas on a national scale.

No Obstacles

Editor: The Freeman

The writer of a letter to the editor in Wednesday's Freeman opposing the Women's Liberation Movement assumes that every woman who seeks a career or whose "ambition is to be an asset to her community and to herself" does so at the expense of her neglected children at home.

Not all women are in the same position as she. Not all women are married. Not all married women have children. Not all women have someone to support them. Many women become breadwinners because their husbands are unemployed, unskilled, ill or deceased, or because they just disappeared. Some women just can't stand children and do their offspring terrible damage emotionally (and sometimes physically as well) if they have to be a housewife/mother at home.

The writer of the above mentioned letter apparently has a husband to support her and children at home who keep her occupied and satisfied. May her goals be successful—the challenge of raising children as she describes is a great one. However, her goal should not prevent her from backing other women in support of the Equal Rights Amendment which assures that no person is discriminated against for reason of sex, other women who, for various reasons, compete in the business and professional world. They have goals, too, and the mere fact that they are women should not be an obstacle in reaching their goals.

"A calculated gamble" is what U.S. officials in Cambodia called the resumption of the U.S. military airlift to the tottering Lon Nol regime. The U.S. role, for many years has been committing acts of gangsterism trying to impose on the Cambodian people such corrupt and crooked leaders like Lon Nol and others.

First of all, our own proven crook, ex-president Nixon had been bombarding the Cambodians for over 5 years without the knowledge of our representatives or our people. It has brought the Cambodians great ruins and cost our people dearly. How far does the military industrial complex seek to push their gamble?

It's infamous that these fake leaders should be gambling mainly with taxpayers dollars and U.S. honor and prestige, and possibly again the lives of our youth. The Cambodians lost over 500,000 people, thousands are crippled, and millions of refugees have nowhere to go, fighting their unwanted bandits who sold their people and country to our CIA and our money making corporations.

The cambodian people have survived this living hell and are winning. We must demand that it's time we stop compelling compelling unwanted leaders on any other people, by they Cambodians, Vietnamese or Portuguese, as our CIA and Kissinger have done in Chile. We must mind our own business, then other people will start to love us again.

Our country is composed of people who ran away from slavery and persecution from tyrants of their original country of birth, and these people respect and love their new country. How blind are leaders that they can't see that the more people that are killed and tortured by us directly or indirectly, the more the people will hate us. In my estimate, our interference in other people's internal affairs is responsible for creating more communists. Before Nixon secretly started to bomb Cambodia, that country's people were neutral and tried to mind their own business. Now look at the Cambodian people, the Vietnamese and the rest of Indochina.

As long as fascism ruled and tortured the people of Portugal, our rulers were happy; now that the tables are turned, we raise hell. How many friends do we have today in Chile, after our CIA and Kissinger & Co. helped to impose on the democratic Chileans a regime of killers? Today's situation in Indochina should teach our leaders a lesson: that mixing in other countries affairs 10,000 miles away is costly, while we neglect the needs of our own here at home.

Handguns

Editor, The Freeman:

This letter is in reference to the recent ruling made by the Honorable Judge Feeney (Family Court Judge, Ulster County, N.Y.) pertaining to a three-gun limit to anyone owning a handgun permit. I feel this ruling is unjust.

Any owner of a handgun permit must submit to a rigorous investigation upon applying for this permit. Upon completion of this investigation he is then interviewed by the Judge while a Court Recorder takes down every word. This investigation and interview is just, yet I feel that because anyone who obtains a handgun permit is given such a thorough investigation that a personal ruling such as this three-gun limitation is unfair and should be overruled.

It is obvious that because a person receiving a handgun permit has had numerous background checks as to his legal standing he is not the type inclined to crime. If he were, he would rather use a weapon that could not be traced to him.

So it stands, the legal handgun owner is most likely using his handgun for personal protection or as a sporting gun. The problem with handguns is the unlawful use of them and I feel more strict enforcement of laws regarding illegal use would provide more of a solution to crime than, the continued oppression and harassment of those that have, and are in legal accord with such guns.

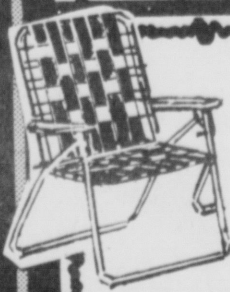

Please note . . . I feel the rights granted by the Second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America should be preserved for men to remain free.

Sincerely yours,
Robert J. Ragonese

Way of Death . . . County Report

KINGSTON

Of death we can be certain. But how we are to die is another question.

In 1974, 1,376 persons died in Ulster County with heart disease claiming 541 adult lives and accidents taking the most children. Two youngsters between one and four years of age died in accidents, six aged five to nine, 11 aged 10 to 19. And, the patterns continues through young adult life with 16 dying in mishaps between the age of 20 and 29—most of them automobile accidents.

There is a sharp trend the other way once a person reaches 30 or more with the number averaging between four and six a year through age 80.

The heart attack victims who succumbed to their disease last year were all 30 years of age or more with the largest number — 206 dying at 80 plus years. In the 70 to 79 age bracket heart disease claimed 172. The mortality rate then declines steadily in the younger years down to five who died of the disease between age 30 and 39.

The second greatest toll taker was cancer with the Ulster County Health Department reporting 204 deaths, two of which were children—one between the age of five and nine and the second between 10 and 19. No one aged 20 to 29 died of the disease but there were three deaths between 30 and 39; 13 between 40 and 49; 31 aged 50 through 59; 59 between 60 and 69; 61, aged 70-79 and 35 age 80 or more years.

One hundred and 93 persons died of vascular lesion, the third greatest cause of death while 142 died of "other causes."

Diseases of the circular system rank next with 88 deaths followed by 87 deaths due to pneumonia.

Altogether there were 61 accidents fatalities.

Suicide and cirrhosis of the liver took a like toll of 16 each. Death by their own hand can be attributed to two teenagers, three aged 20 to 29, one age 30 to 39; one age 40 to 49; three age 50 to 59 and three age 60 to 69. The rate then drops with one age 70 to 79 and two 80 or more years.

The liver disease began claiming lives of those 40 or more with the largest number—seven in the 50 to 59 bracket. Lowest on the scale are three nephritis deaths at advanced ages and two of diabetes in the 50 to 70 year decades.

Twenty babies between the age of birth and one month died and three between one month and one year. Of the youngest ones, four had congenital malformation, one, a birth injury; another accidental; seven because of prematurity and seven for "other causes."

Pneumonia, an accident and an "other" cause were given as the reason for the one month to one-year deaths.

There were 2,016 live births and 251 fetal deaths.

Of the 251 fetal deaths, 111 were induced by abortion and the remainder were natural occurrences.

Dr. Spock Slated For Paltz Lecture

NEW PALTZ

Dr. Benjamin Spock, well known child care expert and anti-war activist, will be featured speaker April 18 at the three day Mid-Hudson Workers' Conference at SUNY, New Paltz.

Author of "The Pocket Book of Baby and Child Care," Dr. Spock is an advocate of universal medical care.

Purpose of the conference, according to coordinators, is "to bring together all people affected by current economic conditions and to make them more aware of their political and economic power."

Other speakers scheduled are James Maties, an officer of the United Electrical Workers; and Joan McKiernan, a member of the Coalition of Labor Union Women.

Dr. Spock will speak that Friday at 7:30 p.m. in lecture center 100.

'Appleknockers' Caravan

KINGSTON The 26th annual "Appleknockers Sales Caravan" sponsored by the New York State Association of Life Underwriters goes on the road Tuesday, April 22, for a four-day, four-city series of educational conferences for life underwriters across upstate New York.

Starting at the Sheraton East in Buffalo on Tuesday, the Caravan will move to the Flagship Rochester at Rochester on the Wednesday, to the Sheraton Motor Inn at Syracuse on Thursday, and to the Hyatt House in Albany for the windup session Friday.

At each day's workshop meetings, life underwriters from surrounding areas will hear from a panel of nationally-known experts covering a wide variety of topics of prime interest and concern to life underwriters.

Educational subjects to be covered include improving personal business methods and service to insurance consumers, upgrading personal qualifications and abilities, participation in community activities, new and proposed laws and regulations affecting the insurance community and the consumer, and new insurance programs.

The speakers' panel will include Joseph J. Handy of Burlington, Vt., Vice President of the Vermont Association of Life Underwriters and agency manager for Metropolitan Life; Dan Krison of Chandler, Arizona, special agent for the Northwestern Mutual Life; Oscar L. Newton, Jr., of Houston, Texas, senior vice president and director of marketing of the American General Life Insurance Company and John W. Peterson, C.L.U., of Tulsa, Oklahoma, a life underwriter with the John Hancock Life Insurance Company and a former president of the Oklahoma State Association of Life Underwriters.

They will hear also from Joel A. Shapiro of East Rockaway, president of the New York State Association of Life Underwriters.

Credit Week Being Observed

KINGSTON "Credit... the family's financial lifeline" is the theme of Consumer Credit Week being observed locally today through April 19 under sponsorship of the Ulster Credit Management Association.

William Lounsbury, president of the local association of consumer credit executives announced that Richard Reno of Standard Furniture is general chairman of Consumer Credit Week plans.

The annual observance is designed to encourage the broadest use of consumer credit consistent with sound business principles and the welfare of the community. It aids in counseling and protecting consumers against going into debt beyond their ability to repay as agreed.

Lounsbury explained that members of the Ulster Credit Management Association who display the International Consumer Credit Association Seal of Integrity are pledged to comply voluntarily with ICCA's code of Ethics and all federal, state and provincial regulations. Part of this code is an obligation to counsel and protect consumers against going into debt beyond their ability to repay.

"By participating in this program, our members publicly reject the growing concept in many businesses that what is legal is also ethical," Lounsbury said.

chairman, other credit men and women on the committee are Richard Netter, Joy Stauss, John Gordon, Charity Mills and Tom Schmidt.

Information regarding the availability of credit executives to serve as guest speakers, or to conduct credit information programs for schools, church groups and other community organizations may be obtained by contacting Lounsbury at Bernie Singer Firestone.

Mustaparta Retires From Hercules

PORT EWEN Hercules Inc. has announced the retirement of George R. Mustaparta, currently the manager of manufacturing at their Port Ewen manufacturing facility. Mustaparta has been with Hercules for 38 years and has held various technical and managerial positions at seven of Hercules' locations.

A native of Lead, S.D. he was graduated from the South Dakota School of Mines in 1932 with a B.S. degree in chemical engineering. After obtaining an M.S. degree in chemical engineering from Iowa State University, he spent three years with the U.S. Army as an educational advisor to the CCC in several western states. During his Hercules career, he was assigned to the Port Ewen facility from 1939 to 1967 and returned again in June 1973.

As a recognized company expert in both safety and personnel he has made many important contributions toward employee welfare. He and his wife Jeannette will be moving to Camarillo, Calif., for his retirement, close to one of their three married daughters.

Works Manager Bevier H. Sleight Jr. presented a certificate from Hercules for Mustaparta's 38 years of service.

"A GRANDPARENTS GIFT"

If you are one of those proud persons known as a Grandparent and would like to be remembered forever by your grandchildren, then you might want to consider a permanent gift of life insurance to them. Unlike toys, clothes and candy, the life insurance gift is everlasting... as will be your remembrance.

Life insurance is a truly unique gift. First, you receive tax advantages. Second, your grandchildren receive a lifetime of security. For less than a thousand dollars a year, you can give your grandchildren (assume age 1) a policy for $100,000. And if you want, after 5 years, the policy can pay for itself. Not bad is it? For $5,000, a gift he will always remember you for.

Of Course, your gift can be in any dollar amount. The thought will be the same and your gift will be just as meaningful. It's a nice way to provide for a grandchild's future. Give me a call if you are interested.

System Aids Cash Management

NEW YORK CITY The Chase Manhattan Bank has introduced a new computer system to provide instantaneous information to corporate and institutional cash managers.

Called Cash Reporter, the system assists in the daily reconciliation of cash balances by providing corporate treasurers and correspondent bankers with early morning access to basic financial data needed to better utilize cash assets.

Cash Reporter prints out the current day's opening available balance, collected balance, ledger balance, float and descriptions of all debit and credit entries. With early access to this information the cash manager can quickly verify balances and take advantage of attractive investment opportunities, utilizing every available dollar.

Developed in conjunction with Interactive Data Corporation, a major supplier of timesharing services, Cash Reporter is the first in a series of computer terminal-based cash management products being designed by Chase.

Antique Dealers Organize

The first general membership meeting of the newly formed Antique Dealers Association of Ulster County will be held 8 p.m. Wednesday in the community room, First National Bank of Highland, New Paltz. Discussing plans are Jonathan Oseas (L), Lenny Price, Jack Whistance and Iris Oseas. A dealer directory is in preparation and will be issued for pre-summer distribution as a guide to the wide variety of antiques in the area. Interested dealers may attend the meeting. (Freeman photo)

Tri-State Planners Said Not to Have Involved Public

NEW YORK
The Tri-State Planning Commission — funded in part by the federal government — has been criticized for its apparent failure to seek

"the wide public understanding and support necessary for the successful implementation" of land use, housing and transportation planning programs.

Tri-State is partially responsible for regional planning programs in the New York-New Jersey-Connecticut metropolitan area, which includes Orange and Dutchess Counties in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

The criticism was included in a report prepared by the Regional Plan Association (RPA), which was commissioned by the Federal Regional Council to study Tri-State's activities.

RPA's report was based on interviews with some 75 public officials and civic leaders in the tri-state area. The interviews, it was stated, uncovered "almost universal criticism that (Tri-State) failed to deal with the principal development problems of the region and had avoided many specific issues which had been decided without Tri-State's advice."

Among the specific issues that Tri-State supposedly failed to deal with was the proposed expansion of Stewart Airport in Newburgh. Other issues, said the report, include the Rye-Oyster Bay Bridge, the Meadowlands development in New Jersey and a large Forest Hills housing project.

Indicating that Tri-State "has not done enough" in some of the critical planning areas that face the metropolitan region, the report states, "The condition of this region's cities, the air, the water, the profligate use of energy, segregation by race and income and age, the deterioration of public transportation, the ugliness along the highway, unnecessary building on cropland and flood plains all testify to the need for regional planning insights."

RPA suggested that Tri-State make a greater effort to involve itself in specific critical planning issues, and to actively promote and publicize planning programs.

S. William Green, chairman of the Federal Regional Council, said the report "confirms (its) observation . . . and gives us all a clear road-map toward improvement."

Member Supports Peake

Catskill Commission Head Defended

STAMFORD Mitchell Brock, a member of the Catskill Study Commission, has defended commission chairman Kirby Peake against criticisms leveled recently in a report compiled by the Task Force on the Environment.

Brock is a resident of New York City, and also has a home in Sullivan County. Peake lives in Bronxville, and works in New York City. Peake, in particular, has been criticized by some parties who claim he doesn't have a first-hand knowledge of or personal interest in the Catskills.

Brock, however, disagrees. "Kirby Peake did not agree to become chairman of the Temporary State Commission to Study the Catskills except from a desire to do some good for the area from which he has been released through the commissions's Stamford office. I feel that the indispensable role he has played as chairman has not been adequately recognized."

Brock continued, "I feel that much of the potential utility of our commission's report lies largely in some policies he was strongly instrumental in establishing from the start, namely, that ours was to be a non-partisan effort, that we were to seek maximum openness and accessibility, that every effort should be made to communicate our ideas and to meet with and explain our proposals to interested groups and that the economic aspects of our responsibilities were to be given high priority."

"I feel also that he was an exemplary chairman in his handling of all the commissioners and in his ability to draw from each what he or she had to offer."

Brock concluded, "I have, as do many others who are informed, great respect for the manner in which he has discharged his functions as chairman."

Main Work Upcoming

KINGSTON The Kingston Water Department will begin work on two major cleaning and rehabilitation projects in the uptown area beginning early next month.

The main project involves the cleaning and cement lining of some 15,000 feet of water mains in the Roosevelt Park area, including Charlotte Street, Jefferson Avenue, Harrison Street, Roosevelt Avenue, Kiersted Avenue, Manor Place, Wilson Avenue, Madison Avenue, Harding Avenue, Wrentham Street, Savoy Place and York Place.

The department plans to start work on that project the week of June 1 for conclusion the week of Aug. 1.

Pipes in that area are about 50 years old and due to rust and corrosion have had their carrying capacities reduced by about 40 percent. They will be cleaned, scraped and concrete-lined for a life expectancy of 100 years.

The annual cleaning of water mains from a vault on the Sawkill Road to a vault on North Manor Avenue at the intersection of Albany Avenue is set to begin around May 12. Some of the city's largest pipes — one 18-inch pipe and two 20-inch pipes — are involved. The department estimates it will take five days to complete the cleaning of the main lines.

A department spokesman said there may be some inconveniences caused by the work but there will be no interruption of service. Further information is available from the water department.

Mortgage Subsidy

WASHINGTON, D.C. A $12 billion mortgage subsidy bill intended to create about 400,000 new housing units is being supported by Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.) who said the bill would provide subsidies for middle income home mortgages with interest rates above six percent.

Gilman said the holder of the mortgage can elect to have the excess over seven percent subsidized for the life of the mortgage.

"This legislation is designed to help middle income families buy housing in the $38,000 to $42,000 range," Gilman said.

WHILE TOM WEISKOPF CELEBRATES (L), JACK NICKLAUS GRIMACES

History Is on Jack's Side

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus slipped to second place in the Masters, but it wasn't the end of the world. He has one big thing going for him in his attempt to catch and pass fellow Ohioan Tom Weiskopf, leading him by a single shot, and that's the memory of what happened only two weeks ago in the Heritage Classic at Hilton Head, S.C.

right. I just missed all my putts, that's all. As far as I'm concerned, I played reasonably well. I thought the wind was a considerable factor. "Look at it this way: I started the round with a five stroke lead (over Arnold Palmer, Tom Watson and Billy Casper). I'd say 29 out of 30 times it would hold up.

This time it didn't. Tom played a tremendous round of golf, and you have to give him credit for that." —Nicklaus actually has Weiskopf right where he wants him —directly in front of him where his first-place presence serves as a nerve-nagging reminder that Nicklaus will have to get moving if he figures on winding up with his fifth Masters' title.

"Jack likes the pressure," offered Dave Stockton, one of his fellow competitors here. "He isn't a good front-runner. I know that because he told me that himself once when we were playing in the World Series (of Golf) five years ago. "He was five-six strokes up and I came back to catch him. He eventually won, and after it was all over, he said 'thanks for putting the pressure on me. It makes me work harder.'"

In Saturday's round here, Nicklaus said he wasn't concentrating on either Weiskopf or Miller that much as he was on playing the course. "You can only do your own game," he said. Okay, but what about Sunday's round. Nicklaus shrugged.

Weiskopf Leads Masters As Nicklaus Stumbles

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus did something Saturday hardly anybody thought he would. He lost a five-stroke lead.

Just one day after he had been conceded a record fifth Masters championship by almost everybody else, Nicklaus found himself in second place.

He got there with some help from a friend, fellow Ohioan Tom Weiskopf, who shot a six-under-par 66 to move ahead by one stroke.

Nicklaus, five up on the field and six in front of Weiskopf when play started Saturday, had a 73, which was not all that bad.

"I'd say 29 out of 30 times it (the lead) would hold up," he said. "This time it didn't. Tom played a tremendous round of golf, and you have to give him credit for that."

Weiskopf, Nicklaus' former teammate at Ohio State, was one of the few people around Friday night and Saturday morning who did not think the tournament was over.

"All I need is one great round in the last two," he said before he started.

He got it.

Tall Tom made seven birdies and a lone bogey at the 360-yard third hole where he took three putts from 30 feet. He finally forged ahead by sinking a 15-foot birdie putt at the 420-yard 18th, and then thrust his putter skyward and did a little jump for joy for the national television audience.

The 66 was the best round Weiskopf, three times a runner-up here, has shot in eight appearances in the Masters.

"The way Jack was playing, I knew I couldn't afford to shoot a 72 or 73," he said.

What happened Saturday was almost a repeat of two weeks earlier.

That time Nicklaus took a six-stroke lead into the third round of the Heritage Classic at Hilton Head Island, S.C. Weiskopf caught him with a 68. But Jack won the shootout Sunday by three strokes.

"I sure hope," Weiskopf said wistfully, "it doesn't turn out like that again."

After 54 holes, Weiskopf, whose previous rounds were 69 and 72, stands at 207, nine under par.

Nicklaus, who started 68-67, is at 208.

Johnny Miller, the man who was supposed to be challenging, finally got his act together and shot the tournament's best round, a 65, to move into third place at 211.

"My game just needed inspiration," said Miller whose six successive birdies on the front nine beginning at the second hole set a Masters record.

Tom Watson was fourth at 72-212 and Bobby Nichols, the first round leader, and Billy Casper were at 213 following Saturday rounds of 72 and 73, respectively.

Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino headed a group at 215 and Gary Player, last year's winner, was at 219 and out of contention.

Palmer played with Nicklaus in the day's final twosome and the two all-time greats were followed by a gallery that quite possibly was the largest ever to watch one group play in a golf tournament.

Estimates of the Palmer-Nicklaus gallery, most of it, cheering lustily for Arnold, ranged to 25,000-plus. Veteran Masters-watchers said it was the biggest crowd they ever had seen but all the galleryites saw was Jack's 73 and Arnold's 75.

"Arnie's gallery wants him to beat me so badly, and my gallery wants me to beat him so badly, and I want to beat him so badly, and he wants to beat me so badly, that we wind up playing each other instead of playing the rest of the field," said Nicklaus.

"If Arnie and I went out to play and left everyone else at home, we'd probably do very well."

Nicklaus three-putted three times Saturday and made only one birdie putt of consequence, a 12-footer at the 12th hole.

Palmer described his round simply.

"I played lousy," he said.

Up in front of them, four groups ahead, Weiskopf and Nichols played in relative privacy.

Weiskopf rolled in a five-foot birdie putt at the second hole, an 18-footer at No. 6 and an 18-incher at the short par-five eighth hole for an outgoing 34.

He made a 30-footer for birdie at 10, got home in two and two-putted the 475-yard 13th for another bird and made 15-foot birdie putts at 16 and 18.

One thing Weiskopf learned Friday also helped him.

In the second round, he bogeyed both incoming par-fives, the second when he hit his second shot into the water in front of the 15th green.

"This time I played safe," he said. "I think I could have gone for the green but I decided to lay up."

Perhaps that approach seems a bit cautious for a man attempting to come from behind against the best golfer in the world.

There was no reason to panic, however, Weiskopf explained.

"I felt there was no reason, the way I was playing, that I couldn't birdie a couple of holes coming in," he said, and that was exactly what he did.

Rockets Oust Knicks From NBA Playoffs

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Rocket Rudy Tomjanovich, thrilled at his team's first round victory in the National Basketball Association playoff, Saturday said there was much more to it.

The sixth year Michigan player scored a game-high 25 points to direct a 118-86 win over the New York Knicks. Little Calvin Murphy scored 20.

"Our backs were against the wall," Tomjanovich said in a back-slapping locker-room scene, "and we were fighting for our respect, not just the money.

"You know they wouldn't put us on TV all year long because they didn't think much of us. What do you think they think now?"

Rockets' coach John Egan said every win in the second round of the playoffs was gravy now since the Houston team made post-season play for the first time ever.

"The guys played very well coming off the bench — especially Gus Bailey — and it was on TV too. We were ready," he said.

It was a Bailey-led group of Rockets' substitutes who provided a slim second quarter lead which Houston never relinquished.

Forward Tomjanovich scored 25 points and little Murphy hit 20 points leading the win in Houston's first playoff ever. But the story was the Rockets' clawing defense and the bench.

Bailey, a 6-6 guard from Texas-El Paso, and benchmates Steve Hawes, Ron Riley and Zaid Abdul-Aziz exploded for 14 of 22 Houston points during a seven minute stretch of the second quarter and held the Knicks to four.

Houston came back from a 32-36 deficit blowing to a 52-40 lead and an 11-point margin at halftime.

Coach John Egan sent the starters back in the lineup to start the second half, and they fired 66 per cent from the field in the third period widening the margin to as much as 22.

The game, the third in the best of three series to pick an opponent for the Boston Celtics, went outside the lane when centers John Gianelli and Houston Kevin Kunnert both got in foul trouble in trying to keep each other from scoring in the first half.

Houston led by only three at the first quarter break, but Knick guard Jim Barnett, who sparked his team's only playoff win Thursday, scored two quick baskets leading the way to the 36-32 New York lead.

Knick guard Walt Frazier scored 24 points in vain. Earl Monroe collected only 15, only four of them in the second half.

Mike Newlin and Ed Ratleff each chipped in 14 points for the Rockets. Abdul-Aziz added 12 and Bailey got 10.

Colbert Slams . . . Tigers Top Yanks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nate Colbert's grand slam homer capped a seven-run seventh inning Saturday which carried the Detroit Tigers to a 7-2 triumph over the New York Yankees.

Tiger rookie Vern Ruhle and the Yankees' Pat Dobson were hooked up in a scoreless pitching duel through six innings when Bill Freehan opened the Tigers' big inning with his first homer of the campaign.

Don Meyer then singled and stole second as Art James struck out. Tom Veryzer walked and Aurelio Rodriguez' sharp single to left loaded the bases. Graig Nettles fumbled Ron LeFlore's bouncer, allowing Meyer to score, and Gary Sutherland's sacrifice fly scored Veryzer and moved the other runners up a base.

Yankee manager Bill Virdon elected to intentionally pass designated hitter Willie Horton, setting the stage for Colbert's second homer of the season.

The Yankees scored their two runs in the bottom of the seventh, chasing Ruhle. With two out, Jim Mason walked and went to second on pinch hitter Walt Williams' single. Elliot Maddox' infield hit loaded the bases, and Lou Piniella singled to right scoring Mason and Williams.

John Hiller relieved and preserved the victory for Ruhle. Boxscore on page 18.

Catfish Felt the Pressure

By Ira Fusfeld

NEW YORK

Pete Sheehy, lord and master of New York Yankee clubhouses for half a century, must have figured he had correctly anticipated the arrival of Catfish Hunter at Shea Stadium when he left open the dressing cubicle to the immediate left of baseball's 3.75 million dollar right hander.

But even a man with Sheehy's years of experience had to be surprised by the heavy crush of media types surrounding Hunter's locker (Catfish himself wasn't there for 15 minutes while he soaked that expensive right arm) after The Cat's local debut, a 5-3 loss to Detroit Friday.

Surely Sheehy will be hearing from Hunter's "neighbors" Sparky Lyle, Doc Medich, Dave Pagan, and Mike Wallace if the scribes and microphone-toters continue to flock in record numbers. Hunter noticed.

"It's like a World Series here every day. In Oakland you might have only two or three writers talking to you."

Hunter's long-awaited appearance in pinstripes at Shea not only drew all the heavyweights from the New York press, but over 30,000 fans eager to see the Yanks' big off-season acquisition in action. Unfortunately, Catfish responded negatively to the pressure they created.

"I was a little nervous," he admitted. "I tried to bear down to get the guys out. I was trying to be a power pitcher instead of a control pitcher. It was almost like a playoff game for us, almost like do or die."

The result of the nervousness was Hunter's failure to get his breaking ball where he wanted it. The Tigers' Willie Horton and Nate Colbert put one each where they wanted it: right into the bullpen for two-run and three-run homers respectively, enough to send the Yanks and Hunter to defeat.

"They said it's tough to it homers here," Hunter joked. "I proved it isn't." Then he added, "the homers I give up usually don't hurt me. This time they did."

The other new glamour boy on the club, right fielder Bobby Bonds had a chance to bail Hunter out when he faced John Hiller with the bases loaded and no one out in the seventh. But Bonds fanned on a 3-2 pitch and Bob Oliver smacked into an inning-ending double play.

That put an end to the storybook ending the crowd had come to see.

Hunter's day wasn't entirely discouraging. He struck out leadoff man Ron LeFlore before a hit by Gary Sutherland and Horton's homer put him in a hole.

Then after Willie's four-bagger, Catfish found the groove the Yanks are paying for and he retired 13 straight men.

New York, meanwhile, took a 3-2 lead.

And following Hunter's shakey sixth during which he yielded Colbert's mighty three-run poke, Catfish again settled down and faced only 14 men over the last three and two-third innings.

His line for the game was five strikeouts, two walks, seven hits, five earned runs.

"You can't win them all, but all you can do is try," he cliched. "All I can do is go out and give 100 percent."

His next chance will be Tuesday afternoon against Boston. The Yanks, meanwhile, were losing their second straight and with Saturday's defeat making it three they remain the only team in baseball without a win.

"It's too long a season to get disheartened," smiled manager Bill Virdon. Maybe not disheartened, but definitely disappointed.

Bullets Romp

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Phil Chenier and Elvin Hayes sparked a Washington comeback that gave the Bullets a 120-106 victory over the Buffalo Braves Saturday night and squared their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference semi-final series at one game each.

Hayes scored 34 points, 11 in the final quarter, and Chenier tallied 23, 11 of them in the third period when the Bullets moved from a two-point half-time lead to take command at 84-75.

The Bullets got a dazzling game from burly center Wes Unseld, who scored 17 points and grabbed 25 rebounds. Hayes chipped in with 16 retrieves.

Boxing Returns To Kingston

KINGSTON Professional boxing, a pre-war sports fixture in Kingston, returns to the city after an absence of two decades on Friday, April 25, at the Municipal Auditorium.

Joe Garfield, a veteran New York City boxing figure for more than 30 years, has announced a card headed by John Griffin of Poughkeepsie, the 10th-ranked light heavyweight, against Harold Richardson of New York in the eight-round feature event.

The co-feature semi-final eight-rounder sends Jaybar Brown of New York, former Golden Gloves champion, against Ernie Lassiter of Jersey City.

Three welterweight bouts are scheduled, Garfield announced. Bob Stewart goes against Johnny Cousins in one of the six-rounders. The others pair Irish Pat Maloney of the Bronx against Don Maloch of Jersey City and Felix Perez of Puerto Rico against Ahmet Tosci, an import from Turkey.

Two four-round bouts complete the card. Griffin, a native of Cleveland, was associated with the Dutchess training camp of Buster Mathis, when the oversized contender had designs on the heavyweight championship.

"It's a well balanced card," said Garfield who has been identified with professional boxing in one capacity or another since the Mike Jacobs era at Madison Square Garden.

Ticket sale will be announced in a few days.

OCS Netmen Top SHS

BOICEVILLE The Onteora High tennis team lost two opening singles matches to non-league foe Saugerties Friday in the first workout of the season for both squads, but from that point the Indians roared back with a win in third singles and a sweep of the doubles to post a 3-2 victory.

"Everybody has improved very much from last year," said an optimistic OCS coach Steve Hanks. "We have everybody back, and we were much deeper than they were."

Bob Berkeley stopped Ken Del Rosario, 8-6, to start the comeback. Russ Houldin and Bill Harder teamed to even the match with an 8-5 win over Chuck Rosenberger and Frank Blundell, then Pete Rose and Matt Earnest blasted the Sawyer pair of Bill Fricke and Bob Carpenter, 8-2.

Daryl Jones beat Onteora's Conrad Earnest, 8-6, and Andy Stoll outlasted Dave Scherbarth, 10-8, to give Saugerties its early lead.

U.S. Hot Dogger Scores

CERVINIA, Italy (UPI) — America's Mark Stiegermeir won the ballet event Saturday to make it two in a row for the United States in the World Hot Dog Skiing Championships.

The 21-year-old professional from Sun Valley, considered America's best all-around hot-dogger last season, scored 43.5 points in the event skied to music down a smooth slope with a 250-meter vertical drop.

Fellow American Alan Schoenberger, skiing masked, and European champion Peter Lindecke of West Germany tied for second place at 43 points.

Forty-eight skiers from 12 countries competed in the event.

Scott Brooksbank of the United States won Friday's opening 300-meter free style. The final event, air acrobatics, will be competed Sunday.

STONE RIDGE "We just weren't swinging the bat out there. We were tentative. I could tell in practice this week. They just didn't seem to have any pep. I can't explain it."

The speaker was a disappointed Ulster County Community College baseball coach, Bob Speirs, following a doubleheader sweep by visiting Rockland Community, 7-0 and 9-3, Saturday afternoon.

The Senators were checked on just four hits by Rockland ace Vic Staia in the opener, then made a game out of the nightcap for five innings before the Rockets closed with five runs in the last two frames to break up a tight contest.

In the first game, Rockland took advantage of the wildness of Senator starter and loser Bobby Marz by scoring three times in the second inning. Marz walked two men, both of whom eventually scored on a single, an error, and an infield out. Walks also got Marz into a fifth inning jam out of which reliever Freddy Ziehl couldn't get until the score had jumped to 7-0.

Staia, meanwhile, fanned 10 Ulster batters, walked only two, and gave up four harmless singles.

Ulster could have done much better in the second game had it not left 13 men on base, twice failing to score with the bases loaded.

After Rockland had taken a 2-0 lead off Ernie Kasloski the Senators tied the game in their half of the inning on a single by Marz, an infield error on a bunt by Miguel Martinez, two walks and a wild pitch.

The Rockets quickly got the two runs back off Kasloski and reliever Ziehl. UCCC then cut the disadvantage in half in the last of the fourth on a single by Bob Cooke, a walk, and a single by Charlie Mazzola.

But Rockland put the game away with three runs off Ziehl in the sixth, then added two more in the seventh.

The Senators dropped to 1-5 with the defeats. They'll try to get back on the track Monday afternoon with a home game against Kingsborough.

Whitaker Stars, But New Paltz Loses

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Tom Whitaker could hardly have put together a better pitching performance than he did Saturday afternoon against Western New England. The New Paltz State junior went the full nine innings, allowed only three hits and fanned 11 while walking only one. He lost, 1-0.

Two of the hits off Whitaker came in the sixth inning and allowed the Golden Bears to score a run. Meanwhile Art Accurso fashioned a four-hit shutout to drop the Hawks' record to 2-2.

On Friday, the Hawks divided a doubleheader with John Jay, winning the opener, 9-6, and losing 10-9 in the nitecap.

Ken MacLeod rapped a leadoff single in the sixth to set up the Bears' rally. He stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored when Lip Fuller lined a clutch single.

It was all Accurso needed for the victory though he had two tense moments when the Hawks threatened. In the second inning dpmad Hihl Htlano started it going the hard way — by getting beamed and winding up in the Springfield hospital with some new stitches.

It did get a New Paltz runner on first, however, and Dennis Ponte moved pinch runner Mark Stryker up with one of his two hits off Accurso. Vic Mirandona drilled a hit through the middle to send Strxhep racing toward the plate, but a good throw by the New England outfielder cut him down and preserved the shutout.

A walk to Tom McNamara preceded Omori Scott's single in the ninth, but Accurso stranded both by getting the last two Hawk hitters to pop up.

Against John Jay New Paltz overcame a five run lead to capture the opener as reliever Drew Tressler notched the victory. In the second game John Jay tied it in the seventh to force an extra inning then won it in the eighth when the Hawks infield blew a play at third.

From Stanley Cup Playoffs

Rangers, Bruins, LA Missing

When the National Hockey League began shuffling its cards in preparation for its Stanley Cup quarterfinal round, it did not expect three of its aces to be missing.

But missing they are, in the form of the Boston Bruins, Los Angeles Kings and New York Rangers, as the quarterfinals begin today in Philadelphia, Buffalo, Montreal and Pittsburgh.

The defending champion Flyers take on the Toronto Maple Leafs, the Buffalo Sabres host the Chicago Black Hawks, Montreal's Canadiens rap sticks with the Vancouver Canucks and the Pittsburgh Penguins square off with the New York Islanders.

Philadelphia, Buffalo, Montreal and Vancouver drew first round byes as a reward for winning their divisional titles. When the deck was reshuffled to include survivors of the qualifying round, only Vancouver was denied a home ice advantage because of its lack of points.

Toronto drew its invitation into the quarters by winning the best-of-three series with Los Angeles two games to one, collecting the decisive victory on Los Angeles ice Friday night to knock out the league's fourth best team during the regular season.

Chicago stunned the playoff-hardened Bruins also by two games to one and also by winning the final game on foreign ice. Boston outshot Chicago in the third game 56-19 but came up two goals shy at 6-4.

The Rangers fell by the Stanley Cup wayside for the ninth straight year but fell a little harder this time as their once-inferior neighbors — the New York Islanders — captured the series again by a two-to-one margin. And, in keeping with the qualifying round tradition, the Islanders scored the series clincher in the Rangers' building.

The victory was provided by J.P. Parise, who scored the winning goal at a record 11 seconds into overtime.

The elimination of Boston and Los Angeles enabled Pittsburgh to claim a once distant home ice advantage in its round with the Islanders.

The home ice berths are decided by the number of points accumulated during the regular season and heading into the playoffs the Penguins stood sixth.

But Los Angeles and Boston were two of the teams with better records...and they are no longer around.

"I like the idea of beginning the series at home," said Pittsburgh Coach Marc Boileau. "It's funny how things change. Everybody kept asking me how we were going to beat Montreal, and I kept saying that wasn't definite yet."

The Flyers will have Vezina Trophy winner Bernie Parent in the nets as the they commence defense of their crown and Montreal, which won the Cup two years ago, will take the league's highest scoring arsenal with 374 goals over the regular season onto Forum ice against Vancouver.

Each series will be a best-of-seven games competition.

Pele Wants $6 Million

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — Soccer superstar Pele said Saturday he is willing to come out of retirement to play for the New York Cosmos if the team gives him $6 million in a two-year contract.

The Brazilian, considered the world's top soccer player until he retired last year, said he would meet with the management of the professional soccer team Monday to discuss terms.

"The New York Cosmos Association has made me some offers," Pele told newsmen at an airport news conference. "I asked $6 million for a two-year contract. The Cosmos offered the same figure but for three years."

"Next Monday we must meet to see if we can reach an agreement," he said.

Pele arrived at Linate International Airport on a publicity tour for a North American soft drink firm that has taken him to eight countries in 21 days.

Moore Prevails In Pro Bowling

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Louie Moore, a Columbus, Ohio, righthander who made only $11,000 all of last season on the pro bowling tour, rolled his way to a $10,000 payday Saturday when he downed Nelson Burton Jr., St. Louis, 226-190, in the windup of the $85,000-Ebonite Open Bowling Tournament.

The triumph, Moore's first in three years on the PBA tour, also put him into next week's $125,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions where first place is worth $25,000, with a guaranteed check of $1,000.

Moore, 23, who took 17 of 24 match games leading up to the nationally televised finale at Imperial Lanes, was topseeded in the five-man championship round. He looked on from an adjoining pair of lanes as Burton, a winner earlier this year, ousted three straight opponents to earn his way into the title game.

Burton began his march with a 221-196 victory over Jim Godman, Vero Beach, Fla., then scored by 206-181 over Roy Buckley, Columbus, Ohio, another veteran of the tour. In the day's third game, Burton's opponent was 23-time titlist Don Johnson, Akron, Ohio, who was trying for his 24th triumph. Johnson, however, came up with three splits and lost out, 213-187.

In the playoff game, each bowler spared to get the match going but Burton grabbed a 10-pin lead with strikes in the second and third frames. Moore, who showed only $3,900 coming into this event, forged ahead to stay when he rolled strikes in the third, fourth and fifth frames. Burton, who took away $6,000, left the 8-10 split in the fifth to fall hopelessly behind.

Islanders Gain With Stars' Aid

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Islanders won their way into the Stanley Cup quarterfinals Friday night — and the first people they can thank are the Minnesota North Stars.

"It was the most rewarding goal I ever scored," said J.P. Parise after his goal 11 seconds into overtime, the fastest in Stanley Cup history, gave the fledgling Islanders — only in their third year of existence and in their first playoff competition — a 4-3 decision over the New York Rangers.

The Islanders acquired Parise and Jude Drouin from the North Stars back in January. Since then, they helped the Islanders advance from last place in their division to a tie for second place with the Rangers by compiling an 18-9-13 mark.

And, with the game tied 3-3 and the series tied 1-1, Parise, standing in front of Ranger goaltender Eddie Giacomin, took a pass from Drouin from the corner and applied the "sudden death."

"I just didn't think we'd lose," Parise said. "We've got natural pride."

"We panicked in the third period — let's face it, they've got a helluva club. But (coach) Al Arbour told us to keep our cool — and we did."

The win gave the Islanders a 2-1 victory margin in their best-of-three preliminary round NHL playoff series and sent them into the quarterfinals ainst the Pittsburgh Penguins tonight.

A first period goal by Clark Gillies and a power play effort and shorthanded goal by Denis Potvin put the Islanders up 3-0. But the Rangers charged back with two third period tallies by longtime Islander nemesis Bill Fairbairn and the tying marker, 14 seconds after Fairbairn's second goal, by Steve Vickers.

Then came the "Jeep."

"I just cruised in front of the net without any opposition," said Parise. "I had the whole net."

"Jude gave me a really hard pass — as I touched it the puck went in."

Giacomin, who has seen the Rangers make the playoffs nine straight years only to lose out each time, said he had no chance for the save.

"On that one I really don't think I had a chance," the gray-haired goalie said. "All I saw was Parise and then it was in the net."

Arbour, who cursed the referee after Thursday's loss, was all smiles, responding, "I feel like Cinderella after she put on the glass slipper."

However, his Ranger counterpart, Emile Francis, was really down, saying softly, "we pulled back and we had our chances to win. But they picked it up and it's all over. One shot... it's all over."

Lourdes Top Hugies

NEW PALTZ A three-run triple by Lourdes' Mike Laffin put the New Palitz High baseball team on the way to its fourth straight defeat Friday as the Hugies dropped another close, non-league struggle to a DCSL team.

Laffin's blow in the top of the sixth wiped out a 3-1 New Palitz lead and made a loser out of reliever Mike Beck. Beck, along with Roger Plan-tier, Walt Smith and Rich Snider, had hit safely in the first inning to give the Hugies a quick two run lead.

Soccer Tour of Poland Ahead For Dutchess High Schoolers

RHINEBECK

A team of Dutchess County Scholastic League soccer players will take a tour of Poland this summer as part of a cultural exchange program arranged by Enculturation, Inc.

Athletes from Rhinebeck, Kingston, Roosevelt and Spackenkill high schools will form an 18-man team under coach Ralph Stuart of Rhinebeck and become the first high school athletic group to make a foray behind the Iron Curtain.

The invitation was originally extended to Rhinebeck High after Section One officials recommended the school to Enculturation and the Polish Consulate for its consistently high caliber of sportsmanship and performance. Stuart, who is also the soccer chairman of the DCSL, was unable to get a sufficient number of his own players to go, so he acquired permission to fill out the team with outstanding players from the rest of the league.

"Each boy has committed himself to the cost of the trip," said Stuart, "and the Polish government is subsidizing a portion of the tour. The players from each area are going to conduct an intensive fund raising effort to help meet expenses."

The 23-day excursion will cost each player $679. Eight soccer games against Polish teams are scheduled, and in addition the players will visit many historical sites, attend soccer clinics and view the Polish National Team in action.

The team, which will call itself the Central Hudson Soccer Club, will depart for Warsaw July 16 and return to the United States August 5.

After receiving the invitation, Stuart investigated Enculturation and found it to have an outstanding history of success in organizing trips for music and dance groups.

"Enculturation was asked to expand its format this year to include sports which were of mutual interest to both countries," he said. Soccer and hockey were chosen this year, and other high schools groups are making similar trips.

The team will practice on weekends during the spring. Assisting Stuart will be Ed Frapatier, a soccer official from Ketcham who will also be making the trip.

Stuart said, "I feel that the invitation extended to our area to have a team representative of U.S. soccer is quite an honor. Rhinebeck and the central Hudson area has been a strong supporter of high school and youth soccer, and I hope it will support this effort."

Pitching Key for the Sawyers

SAUGERTIES

How deep the Saugerties High pitching staff turns out to be will determine just how far the Sawyers will go in this year's DCSL baseball race. Coach Tony Vizzie gives his team a guarded, "fairly decent" rating at the outset, but he's unsure what will happen when all those post-ponements start stacking up near the end of the season.

Some of the time Vizzie won't have worries. That will be when Tim Cole's turn in the rotation comes up.

"He's improved, and he's grown," said the coach of his sophomore whiz. "He looks pretty tough right now."

Cole also looked tough as a freshman. Last season he turned some heads with his potential, ending up with a 4-1 record and 45 strikeouts in 39 innings.

"That's a good strikeout ratio," Vizzie said, "and he doesn't waste too many pitches."

Backing Cole are a pair of seniors, Rich Ohno and Tom Crane, and to them falls the task of making up for the absence of Larry Panella, the leader of last year's 8-5 team.

"Ohno was 1-1, and he didn't see too much action,"

Court-Wade Score Upset

TOKYO (UPI) — The fourth-seeded tandem of Margaret Court of Australia and Virginia Wade of England upset top-seeded Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals of the United States Saturday night, 6-7, 7-6, 6-2, to win the $100,000 Bridgestone Women's tennis doubles championship.

The closely-fought match required an hour and 40 minutes before a standing crowd of 3,800 at the Yoyogi Olympic gymnasium. First place was worth $35,000 while the runners-up received $21,000.

In the semifinals earlier in the day, Mrs. Court and Miss Wade beat second-seeded Francoise Durr of France and Betty Stove of Holland, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, and Mrs. King and Miss Casals downed third-seeded Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia and Lesley Hunt of Australia, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4.

Vizzie said. And Crane is likewise inexperienced. The pair will have to have a good year if the Sawyers are to make a run at the title.

The rest of the team is well balanced and has its share of veterans. The pitchers will see double duty in the outfield along with Buddy Walker, a senior who'll move into a starting role. The infield returns intact except for Panella's presence at third.

Nick Maglieri, who led the team in hitting last year with a hefty .367 mark, is the Sawyer captain at short. Steve Martin at second and Bob Cargioli at first are the other vets.

The third base slot will go to either senior John Speirs or to one of two juniors, Wayne Brocco or Jeff Levine.

Vizzie said, "Of course pitching is the key, but this year it's a well balanced league. Ketcham, Arlington and Kingston have to be the top teams, but I can see Beacon—and us—in there too. When you get into situations where somebody's number three pitcher is going against somebody else's number one, anything can happen."

'Longest Minute in Basketball'

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) —

"That was the longest minute in the history of basketball."

Mike Barr's words could barely be heard amidst the celebration in the Spirits of St. Louis locker room Friday night, but the words really didn't matter. What counted most was the final score, 113-108, for St. Louis, which thus gained a 2-1 edge over the defending ABA champion New York Nets in their best of seven opening round playoff series.

The fourth game will be played here tonight.

The Spirits, who dropped 11 straight to the Nets in the regular season and blew a big lead to lose the first playoff game, held fast in the face of a New York barrage that cut a 12-point St. Louis lead to just five in less than 60 seconds.

Four quick buckets by Julius Erving, then a three-point play by Larry Kenon made the score 104-102 for St. Louis with one long minute remaining. But the Spirits met the challenge and proved they're no longer a bunch of selfish, undisciplined rookies.

The final minute featured five timeouts and 12 free throws but the Spirits outscored New York 9-6 to take the victory. Standouts were Rookie of the Year Marvin Barnes who led all scorers with 35 points and veteran guard Freddie Lewis who added 30, including 14 in the final period.

St. Louis fell behind early, 8-0, and trailed at halftime, 50-48, but Barnes and his rookie colleagues on the front line — Maurice Lucas and Gus Gerard — took over in the third quarter to give the Spirits a lead they never lost.

Boxing experts said Cohen, who had been ploughing through up to 20 sparring rounds a day, had overextended himself and strained the elbow muscles from overwork.

A previous match between the two boxers had been cancelled once before in February, when Valdes came down with influenza.

Promoters said that they were hopeful the match could

The rookie trio scored all but four of the team's 28 third period points, including a dozen from Barnes.

Late in the emotion-charged period, Lucas found himself sandwiched between Erving and big Billy Paultz and punched his way out.

Both benches emptied but the scuffle ended quickly.

Erving had 30 points for New York and Kenon added 25, but their pressure couldn't make the Spirits fold. St. Louis Coach Bob MacKinnon thinks discipline and confidence are the key to his team's recent success.

"When we have the ball we feel we have as much right to score as anybody," he said.

"Earlier in the year it seemed we were putting the ball up as soon as possible. We were embarrassed running the plays."

Valdes vs. Cohen: No-Go

GRENOBLE (UPI) —

World middleweight champion Rodrigo Valdes of Colombia resigned himself Saturday to yet another no-go for meeting challenger Max Cohen, but boxing promoters said they were hopeful a match could be rescheduled for sometime in late May.

The fight scheduled for Saturday between Valdes and Cohen, the French middleweight champion, was called off Friday when doctors said Cohen had inflamed tendons in his left elbow.

Doctors said the ailment, similar to "tennis elbow," could take days to heal or as long as a year.

Boxing experts said Cohen, who had been ploughing through up to 20 sparring rounds a day, had overextended himself and strained the elbow muscles from overwork.

A previous match between the two boxers had been cancelled once before in February, when Valdes came down with influenza.

Promoters said that they were hopeful the match could be re-scheduled for May 24th as a possible date.

Valdes, who had been training for the fight since February, was said to be bitterly disappointed when he first heard the news.

Earlier in the day, however, Valdes' American manager, Gil Clancy, said his fighter was in good spirits. Asked if a rematch would be rescheduled, he said, "We'll first have to wait and see how long it takes Cohen's arm to heal."

Valdes and his entourage were expected to leave by plane for Paris later Saturday and fly from Paris to New York Sunday.

Valdes, who had been training for the fight since February, was said to be bitterly disappointed when he first heard the news.

Earlier in the day, however, Valdes' American manager, Gil Clancy, said his fighter was in good spirits. Asked if a rematch would be rescheduled, he said, "We'll first have to wait and see how long it takes Cohen's arm to heal."

BOB GIBSON: No doting on the past

Gibson's Pride Hasn't Aged

ST. LOUIS, Missouri — (NEA) — A pair of old baseball crocks met on the sidelines before a recent spring training game here.

Vada Pinson, trying to hang on in the big leagues now with Kansas City, was discussing aging with Bob Gibson, the St. Louis Cardinal pitcher who is one year shy of being a quadragenarian.

"When you get old," said Pinson, "it takes longer to heal."

"When you get old," replied Gibson, "you don't heal."

Then the pair creaked off to their respective jobs.

Gibson has announced that this is his final baseball season. Although he is the winningest pitcher among the active players (248 career victories), 1974 was the worst statistically of his 14 full big league seasons.

He had his first losing record of those years, 11 and 13. His earned run average was his highest (3.83) and his strikeout total was his lowest.

"I'd be a damned fool if I said I am as good as I've ever been," said Gibson. "But I wasn't all that bad last season, either. There were six games, for example, in which I was removed from the game with a lead. And we lost that lead. We win those games and I have 17 wins for the season."

"It's time, though, he says to quit."

"I've been playing ball for something like 30 years — and I'm tired."

"Oh, once you get on the mound, the challenge comes back, and it's fun."

His eyes, shaded under his bright red Cardinal cap, are alive now. His voice is quick and rather high.

"There is that sense of power on the mound, like you know everything pretty much depends out there on how you do. Or don't do. That's something I'll miss when I finish playing ball."

He says that being the best at his profession was something he strove for. He says he knows that whatever is next — possibly broadcasting, possible business, he has enough money to make a leisurely choice — he may not reach the heights he did as a ball player.

"I don't think that will be frustrating — not being the best anymore," he said.

"I'm proud of my records and sometimes even now I'll think about, oh, my no-hitter in 1972 or that 1968 season and a smile will come to my mind."

In 1968, he had a 1.12 ERA, an all-time, big-league low, and won 22 games, led the Cardinals to a pennant and a World Series win; he broke the Series record in the first game in 1968, striking out 17 Detroit Tiger batters.

"But when it's over I hope I do not dote on the past," he said. "And I won't be going to any of those Old Timers games, I'll tell you that. I've sat around and heard these guys talking about how good they were and how the players today ain't nuthin' like they used to be."

"Hell, we're better than they were and the players to come will be better than we are. It's the way things are."

Being tired is both a mental and physical thing for Gibson.

"Last season, I had my knee drained 22 times, before almost every start, and that's tiring, he said. "Also playing for so long I can't get as fiercely excited before a game as I used to. But losing-man, I still can't get used to that."

There is another change apparent to Gibson and that is the difference in the treatment of blacks. It has changed a lot.

"But there is still an undercurrent. You get it in little things, for example. I was in an elevator in a hotel recently. A couple gets on. Now, I'm in a suit and tie. The man says to me, 'I want the 22nd floor.' He thought I was the elevator operator."

"I said, 'For all I care, mister, you can take the whole hotel!'"

KHS Baseball: Improvement Ahead

KINGSTON

After suffering through a losing season in 1974 with a team composed primarily of underclassmen, Kingston High School baseball coach Ron Cole looks for improvement this year.

"We can't help but improve," says Cole, whose Maroons open the Dutchess County Scholastic League campaign Monday at Beacon. "We only lost two players off last year's team and although I don't want to predict exactly how I think we'll do, I do think we'll have a good season."

Kingston has a veteran at nearly every position. The spots that need filling are the ones vacated by the graduated Walt Debrosky and Dave Decker, but Cole appears to have a vast enough talent pool from which to pluck the appropriate replacements.

The outstanding phase of the club should be the inner defense where senior Dan Brown mans first base, junior Val Galm handles second, junior Paul Runge covers shortstop, and senior Bill Costello (with Steve Hughes fighting for a job) patrols third base.

Runge and Galm make up a solid double play combination ("probably the best in the league," says Cole), and Runge, although still a junior, is already attracting the attention of big league scouts. His main goal is to improve his batting average, and off spring workouts, he's starting to realize that aim.

In the outfield, Rich Bell returns to play left with Joe Primo, a Freeman second team

All-County pick, backing him up. Primo, however, will see most of his work on the pitcher's mound. In right field the veteran Lou Eccleston is back.

That leaves Debrosky's centerfield slot, and it should be filled ably by either Phil Timbrouck, the senior transfer from Coleman High, or sophomore Cliff Lyons, the junior varisty's leading hitter a year ago.

It's on the hill that Cole places the club's long question mark. Primo, a left hander, and Marco Tiano, a hard-throwing junior righty who'll get the opening day nod, are set (although control has always left Marco suspect).

Behind that duo are senior righty Gary Amato, who was in-and-out last year, and senior lefty Paul Lawatsch, also an inconsistent returnee. Mark Chapman, whom Cole says can play all nine positions, is another pitching possibility.

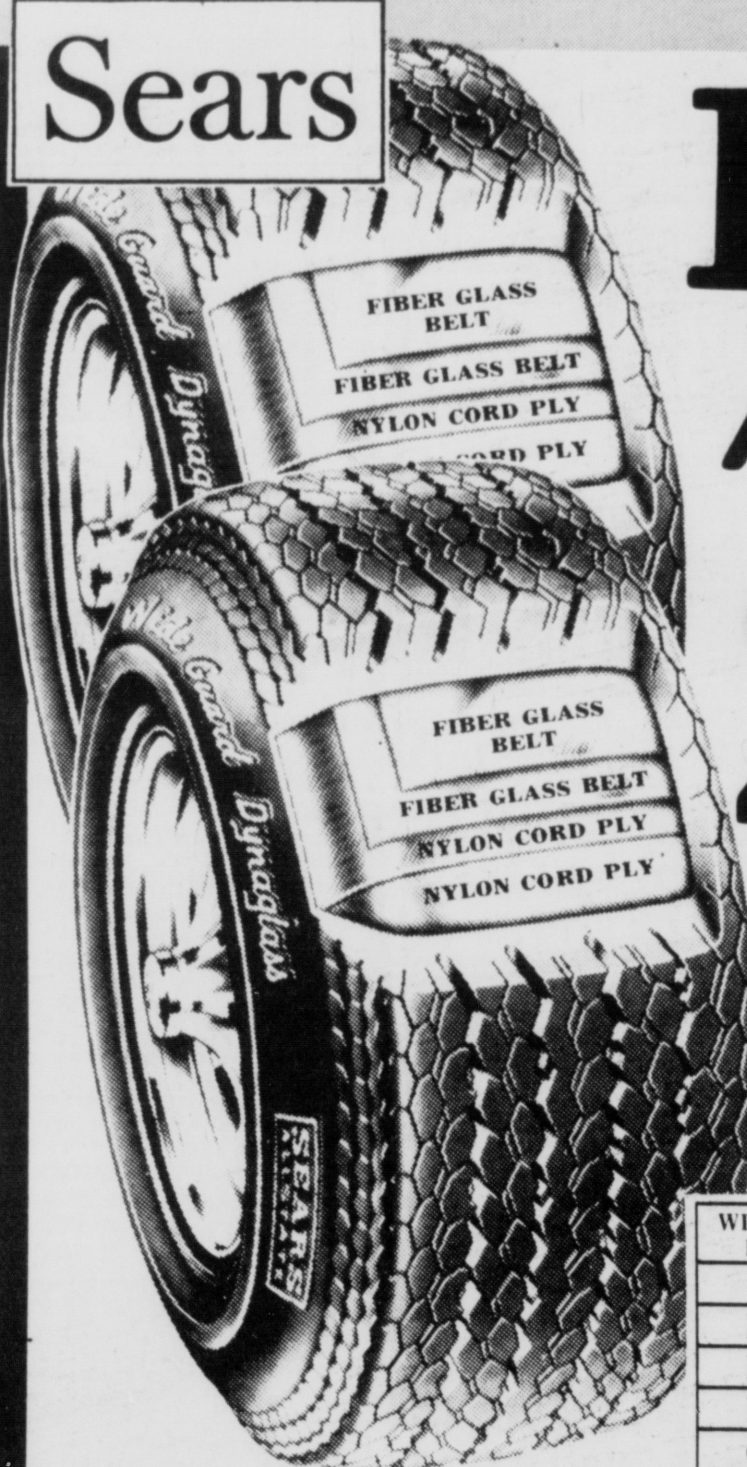

The DCSL race, won by Ketcham a year ago, should be a battle between those same Indians, Arlington and John Jay, according to Cole.

Whether or not Kingston will be in the title picture should be more clearly determined by the end of this week. The Maroons follow the opener at Beacon with a home game Wednesday against John Jay and another road title Friday at Spackenkill.

Can You Picture Frazier or Havlicek In A Soccer Uniform?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Can you picture Walt Frazier or John Havlicek in a soccer uniform?

Perhaps not, but Phil Woosnam, commissioner of the North American Soccer League, drools just thinking about it.

"Don't laugh," says Woosnam. "Guys like Frazier, Havlicek and other basketball players have exceptional control in tight corners. They don't just use their hands. Look at their feet. With that kind of control they'd make it in soccer, because our game is one of control."

Woosnam, of course, does not expect a mass exodus from pro basketball for the (current) slim pickings of pro soccer, but Buffalo guard Randy Smith could have started a trend had the Braves given him permission to spend the off-season playing with Tampa. Still, it costs nothing to dream and Woosnam's dreams have a habit of becoming reality.

Who but a dreamer would have stuck with the task of trying to raise soccer, the national sport in over 100 countries, above the Mickey Mouse level in the United States? Who but Phil Woosnam?

"There were times when I became depressed, but now we can only go one way and that's forward. The worst is behind us," said Woosnam.

Back in 1967 Woosnam took over a bankrupt league, reduced to just five teams, but with a determination which bordered on evangelical zeal he, and his co-workers, have seen the money come back into the game. The NASL will open its eighth season April 18 with 20 teams, five more than last year, and a reported 135 percent increase in season ticket sales over 1974.

But back to Woosnam's latest dream. "Ten years from now, when the home produced players are beginning to make their mark, we'll be in business at international level."

"And when that happens, watch out. We'll take off." This despite the fact the U.S. national team, drawn from NASL clubs, suffered a humiliating 10-0 defeat against Italy on its recent European tour.

"Sure we lost to Italy, but our coaches and players learned something on that trip. They learned they were not quitters. They proved they have the heart."

Woosnam reasons that once soccer gets a hold in the U. S. several players who now gamble on making it in pro basketball will switch their sights to soccer as a career.

"Can you imagine having a forward line of six-footers, people with the physical attributes of a Frazier or a Havlicek? We'll blow them (foreigners) out of the park. The goal area will be our territory. Every big ball will be ours," said the man who was the general of the Welsh International Team and who starred with West Ham United of The English First Division Back in the early 1960s.

Reminded about the 10-0 defeat in Italy, Woosnam says, "Okay, where were Holland 10 years ago? They were nothing. They were not even among the top 10 teams in Europe, let alone the world. But they reached the World Cup Final in Germany last year and many critics said they was the best team in the tournament. Right?"

But back to his own league. Woosnam is convinced the NASL will have its most successful campaign in 1975. His reasoning is based on two counts: women and the national recession.

"About 40 percent of our fans are women. They understand our rules and encourage their kids to play. They bring their kids to our league games. Those same kids will be our future stars."

"As for the recession, we should benefit because of tight money. Our ticket prices are scaled from $1-5, while we have other packages we can offer families. The established pro leagues may become just too expensive a proposition for the casual fan," said Woosnam.

"We have the organization and expansion is on schedule — the NASL ranks only behind football and baseball in terms of numbers and all that remains is attracting television, which in turn will bring sponsorship."

"One game, the July 25 match between Seattle and New York, will be televised, as will be our championship game. Television will then see our full potential. Besides, we are much cheaper, so we're a better financial prospect at this time," said the NASL's most ardent supporter.

NASL teams must play to an average of 12,000 fans if they are to break even. Last year the figure through the league reached 7,800, a 20 percent increase over 1973.

The San Jose Earthquakes, an expansion team, lead the league in 1974 with an average attendance of 16,500 fans. They already have sold 7,000 season tickets for this year's campaign, as have the Seattle Sounders.

"I sleep nights. I know we're on the way," said Woosnam, who has no regrets about turning his back on a managerial career in Britain. "I like it here. I'm here to stay."

Pete Koola With SUNY Stars

ALBANY
Pistol Pete Koola of Rosendale, a former Ulster County Community College basketball star now playing for Albany State, will participate in the first SUNY-CUNY Basketball All Star game Monday night, 8 p.m. in the Albany State Gym.

Koola, a 6-2 center or forward for host Albany, averaged 8.1 points and 7.6 rebounds against SUNYAC competition in the 1974-75 season.

Ed Robota, of State University College at Geneseo, and Stan Brown of Lehman College, will head their respective State University of New York and City University of New York in this first game.

Robota, a 6-5 center, averaged 18.5 points and 15 rebounds in the SUNYAC competition this season, ranking him third in conference scoring and second in rebounding. He is a product of North Tonawanda and like all players on both teams, is a senior. NCCA regulations prohibit all-star play by underclassmen.

Brown, a 6-4 forward, is the all-time CUNY scoring leader with 1,386 career points. This year, he averaged 22.0 ppg., including a tourney record 45 against Queens in the semifinals of the CUNY tournament, and was named MVP in the tourney. Brown is one of three CUNY all-stars who also were selected to the all-CUNY Team for 1974-75.

PETE KOOLA

Like all the UNY stars, he hails from New York.

Joining Robota among the top five vote-getters in the 10-man SUNY squad are Mike Panaggio (Brockport), a 6-2 guard from Brockport, who averaged 19.0 ppg. in SUNYAC play; Jack Dalton, a 6-2 forward from Oneonta, 16.9 ppg.; Dave Hoch (Buffalo), a 6-2 guard from Buffalo State, 16.3 ppg.; and Bob Rich, 6-3 forward from Oswego, the SUNYAC scoring champ with a 21.5 average.

With Koola on the second unit are Pete Weishan, 6-2 forward from Cortland, 15.6 ppg.; Bill Curry, 6-5 center from Binghamton, 6.8 ppg. and 9.1 rebounds and Dave Silliman, 6-4 forward from Geneseo, 11.1 ppg.

The SUNY team will be coached by Mauro Panaggio, who led the Brockport squad to the SUNYAC championship with a 10-1 league mark, the NCAA Division 3 East Regional Championship, fourth place nationally in Division 3 and an overall record of 23-5. His eight-year record at Brockport is 129-44. He will be assisted by Dick Saurers, coach of Albany's second-place SUNYAC team which handed Brockport its only league defeat.

Joining Brown on the CUNY all-stars are Lehman teammates Peter Garlan, 6-6 center, 11.0 ppg., and Ed Sullivan, 6-2 forward, 8.0 ppg. and a top defensive player. Representing Brooklyn College are Lenny Bennett, 5-11 guard, 7.0 ppg., and Rocco DiGregorio, 6-1 guard-forward, 15.0 ppg.

Coaching the CUNY all-stars will be Ed Kramer, whose Lehman team won the CUNY tournament last month.

Proof of Catch

Dan Levy of Hurley proudly displays four whopping Rainbow trout, dispelling the myth that the 1975 trout season has been slow getting under way. Levy hauled in the beauties ranging from 2½ to 8½ pounds in the Esopus Creek near the porthole. He used eggs as the lure. Levy, who says he has been making hauls like this for years had them checked out by Michael A. and Michael R. Spada, proprietors of the well known local check-point for anglers and hunters.

Brown, a 6-4 forward, is the all-time CUNY scoring leader with 1,386 career points. This year, he averaged 22.0 ppg., including a tourney record 45 against Queens in the semifinals of the CUNY tournament, and was named MVP in the tourney. Brown is one of three CUNY all-stars who also were selected to the all-CUNY Team for 1974-75.

Satisfied Radial Tire Drivers Have For Over a Quarter Century

Sometimes it takes a while for a good idea to catch on, but now, the time of the radial tire has surely arrived. And we want to clarify the point that Michelin pioneered the steel-belted radial idea. Michelin introduced the first steel-belted radial tire back in 1948... over a quarter century ago. And today the Michelin 'X' steel-belted radial is unsurpassed for proven road performance. It's the only radial tire that has over 25 years of experience built right in. So if you've decided that now is the time for you to get in on the easy-handling, firm road-holding, sure traction and smooth ride of radials, we think you should start with the leader — Michelin. That's where it all began.

Honors For Bucci

RIVERDALE — George Bucci, a 6-3 205-pound guard out of Newburgh, led Manhattan College to the college's third consecutive National Invitation Tournament (NIT) but the Jaspers lost 57-56 heartbreaker to cross town rival, St. John's, in the quarter-finals of the tourney, ending its season.

Bucci became the second leading scorer in Manhattan history with 1331 career points. The Newburgh resident paced Manhattan scoring (20.0) and finished second in rebounding (8.1) and assists (9.8).

Bucci also topped the Kelly Greens in field goal percentage (.483) and was named ECAC All-East, Honorable Mention Associated Press AllAmerica and to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) District II All-Star team.

The year's Kelly Green squad was again directed by former Manhattan cager Jack Powers, who in his seventh season has recorded a 103-72 won-loss record. Manhattan's late season victory over arch rival Fordham marked Powers' 100th career coaching win at the Riverdalebased college.

Injuries to key players throughout the campaign contributed to the team's inconsistent play. Bill Campion, last year's ECAC All-East center, Tom Lockhart, John Hurley and Mike Young, a 6-6 frontliner, were among the regulars who missed parts of the season.

Haughton Horses Soon Moving North

POMPAÑO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Billy Haughton moves out of his winter quarters about May 1 and heads north with more than 100 sharply-trained trotters and pacers who'll soon be adding to his world record for total purses won by a harness driver.

The 51-year-old Haughton has driven winners of $20.8 million, according to recent figures from the U.S. Trotting Association. He trained most of those winners and some he owned, fully or in part.

Each winter, Billy brings his string—162 this year, including 96 two-year-olds—to the training facilities at Pompano Park. The older horses are rested, then brought back to racing condition, and the two's are broken in with painstaking care for the campaigns ahead.

About 110 will make the trip north. Obviously, he can't drive them all in every race but they all bear the Haughton training stamp and many of them will be adding to his career victory total that's now close to 4,000.

While in Florida, Billy finds time to drive about four nights a week at Pompano Park and gets out for a spin almost daily in one of the two boats at his home on Lighthouse Point, some three miles from the track. But he admits his golf has been neglected this year.

Breaking camp in the spring is a major production.

"I'll start shipping 11 older horses to Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury, N.Y., on April 15," says the tanned and rested trainer-driver, who has been among the top 10 money winners for 25 years and eight times won more than $1 million in a year. "By May 1, I'll move out the rest to five other tracks."

The largest group (42) goes to Lexington, Ky., Raceway, 27 to the Meadows near Pittsburgh, 16 to Scioto Downs in Columbus, Ohio, two to Vernon Downs in upstate New York and probably 14 to Yonkers, N.Y., Raceway for further training.

Included in the group are his top money winning pacers, Armbr Omaha ($345,146 and victories in five $100,000 races last year) and Handle With Care ($226,274 in 1974), who'll get their first outings of the year in a match race at Rockingham Park in Salem, N.H., on April 27.

Haughton, who has driven 136 mile races under two minutes, also has a pair of candidates for the Hambletonian—Spearmint and Glasgow—for which he has high hopes in trotting's version of the Kentucky Derby.

Among other stable leaders are free-for-all pacers Keystone Presto, Bret's Star, and Keystone Smartie; free-for-all trotters Spartan Hanover and Keystone Gabriel and three-year-old pacer Broadcaster B.

During the year, Haughton-trained horses will campaign regularly at seven tracks in the northeast and one string of youngsters will travel the Grand Circuit, a tour of weekly stakes races at 23 tracks in 11 states and two Canadian provinces.

The native of Gloversville, N.Y., employs 12 assistant trainers, a caretaker for every two horses, two secretaries and a bookkeeper with a weekly payroll of more than $15,000.

"I'll entrust any horse in my barn to one of my assistant trainers," he says. "They're professionals. But if I see something wrong with a two-year-old, or even an older horse, that I can correct in a hurry, I'll take on the job myself."

"Sometimes it's only a matter of finding the right bridle and bit combination—or the boots. But as exacting as the job with a two-year-old may be, training a young colt is like a vacation compared to the work over a long hot summer of racing."

From January to mid-April, Haughton is at the training track from 7 a.m. until about 2 p.m. Haughton horses, in sets of four to six, move on and off the palm-lined track for four solid hours during the morning hours, some working with the mobile starting gate.

In the Rockingham match race, the drivers will be chosen by lot—Haughton getting one, his 20-year-old son Peter the other. Peter is no slouch, either. He drove Handle With Care in a world record time trial for a three-year-old filly pacer in 1:54.3-5 and won $100,000 races last year with Handle With Care, Armbr Omaha and Keystone Gabriel.

"Handle With Care blew right by Armbr Omaha the other day, indicating who was best right then," Haughton says.

Kings Aren't Worried

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Chicago Bulls pinched off Nate (Tiny) Archibald with 12 points in Game 1 of their best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series with the Kansas City-Omaha Kings. But Kings' Coach Phil Johnson doesn't think that should be a major concern for his club.

"They did a good job on Tiny," said Johnson, "but it doesn't really concern me because he doesn't have to score his average for us to win. If they're going to concede the double-team to him, that's going to leave someone else open to score."

The series moves to Kansas City's Kemper Arena Sunday for Game 2, which will be televised nationally starting at 12:30 p.m. CDT. The Bulls lead the series, 1-0, after the 95-89 victory Wednesday night in Chicago.

"A loss would put us in a hole, but it definitely wouldn't put us out," said Johnson. "Winning is very important, but it's not the most important game of the series. We think we can beat them on their court if we play our game."

Chicago never trailed in the first game, but the Kings pulled within 89-87 with 2:14 left. That's when rookie Scott Wedman drew a charging foul instead of a layup and Bob Love countered with a bucket to put the game out of reach.

Love tallied 38 points and Norm Van Lier, who was most responsible for holding Archibald to more than 14 points under his seasonal average, added 20 points.

"But the big thing was, we never got our running game going," said Johnson. "And that was primarily because they shot so well. It's hard to run when the other team doesn't miss."

'Silent Auction' of Rare Photo to Defray Schechter Campaign Costs

LAKE HILL

A never-before released White House photo President John F. Kennedy—shown with Mrs. Kennedy, Vice President Johnson and former presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson—will be raffled off during a "silent auction" at the Lake Hill home of William Schechter, to help reduce the 1974 Schechter-for-Congress debt, it was announced today by Mrs. Rose Koplovitz, chairman of the event.

Schechter ran in a Democratic primary in the 27th District, but was defeated by Matthew H. McHugh of Ithaca who went on to victory in the general election.

The auction will be held Sunday, April 27, from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Schechter home on Route 212.

The photo, a gift of former White House counsel Theodore C. Sorensen, is being framed with a letter from Sorensen describing the event where it was taken and attesting to its rarity. Tickets — the price of admission — will be $2.

A photo of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, donated to the auction by the late Senator's campaign photographer, Burton Berinsky, also is being framed with Berinsky's description of the event where it was taken and his confirmation that it had never previously been released from his private collection. According to Mrs. Koplovitz, the Robert Kennedy photo will be auctioned in the only "vocal" competitive bidding of the afternoon.

Mrs. Koplovitz explained that in a silent auction, bids for merchandise are written on pieces of paper with the name of the bidder, folded and placed on the article bid for. None of the bidders is aware of the size of competing bids and only the winning (highest) bid for each article is announced. Tie-bids are settled by a flip of a coin.

Participants also are encouraged to contribute at least one article of merchandise to the auction at their arrival, "an item, in good condition, that someone else would want," Mrs. Koplovitz said.

"We also want to stress that this is a non-partisan event," she added, "to reduce a left-over campaign debt of last summer, for take home bargains that they can successfully bid for without the embarrassment of being goaded by a professional auctioneer. Everyone is invited, no matter what their political — or non-political — affiliation. After all, that piece of furniture or bric-a-brac you may want won't know nor care if you're a Republican, a Democrat, or a vegetarian."

For further information and directions, contact Mrs. Koplovitz in Woodstock.

Civic Center Groundbreaking Is Slated

POUGHKEEPSIE

Formal groundbreaking ceremonies for the initial phase of a civic center and commercial-residential complex in downtown Poughkeepsie has been scheduled for Saturday, April 19, beginning at 2 o'clock.

The Civic Center dedication site is located on a parcel bordered by Main and New Market Streets in the city of Poughkeepsie.

A host of dignitaries—including Senator James L. Buckley, Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. and Shirley Cothran, the reigning Miss America—are slated to participate in the groundbreaking rites.

Groundbreaking for the Mid-Hudson Civic Center highlights the redevelopment of downtown Poughkeepsie, which has been a cooperative achievement of the public and private sectors in the Mid-Hudson region.

The Mid-Hudson Civic Center and Plaza has been designed as a facility for community events and will have more than 40,000 square feet of space and 2,500 seats for spectators. It will include a multi-purpose building for exhibitions, conventions, sports events, concerts and meetings. A ice skating rink also is to be included.

Cost of creating the multi-purpose Civic Center building and the skating rink as a municipal facility, on land donated to the city and of remodeling the two structures that are to become the Cultural Art Center is estimated at $4,000,000.

The Poughkeepsie Urban Renewal Agency, which has brought $43 million in federal funds into Poughkeepsie since 1966, and the city of Poughkeepsie have worked closely with the developers and civic organizations interested in the project. Both the PURA and the city look forward to a construction scheduled ranging over the next four years.

Mayor Arthur Weinberg of Poughkeepsie, in noting the April 19 groundbreaking rites, said: "Redevelopment is almost entirely a matter of cooperative spirit and leadership. We see such collaborative effort as the key to the redevelopment of some of the nation's older communities, such as Poughkeepsie.

Two Lose Lives In Rt. 17 Crash

WURTSBORO
Two persons were killed and two others admitted to the hospital early Saturday in a Route 17 accident in Sullivan County, about 12 miles south of Ellenville.

And a Northern Dutchess County woman, Janet Weber of Stanfordsville, was killed in another auto accident early Saturday on I-81 near the northeastern Pennsylvania city of Hazleton.

State police at Ferndale reported that two passengers in a 1973 Cadillac were killed at 3:30 a.m. near Wurtsboro when the driver of the car, Henry James of Commack, L.I., apparently fell asleep, and collided with a diesel tractor operated by Lee F. Straley, 36, of 6 Vincet Road, Poughkeepsie. Straley was not injured.

Killed were Leonard F. Gagnon, 47, of Medford, Mass. and Arthur M. Powers, 34, of Stony Brook, L.I.

Pronounced in "fair" condition late Saturday at Horton Memorial Hospital, Middletown, were a mother and daughter, passengers in the James car. They are Joan Macan, 47, and Virginia Macan, 18, both of Hauppauge, L.I.

In Hyde Park, Dutchess County Sheriff's deputies reported that a Friday night two-car accident sent Terry Elliott, 32, of Roosevelt Road, Hyde Park to St. Francis Hospital with a broken leg.

Police said the head-on collision between Elliott's 1974 Corvette and Royal V. Haines Jr.'s pickup truck on Route 9G, resulted when Elliott failed to keep right. He received a summons for this. Haines was treated and released at the hospital.

There were three accidents in Saugerties in a period from 8 p.m. Friday to 1:30 a.m. Saturday. Town police investigated a one-car accident Friday. Christine Freeburn, 27, of Blue Hill Drive, Saugerties, reportedly failed to negotiate a curve on Route 32 at the intersection with Ulster Landing Road, Flatbush, and rolled her car over in a ditch.

At 1:30 a.m., Saturday, a car driven by Louis Mowen, Box 413, Saugerties, and a truck operated by Richard Schmigel of Pownal, Vt. collided on Route 32 as the truck was reportedly backing off the highway, near Cedar Grove.

Mrs. Mary Mower, wife of the driver, was treated at Benedictine Hospital for injuries. There were no summonses issued.

And two young Saugerties residents refused medical treatment after the car driven by William M. Pousant, 16, of Malden, left Malden Avenue at 1:29 a.m., Saturday, crossed the road to a ditch, spun around, and struck a utility pole, snapping it off, village police said.

Cafe Star Dead

Josephine Baker, the American-born queen of French music halls for half a century, died Saturday in the midst of a triumphant comeback. She was 69.

Schmid, Banker, Succumbs

KINGSTON
Alfred Schmid, prominent Kingston businessman and member of numerous civic and fraternal organizations, died suddenly Friday.

A longtime resident of Kingston, he retired in 1961 as president of A. Schmid and Company, a men's clothing firm. He was a vice-president of the Ulster County Savings Bank, past president of the Kingston Rotary Club, past president of the YMCA, past president of the Home for the Aged, and a member and past president of the Wiltwyck Golf Club.

Mr. Schmid, who resided at Stony Run Apartments, was also a past president of the Kingston Board of Education, a member of the official board of the Children's Home, and a former member of the Chamber of Commerce.

Survivors are his wife, the former Jane Hogeboom, a brother, Walter Schmid of Philadelphia, Pa., and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral and burial will be at the convenience of the family, with burial in the North Marletown Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the YMCA Building Fund or to the Ulster County Chapter of the Heart Fund.

'Ties' Arrests

RHINEBECK
Penn Central Railroad has been replacing railroad ties on the east shore, and it appears the old ties are a temptation too great to resist for some.

State police reported four persons were arrested in two separate incidents Saturday afternoon for taking the old ties.

Frank Izzo, 32, Harder Road, Woodstock, and John Lapoe, 35, of Shokan, were arrested on the felony charge of grand larceny third degree for allegedly loading up on the ties in Rhinebeck. They were released in their own custody by Rhinebeck Town Justice Herman Tietjen for reappearances Thursday in court. Izzo was also charged with criminal possession of a loaded pistol.

And in Red Hook, Albert Hurd, 39, of Mountain View Road, Red Hook, was arrested along with his son Michael Hurd, 18, of Stuyvesant Charter, Kingston by the Penn Central tracks, charged with petit larceny. "They took fewer ties," explained Rhinebeck troopers.

Rondout's Review of American History

in Celebration of the Bicentennial Years

Starting on April 18 and continuing throughout 1975 and 1976, Rondout Savings will present, in the pages of this newspaper, a series of historical events that took place during our War for Independence two hundred years ago.

We have obtained, from the Bettman Archive, a collection of old engravings and prints illustrating these events. Our reviews will be based on careful research and will be historically accurate.

Because many of these happenings took place right here in the Hudson Valley, you may wish to clip and save them as your own Bicentennial project. We hope this series will make you as proud of the American past as we are in presenting it.

County Youth Service

KINGSTON
The first of three proposed meetings of the Ulster County Youth Service Committee will be held Thursday, April 24, at the Statewide Savings Bank in Kingston, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Gladys Paulson, chairman of the Dutchess County Emergency Shelter Committee, would be the guest speaker for the April 24 session.

President Haluska, in a letter to members of the Youth Service Committee, as well as prospective members, reported that 1974 was considered an auspicious year with the two initial goals coming close to realization. She added that the Ulster County Youth Board will soon be a reality as the organizational committee prepares to present its recommendations to the Ulster County Legislature. The search is continuing for an appropriate and agreeable site for the 7-bed residence.

The president's letter continued: "Still, there is opportunity for continued progress. Research for our projects has shown the need for temporary housing for youngsters waiting to be placed in a permanent and satisfactory situation. It is not unrealistic to work for the establishment of a second 7-bed residence in Ulster County."

Other new officers working with Sherry Haluska include: Sue Sarr, vice-president; Horace Sarr, treasurer and Nancy Sack, secretary.

Milton Trooper Graduates

Robert W. Murphy of Latintown Road, Milton was among 66 new state troopers who graduated Friday from the New York State Police Academy here upon completion of the basic training course that began last November.

Also among the graduates was a Hunter woman, Claire Mulcahy, the daughter of a retired New York City policeman. She is the fifth woman to enter the ranks of the state police.

Addressing the graduates at exercises held in the academy auditorium was Maj. Gen. John C. Baker, chief of staff to the governor and the father of a state trooper.

Screening Workshop Scheduled

HEMSTEAD
An all-day kindergarten screen workshop, sponsored by the Center for Continuing Education at the State University College at New Paltz, will be held at the Holiday Inn in Hemstead on Tuesday, April 22.

Dr. Shirley Zeitlin will conduct the morning sessions on the topic "Kindergarten Screening—Why, What, How and when." Dr. Dr. Lois Nichols will conduct the afternoon workshop on "Development of Programs After Screening and Diagnosis."

Information and registration forms can be obtained from the Conference Desk at the Center for Continuing Education.

Kindergarten Orientation In Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK
A Kindergarten Orientation Program for children entering the Rhinebeck Central School District in September will be held April 14-21-28. Parents are asked to contact Mrs. Schadd or Mrs. Tumolo.

Kindergarten registration will be held at the Chancellor Livingston School from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on May 13 and 14, and a special kindergarten orientation will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Chancellor Livingston School.

Screening of kindergarten children will be held on May 27 and 28 for all children entering a kindergarten program this fall. An explanation of the screening will be given to parents at the orientation programs.

Library Open House

HURLEY
The Hurley Library has announced that it will hold an open house during National Library Week, April 14-19.

Hours for the open house are Tuesday through Friday from 2 to 5 p.m.; Tuesday through Thursday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Refreshments will be served during the open house hours, and tours of the newly painted and renovated library will be conducted.

Cycling Session

KINGSTON
The public is invited to attend the next regular meeting of the Ulster Cycling Club, slated for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 17, at the Statewide Savings and Loan Association, 267 Wall Street, Kingston.

After a short business meeting a program of "Bicycle Clinic" will be presented.

Point Debated, But Hardly Resolved

Critical Home Rule Question Aired at Catskill Region Forum

By Jon Powers

GLENFORD

One of the most critical and controversial issues under debate in the Catskill region — the question of home rule versus state or regional intervention in the decision-making process — was debated, but certainly not resolved, at a forum sponsored by the Catskill Center for Conservation and Development (CCCD) Saturday in Glenford.

The home-rule debate has intensified with the recent recommendations of the Catskill Study Commission (CSC) and the suggestion by some that a permanent regional body be given the power to determine land use policies. While Saturday's forum may not have resolved the dispute, it at least gave the combatants the opportunity to search for a common middle ground of agreement.

Practically no one at Saturday's meeting would argue with suggestions that local government has done a pretty dismal job over the years in the area of land-use control. But there were a great many who insisted that local controls still remain the salvation for the future.

One who has moderated his beliefs somewhat over the past several weeks is Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey (D-101st). Referring specifically to the makeup of an extended Catskill Study Commission, the Saugerties Assemblyman told the gathering, "I've come to change my mind somewhat. I believe it is essential that local interests should be represented by local people."

But apparently Hinchey still believes that local government has not earned the right to absolute home rule.

"Local government is often susceptible to the wrong kinds of pressures," he commented, "too often it is not responsive to the most critical issues and needs of the citizenry."

"Planning begins and ends ultimately at the local level," Hinchey continued, "so local government must become a full-fledged partner of county and regional planning agencies. But too often, local government doesn't live up to its responsibilities."

One man who does believe that local government can still act responsibly and positively is Charles Brown, president of the Mountain Top Study Commission in Greene County, an organization that has stimulated local solutions to local problems.

"It may seem alluring to impose progress on localities rather than wait for them to do it," said Brown, "but modern democracy rests on a free and responsible local government."

Later, he added, "The answer is to give us help, advice and expertise. With help, we can make our own decisions."

Arthur Weintraub, senior vice-president with Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, likewise believes that all the blame should not be placed on the narrow shoulders of local government.

"Most local decisions are based on the next election," said Weintraub, "and the response is often to parochial and narrow interests. But I wouldn't blame local government entirely. New York State continues to be exceptionally backward in areas of governmental reform, land-use planning, public works programs, transportation and housing. We need more effective state leadership. Strengthening of local government must come from the state level. The state must be the catalyst."

Other comments at Saturday's meeting stressed the advantages of a well-informed and responsible local government, and warned against the dangers of a complete usurpation of home rule.

Geddy Svekauskas of Woodstock: "By and large, local government is honest and responsive . . . often it doesn't have the necessary information to make the decisions it must."

Ruth Hilf, chairman of the Town of Shandaken Environmental Conservation Commission: "Planning board members often have special interests that determine their decisions . . . often they don't have the technical expertise or training to do their jobs properly."

Edward West, a member of the Town of Shandaken Planning Board: "Local government is frequently influenced by minority pressure groups . . . especially in land use planning, guidance must come from county and regional organizations."

Peter Borrelli, CCCD's executive director, concluded the program with perhaps the day's most cogent comment: that, in essence, local government can become only as strong and responsible as the people who serve it.

Heyday at UCCC Draws Crowd

Ari Planned A Divorce

NEW YORK (UPI) — Aristotle Onassis decided shortly before his death to start divorce proceedings against his wife, Jacqueline, the New York Times reported Saturday.

The Greek shipping magnate's will provided only $3 million for Mrs. Onassis, far less than published reports have indicated she would receive, the Times quoted friends of the Onassis family as saying.

The will also set up trust funds of $1 million each for the children from Mrs. Onassis' marriage to the late President John F. Kennedy, the article said.

Caroline and John Kennedy will receive incomes from the fund until they are 21 years old, the Times said. Onassis, who died in Paris March 15, left an estate valued as high as $500 million. Previous reports had said Mrs. Onassis would receive up to $200 million in her bequest, and her children Caroline and John would inherit as much as $15 million each.

The Times said the divorce action was set in motion Dec. 3, when John Meyer, described as Onassis' closest associate, called New York lawyer Roy M. Cohn.

"He called me when Mr. Onassis was with him," the Times quoted Cohn as saying Friday. "He said it was absolutely definite, and that Mr. Onassis wanted to end the marriage."

The Times said it has been unable to obtain comment from Meyer, although one of his associates said Meyer would not answer questions until "the (Onassis) family has decided what to do about Jackie."

The New York News, however, reached Meyer in Florida late Friday night and he denied he had contacted Cohn in connection with any Onassis divorce proceedings.

"These stories are totally ridiculous," Meyer told the News. "That skunk (Cohn), I haven't seen him for the last six or seven months, and I can prove it."

"I know nothing about the will or the kids," Meyer told the News.

Meyer who lives in Manhattan, had been an associate of Howard Hughes before working with Onassis.

Neither Cohn nor Meyer was available for comment Saturday.

Ford Renews Pitch for Emergency Cambo Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, apparently surprised at the decision of Cambodia's leaders to remain in Phnom Penh, renewed his request Saturday for emergency military aid to Cambodia.

A top presidential aide, who declined to be identified for publication, said Ford expected the major Cambodian government leaders to flee with the Americans and felt obliged to renew his urgent aid request when he learned they had stayed behind.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen restated Ford's aid request — and said it had never been withdrawn — when he briefed newsmen hours after the last Americans had been airlifted out of Phnom Penh under guard of U.S. Marines.

Nessen said the President was relieved at the success of the lightning evacuation but was concerned at reports he had given Cambodia up for lost.

"The President still hopes that the Congress will act quickly to approve assistance to Cambodia," he said.

In his foreign policy speech Thursday, Ford did not renew his request for $222 million in extra military aid to Cambodia. He scolded Congress for refusing to provide it and said: "I regret to say that as of this evening it may be soon too late."

Nessen said Ford did not mean to leave the impression he was withdrawing the request.

On the contrary, he said, Ford meant to point out "the urgency of the need" and still wants to do "whatever is possible" to maintain Cambodia's neutrality and independence.

More Orphans in U.S.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A World Airways 747 jet jammed with 329 Vietnamese and Cambodian war orphans, one dead and many ill, arrived at Los Angeles International Airport Saturday in the first of several weekend Operation Babylift flights.

Thirty one of the orphans, suffering from illnesses including chicken pox, measles, pneumonia and dehydration, were rushed to eight local hospitals. Six of the more seriously ill youngsters, including three in critical condition, were flown by helicopter to County-USC Medical Center.

Some of the children were transferred to another jet for a flight to Fort Benning, Ga., and another group of 22 awaited a flight to Norway as soon as medical authorities gave them clearance.

A 3-month-old boy died aboard the plane on its 12½ hour flight from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

Ex-Paltz Village Mayor DuBois ... Generation of Public Service

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

NEW PALTZ

These are parlous times for politicians. A president resigns in disgrace. A vice-president must expose every penny of his inherited billions to public scrutiny. The most powerful chairman in all of Congress relinquishes his position because of a personal dalliance.

Breathes there a man in this age of political duress who remains untouched by mistrust? Such a one, the residents of New Paltz will tell you, is Henry W. DuBois, who has performed a generation of public service — all of it in the place where he was born and has lived all his life.

When DuBois stepped down as Village of New Paltz Mayor earlier this month, he culminated a political career of 37 years. And it is a career the most adept professional might well envy, for DuBois retires undefeated; can boast of running unopposed in all but one instance.

Never once opposed in his bids for village trustee from 1938 to 1958; opposed only once and victorious even so in his races for village mayor from 1958 until today, he chose not to run this year. Why write finis to such an American success story?

An Envious Career ... Opposed Only Once

"I've arrived at that age," says the friendly, soft-spoken mayor. "And the village has grown. I didn't mean to run last time (1971) anyway. I think I should have retired before. We've just elected a very capable man in John Vett. I've known him for years, and I'm very happy and very glad to turn the reins over to him."

It's a simple case of the spoils belonging to the victor and, in this case, the spoils, DuBois feels, will be a well-earned retirement and "finding things to keep me busy." That he'll find them, he has no doubt. "I have things to do to get the house in shape," he says. "I want to redecorate the interior, and I enjoy refinishing antique furniture. I'd like to do some traveling, but my wife isn't well enough right now."

Politics certainly hasn't made Henry DuBois rich. He earned the far from princely salary of $100 a year as trustee for 20 years; served his early mayoral terms at $1,200 a year until the pay was increased to $1,800. He still lives in the same, small, white frame house with that center of family togetherness — the front porch — on a quiet residential street to which he moved with his bride of a year almost 40 years ago.

Born on a New Paltz farm, he helped work the farm with his parents until hard times sent him to work in the local Huguenot National Bank for $80 a month as a bookkeeper. That was 1929, the year the stock market crashed, and he remembers the first garbled telegram that came through in 1933 asking the banks to close, when they were eventually undermined. "They didn't tell us we had to close, though, so we were one of the few banks that stayed open a day longer. Next day we had to close — and stayed closed about three days until we were authorized to open so people could draw out a little money (the amount was limited) so they wouldn't go hungry. New Paltz survived the depression well, even though there was no WPA project in the village."

From bookkeeper to teller to cashier, DuBois moved up the banking ladder at the old Huguenot until its merger with the State of New York National Bank, where he became assistant vice-president. As a man of finance, he feels money problems today stem from the fact that taxes are higher than they were in depression days, and that's "the thing that hurts most people now."

Far from being a nostalgic senior citizen, Henry DuBois does not pine for the good, old days, "Most of us wouldn't want to go back to them," he says. As for the myriad changes he's seen in his lifetime, he thinks "television is one of the things that's made a big change for all of us. It's changed all of us and changed out attitudes." The automobile, he feels, runs a close second — and he still remembers his first ride in a sputter-buggy at the age of four. "I rode half a mile with a neighbor," he recalls, "and had to walk back."

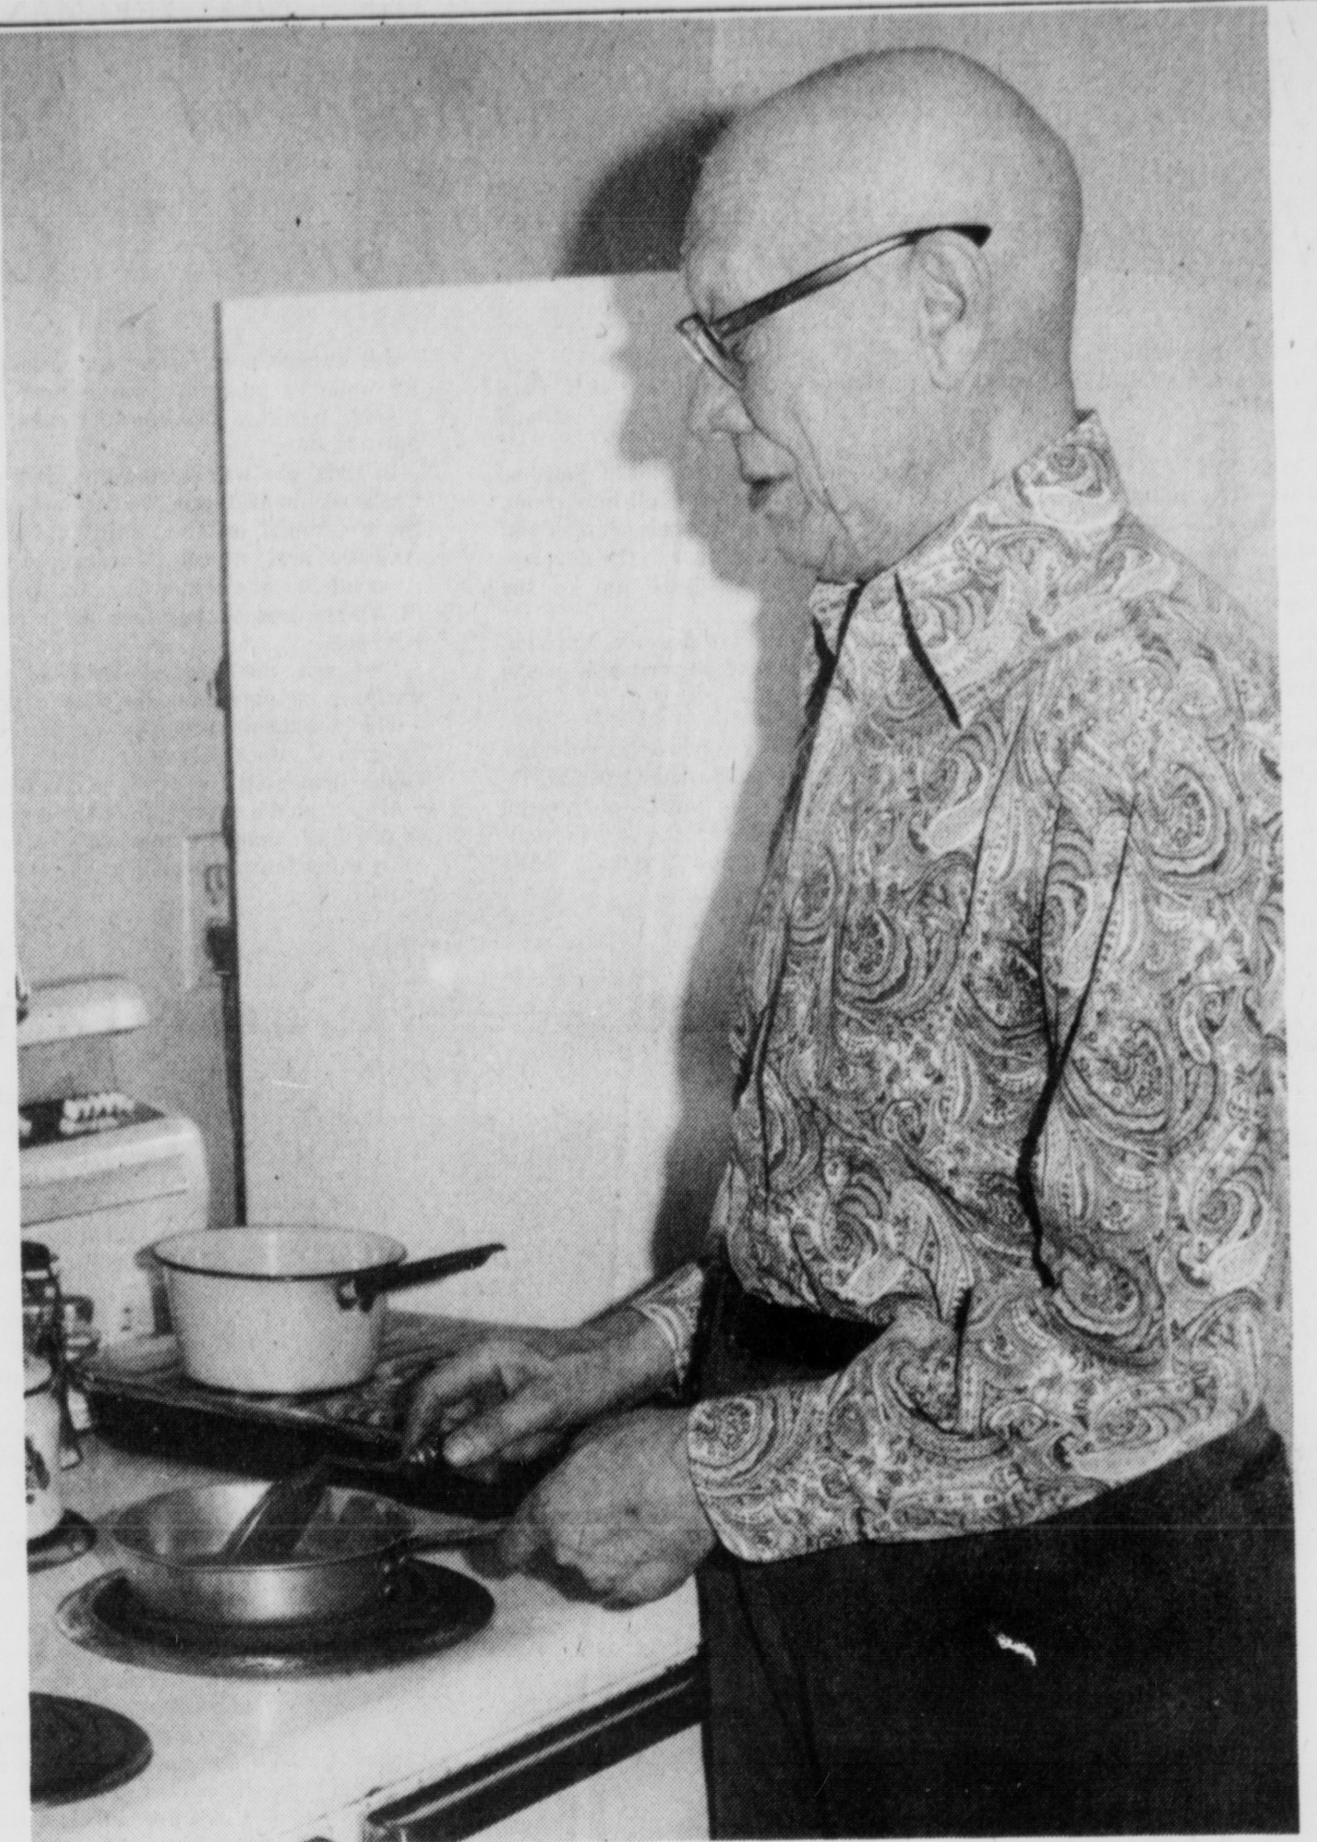

He minimizes his almost totally unopposed record of political runs. "In the old days," he suggests, "no one opposed who was put up in a village caucus." A lifelong Republican, he maintains — nevertheless — that he has always said he'd never want to live in a country that had only one party, because they breed corruption. And Republican DuBois thinks Watergate and all its attendant corruption "disgraceful." The Teapot Dome scandal still etched in his memory ("they took sides on it and talked about it in those days, too" he says), he's convinced "most of us couldn't believe Watergate happened."

As for his own career, he sees its highlights as the building of the new municipal building in Paltz, along with the building of the new sewage plant, the placement of larger water lines down from the mountain to the village, and the installation of a new 2-million gallons standpipe. Soon the village will have two new fire trucks due to his foresight, one an aerial truck never seen on its streets before.

Indeed, DuBois' community service is as impressive as his political career. Long associated with the local fire department as an officer, he's been treasurer of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association for close to 30 years. He has also worked long and hard for the Elting Memorial Library, the Grange when it was an active organization, the Paltz Club, and the DuBois Family Society. He gives fealty to the latter because his father's DuBois ancestors and those of his mother (a Freer) were among the original 12 New Paltz patentees.

A gentleman of the old school, then, is Henry W. DuBois. A humble but consummate politician; a man to whom the word 'corruption' is anathema; a fireman who has seen the mode of fighting fires change drastically over the years; a New Paltzer proud of the fact that the one-building high school from which he graduated with his twin brother is now surrounded by one of the largest university complexes in the State.

The doting father of two and grandfather of six; a fan of TV, who listens with one ear while the other tunes in to the fire and police receiving unit in his living room; a man who knows his family history from the time his ancestors left France; a mayor on the very verge of retirement who, like that comparable champion, Rocky Marciano returned unscathed and undefeated!

Mrs. Dexter O. Arnold of Saugerties Named by Ford to Women's Commission

Another honor has come to Mrs. Dexter O. Arnold of Saugerties.

The Ulster County resident has been named by President Gerald R. Ford as a member of the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year.

The purpose of the celebration in 1975, as set forth by the United Nations, is to promote equality between men and women, ensure the full integration of women in the total economic and social development of their country and recognize the importance of women's increasing contribution to the development of friendly relations and cooperation among states and to the strengthening of world peace.

Mrs. Arnold, who is executive assistant to the executive director, National Retired Teachers Association in Washington, is one of 33 members of the commission named by President Ford.

Other well-known women named include the nation's only woman governor — Democrat Ella Grasso of Connecticut, former Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., former White House counselor Anne Armstrong; author-playwright Clare Boothe Luce; television's Barbara Walter and Pat Hutar, former vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee and presently U.S. representative to the U.N.

Jill Ruckelshaus, former special assistant to the counselor to the President for women's programs, was named to head the new commission.

Mrs. Arnold, a well-known speaker, has received many outstanding honors and citations.

In 1962, she was elected president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and in 1970 was elected to the council on Status of Women, New York State Council on Continuing Education, Outstanding Young Women of America and served as consultant for the National Retired Teachers Association. She is now serving as president of the Council on Status of Women and is chairman of the board for Outstanding Young Women of America.

Last year, the Saugerties resident was honored as an "Arkansas Traveler" during a ceremony at Old State Capitol in Little Rock, Ark.

The Arkansas ceremony marked the third time Mrs. Arnold was so recognized. Both Governor Orville Faubus and Governor Winthrop Rockefeller presented the State of Arkansas top recognition to Mrs. Arnold.

Mrs. Arnold's promotion of the eradication of illiteracy, both in the United States and among women in foreign countries, has brought considerable recognition to both herself and to the Organizations working with her in this project.

PROF. KRIEDEL . . . STUDY AHEAD

(UPI)

By United Press International
The "ideal of manhood" on the American scene—what is it?

Two-fisted and swashbuckling? Square-shouldered, bronzed, black curly-haired? Short, balding, pot-bellied? Is the "ideal of manhood" expected to use four-letter words and collect cheesecake for his locker door of office wall?

No one really knows. But a slightly ascerbic professor by the name of Leonard Kriegel is going to spend the next academic year "studying the idea of manhood in American literature and society."

The professor of English from The City College, City University of New York, will do so under terms of an award from the Rockefeller Foundation. It is one of the first humanities' research grants made by the Foundation.

When he was 11 and before the polio vaccine, Dr. Kriegel was crippled by the paralytic disease. Since then he has worn leg braces and depended on them and crutches to get from here to there.

"The validity of my study for humanistic studies," he said in an interview, "lies in the exploration of certain fundamental concepts of American life—courage, pain, and masculinity—during a time of immense change in American culture."

Dr. Kriegel became expert in courage and pain through the polio.

"We live during a time in which traditional masculinity is on the defensive, under attack from different quarters," Kriegel said in his research proposal.

"My purpose is neither to defend nor to attack the masculine ideal that I see; it is, rather, to unfold a fascinating and complex relationship between courage, pain and masculinity in American culture."

He asked:

"Is the ideal of manhood one which insists on a form of behavior in man that makes demands...that are ultimately impossible?"

That kind of manhood, according to Kriegel, would be the kind Ernest Hemingway created for his fiction.

"Hemingway's suicide was a kind of final comment on 'manhood' and the demands it makes."

"It's not just sexual conquests but the idea of throwing oneself against life, going into battle every day."

"Imagine the pain this kind of image can cause a man who must face enormous pain every day...say a cripple who accepts his physical pain as a part of existence."

"Imagine that man, the cripple, reading about an athlete considered heroic because he plays a game with a bum shoulder or a sprained wrist."

Kriegel said the physical pain actually is the easiest part. He suggested taking the breadwinner as one example of the ordinary everyday man.

"There is no place for him to express himself emotionally," he said. "No place to express his feelings about what he's up against. He is expected to be a stoic, a strong world unto himself. Ultimately this leads him to all kinds of problems."

Kriegel's study will begin with an autobiographical reflection, "similar in manner and tone to an essay I wrote several years ago entitled 'Uncle Tom and Tiny Tim: Some Observations on the Cripple as Negro.'" That was published in the quarterly of Phi Beta Kappa, The American Scholar.

In that essay he examined the cripple and black and in terms of what the dominant culture does to each.

Next, he is going to examine "manhood" in the life and work of some writers, including Hemingway, Stephen Crane, John Steinbeck, Henry Miller, Ring Lardner, and Norman Mailer.

"A great deal, perhaps too much has been made of the Hemingway hero by literary critics," he said.

Historic 'Met' Night

Beverly Sills . . a Long Time Coming

NEW YORK (UPI) — Beverly Sills, at 45 the most acclaimed American soprano on the international operatic scene, made her belated debut with the Metropolitan Opera last week before an adoring audience which showered her with silver confetti, flowers and shouted "bravas."

It was one of the most historic occasions in the 90-year history of the Metropolitan, attended by many celebrities and Met stars, present and past.

Famed Soprano Conquered Demands With Ease

Miss Sills has been the stellar attraction of the Met's Lincoln Center neighbor, the New York City Opera, for almost a decade and at long last made the big step next door to sing Pamira in Rossini's "The Siege of Corinth."

Orchestra seats sold at $60 a ticket plus $40 more for a midnight supper dance in the opera house.

The debut had been in the planning for three years since the late Met general manager, Goeran Gentele, had offered Miss Sills the major roles denied her by his predecessor, Sir Rudolf Bing.

Gentele's successor, Schuyler Chapin, was all smiles as he conducted the diva back to her dressing room after a 20-minute final ovation which glittered with a reign of confetti and flowers from the balconies.

"It was really a great night," Chapin said. "I wish it had taken place a while ago."

Miss Sills' famous coloratura conquered Rossini's florid vocal demands with ease and her acting was, as always, controlled and affecting. Pamira is a killing role and Miss Sills was almost always on stage, a dominating figure with a mane of red hair set off by flowing gowns in a light shade dubbed "Beverly blue."

But it was not her night alone. She shared vocal honors with another great soprano, black mezzo Shirley Verrett, whose role was just as taxing in its coloratura and ornamentation. Miss Verrett, as did Miss Sills, stopped the show for five minutes after her longest aria. Miss Sills had done part of hers prone on a divan, which pleased her fans no end.

The male leads were Harry Theyard, whose tenor continues to grow in authority, though it suffers from a vibrato, and Justino Diaz, whose impressive bass is best in its middle and upper registers. Thomas Schippers gave a well-paced reading to Rossini's score, rich in melodic ideas but tending to rush along without contrasting development. The action is essentially static.

The opera is 149 years old, but new to the Met. The first and third acts were borrowed from the 1969 La Scala production in Milan, in which Miss Sills starred. The second act scene in the tent of the Turkish besieger of Corinth is a striking creation by Nicola Benois, all sultry reds and blues lit by brass braziers and lamps.

Miss Sills plays the daughter of the Christian governor of Greek Corinth, who has a frustrated love affair with a 15th century Turkish Muslim conqueror, sung by Diaz.

She will take the show on the road with the annual Met tour beginning April 21, singing "Siege" in Boston, Detroit, Atlanta, Memphis, Dallas and Minneapolis.

Stowell-Pitt

Presentation Church in Port Ewen was the setting for the marriage of Elizabeth Marguerite Stowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stowell Jr. of Ulster Park, and Paul Henry Pitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pitt Sr. of Ulster Park.

The Rev. Father McDonough of Mt. St. Alphonsus officiated at the ceremony April 6. Wayne Cusher, organist, accompanied Mrs. Frank Sass who sang wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of imported satin-faced organza fashioned with a princess styled bodice, long sleeves, and an A-line skirt. The gown was accented with Nottingham lace and Venise lace braid, and featured a cathedral length train. A Juliette-styled headpiece held her silk illusion veil.

Cindy Pitt, sister of the bridegroom, Ulster Park, served as honor attendant. Attendants were Beverly Pitt, sister of the bridegroom; Ruth Conklin, cousin of the bridegroom; Donna Van Loan, cousin of the bride, all of Ulster Park; Kathy Paulucci and Lena Dispensa, cousins of the bride; Diane Rappleyea, all of Kingston. Shannon Smith of Kingston was flower girl.

For her bridal party, the bride selected a color scheme of pale aqua, light blue, melon, pale pink, orchid, Nile and pale maize. The gowns, in rainbow colors of polyester voile, were styled with high necklines, Renaissance sleeves and A-line skirts. They wore camelot-styled headpieces trimmed with flirtation veiling.

George Kunze, uncle of the bridegroom, Hillsdale, N.J., was best man. Ushers were Steven Rinaldo, Philip Dispensa, cousins of the bride, both of Kingston; Anthony Rinaldo, cousin of the bride, George Denise of Glasco; Richard Pitt Jr., brother of the bridegroom; and Steven VanBuren, both of Ulster Park. Jimmy Pitt of Monsey was ringbearer.

A reception was given at The Hedges, West Park. The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School and BOCES Vocational Center where she majored in Cosmetology, is employed by Abel's Market. Her husband, an alumnus of KHS and BOCES Vocational Center where he studied Electrical Occupation, is employed by Beaton Builders Inc.

The couple will reside at Brink's Trailer Park, Lake Katrine.

Marriage Reported

Mrs. Ruth Langwick of Highland announces the marriage of her daughter, Gayle Marie, to Paul Wilhelm in the Congregational Church of Plainville, Conn. The Rev. Rufus Lusk, pastor, officiated.

The bride wore a mandarin-style, white velvet dress with applied flowers centered with seed pearls, and a Juliet bridal cap with an elbow-length veil. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Donna Dietz of New Paltz, who wore a purple gown with a velvet bodice. Both the bride and the matron of honor carried nosegay bouquets of miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Eugene Oviatt of Middlebury, Conn. served as best man.

Mrs. Wilhelm is a 1967 graduate of Highland High School and is employed as a receptionist in the Sterling Optical Company, Plainville, where her husband is manager.

The couple will reside in Plainville.

Linda Ann Mockovcak of Sunset Garden Apartments, Kingston, and Frederick John Reznak of Kingston, formerly of Newark N.J., were married Saturday, April 5 at St. John's Episcopal Church, Kingston. The Rev. Mark S. Sisk officiated. Organist Dave Deschler accompanied the Rev. Brian McHugh of West Park who sang wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Mockovcak of Cottekill. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ivy Reznak of Irvington, N.J. and the late Augustine Reznak.

Robert Case, the bride's godfather, gave her in marriage. She selected an Empire-styled gown of a lace-patterned knit. The long, semi-bishop sleeves terminated in a ruffle at the wrists. Her two-tiered fingertip veil was attached to a headpiece of pearls and lace. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias and Stephanotis.

boucle. Her headpiece of tulle was bordered with daisies and she carried a bouquet of roses and chrysanthemums.

Clarice Case of West Park and Paulette Briggs of New Haven, Conn., were attendants. Their blue and pink gowns were identical in styling to the honor attendant's and they carried similar bouquets.

Jeffrey Reznak of East Moriches, L.I. was best man for his brother. Ushers were Charles Ashback of Highland Lakes, N.J. and Leo Breton of Hurley.

A reception was given at Holiday Inn, Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of Rondout Valley High School and Ulster County Community College, is employed at the Chas. Ramsey Corp. Her husband, an alumnus of Newark High School and the New Jersey Institute of Technology, is employed as a systems programmer at IBM.

The couple will reside at Sunset Garden Apartments.

Tomanelli-Mannese

Teresa Ann Tomanelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tomanelli of Marlboro, became the bride of Vincent F. Mannese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Mannese of Marlboro, April 5 at Sacred Heart Church, Newburgh.

The Rev. Father Mangrelli officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Theresa A. Tomanelli of Newburgh was matron of honor for her sister-in-law. Attendants were Deborah A. Mannese, sister of the bridegroom; Carole A. Tomanelli, cousin of the bride, both of Marlboro; and Mrs. Grace M. Smmons, cousin of the bride, Tivoli.

John F. Panzella, uncle of the bridegroom, Marlboro, was best man. Ushers were John Bunt, Domenick J. Tomanelli, brother of the bride, both of Marlboro; Frank D. Tomanelli, brother of the bride, Newburgh.

A reception was given at Villa Baglieri, Highland.

The bride, a graduate of Aquinas High School, Bronx, attended Bronx Community College, and was graduated from UCCC with an AAS degree in Accounting. She is employed by J.C. Motors, Inc., Newburgh. Her husband, an alumnus of Marlboro Central High School and UCCC where he earned an AAS degree in Physical Education, is employed by Lone Star Industries, Marlboro.

After a wedding trip to San Juan, Puerto Rico, the couple will reside in Marlboro.

By John Shuttleworth

The politicians keep saying, "the worst of inflation is over" and "the country will be out of its economic slump by fall" ... and they may be right. But the damage has already been done. Even if prices drop by 10 percent across the board tomorrow (which they won't) and even if we return to full employment the day after (which we won't), tens of millions of American families are going to have trouble paying bloated supermarket bills with shrunken dollars for months and years to come.

Little wonder, then, that so many thousands of U.S. and Canadian breadwinners are now discovering the virtues of the food-buying co-op.

Food co-ops are springing up all over the continent and some claim to save their members as much as 40 percent on weekly grocery bills. That may well be possible under unusual circumstances but shouldn't be considered typical.

As Art Danforth (secretary-treasurer of the Cooperative League of the U.S.A.) says, "A well-managed co-op can, on the average, save its members about 20 percent of the money they'd ordinarily spend, every week on food."

Still, that's nothing to sneeze at. Any time you can save 20 percent on your purchases, you're making four dollars do the work of five ... which is more than enough to offset the bite inflation took out of your pocketbook during the past 12 months.

There isn't any free lunch in this world, however, so don't expect that one-in-five saving to fall into your lap all by itself. It takes an additional investment, some planning and a certain amount of energy and work to organize and operate a buying club. You should always start or join such a group with your eyes open.

For example: The North Country Co-op in Minneapolis was launched five years ago on an initial investment of $1,500 (just enough to pay for rent on an old storefront and buy beginning stock for food). The money was raised by selling stock for $2 a share. Each entitled its holder to one vote although no individual—no matter how many shares of common stock he or she bought—was allowed a greater than one-vote voice in the store's operation. Preferred stock (with no voting rights) was also sold to anyone who wanted to invest more than $2 in the collective.

In addition to the above "joining fees," every family or individual member of the North Country Co-op is expected to donate enough volunteer labor to the organization to keep it running smoothly. Customers also bring their own bags and jars to the store when they shop, serve themselves, weigh and price their purchases, and total their own bills.

Is it worth it? North Country members seem to think so.

Many Virtues of Food-Buying Co-Op

When soybeans were selling for 39¢ a pound at a nearby chain store, the co-op was charging only 7 cents. Prices like that helped the collective grow from the back porch of someone's home into a jam-packed two-story building in less than a year.

The Wild Rice Co-op in New York City was started — and grew — in a similar manner a couple of years after the North Country operation was founded. Each individual or family membership in the New York club was charged a $10 sign-up fee plus a $5 "spoilage" charge to cover the extra expenses incurred when someone placed an order and then failed to pick it up. Members were also required to donate six hours of work to the co-op every quarter.

The payoff? When a local health food store was selling mung beans and granola for 98 and 79 cents a pound, respectively, Wild Rice offered the same items for only 38 and 55 cents. The co-op was also pricing a two-pound bag of stone-ground barley flour at 46 cents (compared to 90 cents "outside").

I've received similar success stories from virtually every section of the United States and Canada. I've also heard of food co-ops that blossomed only briefly before going under. The difference between the buying clubs that flourish and those which fail can usually be summed up in two words: organization and dedication.

The organization part is easy. If you think you'd like to set up a food co-op, write to the Cooperative League of the U.S.A., 456 Frontage Road, Northfield, Ill., 60093 and ask for the association's free listing of pamphlets on the subject. They'll tell you everything you need to know to make your buying club function smoothly.

Dedication is sometimes a little harder to lay your hands on. Especially when it comes to the "volunteer labor" or the "required six hours of work every quarter." That sometimes seems like a lot of "extra" effort ... until it's compared to the time your family's official shopper now spends going from store to store in search of bargains, the hours he or she invests every month in pushing a grocery cart, and the time he or she is kept waiting in supermarket checkout lines.

So you pay your money and you make your choice. Joining a co-op is not the answer for everyone ... but with each new hike in food prices and sag in employment, membership in a food-buying club does become just that much more attractive.

For a concise mini-course in how to set up and run a food co-op, send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to The Mother Earth News, in care of The Freeman, Box 4994, Des Moines, Iowa 50306. Ask for Reprint No. 122, "How to Make a Co-op Work."

Little Gardens Club of Kingston

A lecture and slide presentation by Harold Hogan, County Co-Operative Extension Agent, was given at the last meeting of the Little Gardens Club of Kingston. Many helpful procedures for the Home Vegetable Gardener, and advice on soil testing, location of the garden, and planting schedules for this area, were among the topics Mr. Hogan covered.

The business meeting was conducted by the President, Mrs. James Brett, and a third lesson, in preparation for a Spring Flower Show stressed the importance of Selecting Plant Material.

Invitations have been issued to the other Garden Clubs for the demonstration of "New Trends in Flower Arranging" to be given by Mrs. Everett Bennett, third district director. This program will be held at the Hurley Reformed Church on May 1 at 1 p.m.

The next regular meeting will be held in the Dutch Room Hurley Reformed Church, April 17 at 12:30 p.m.

Women in Viet... Woodstock Program

Women in Vietnam, a slide show, covering the history of achievements and sufferings of the women in Indochina, will be presented Thursday night, April 17, at the Woodstock Women's Center, 59A Tinker Street.

The slide show, by actress and activist Jane Fonda, will be presented by Ruth Soltanoff.

As well as the achievements and sufferings of the Vietnam women, the slide presentation also shows how their involvement has changed from passive enslavement in feudal times to active fighting against French colonialism and the American presence.

Ms. Jacobs has been the coordinator of Women's Studies at State University College at New Paltz and is currently teaching in the Women's Studies program and in the sociology department.

Upcoming speaker at the Woodstock Women's Center include Lila Karp, Jane Bloom and Mary Daly.

The April 17 program will start at 8:30 p.m.

Masterpiece at Paltz College

Johannes Brahms' choral masterpiece, A German Requiem, will be presented in the Multipurpose room of the Student Union Building at State University College of New Paltz on April 18. A special feature will be the combined voices of two choirs—the New Paltz concert choir, Peter Bagley, conductor and the Vassar College Choir with Jameson Marvin conducting. The concert will begin at 8:30 p.m. on April 18 and tickets are now available at the Student Union information booth. All seats are unreserved.

Matinee Today

Patti Steffens, portraying Susan, the mute girl, and Craig Steffens, as Og, the leprechaun, will be on the boards today in the final presentation of Finian's Rainbow, the 90 Miles Off Broadway show at New Paltz High School. Today's special children's matinee will start at 2 p.m.

Frame Loom Weaving Course

Registrations are due by April 16 for a credit-free course in Frame Loom Weaving offered by Ulster County Community College.

Frame Loom Weaving is unlike other offerings in Handweaving, which utilize floor looms. This course first teaches students to build basic portable frame looms, which are essentially simple tapestry looms. These simplified frames make it possible to do basic tapestry weaving, and students will also learn the principles of pattern weaving and a variety of weaving techniques and improvisations, such as off-loom weaving, Indian finger weaving, and twining. Students will progress at their own rate, depending on their interest and experience, so these classes are designed for beginners as well as more advanced students.

Fiance Conveniently Forgets the Marriage License

DEAR ABBY: I am 18, and the boy I've been dating for two years is 19. We were supposed to get married secretly last month, but Dick showed up without the license.

Originally, when I had asked him if he had it, he had said yes.

But after we arrived at the preacher's house and the preacher asked Dick for the license, Dick said he "forgot" it at home, hoping the preacher would perform the ceremony anyway, and let him bring it around later.

Well, the preacher wouldn't marry us without the license, so we decided to stay in a motel that night, thinking Dick would get the license the next day, and we'd get married and nobody would know the careless mistake he made.

Well, the preacher called my father, and my father came to the motel to pick me up. I felt just awful, but I went with my father.

I still have feelings for Dick. He says if I don't come back to him he will kill himself. My parents say I should let Dick go. Should I listen to my parents or stick with Dick?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Listen to your parents, dear. Dick didn't make a "careless" mistake, he lied to you. He sounds much too immature and irresponsible for marriage now.

DEAR ABBY: I wish people who ask ministers to conduct funerals and weddings knew what the word "honorarium" means (a payment to a professional for services for which no fee is set or legally obtainable.)

Some people feel it is so crude to ask a minister: "How much do I owe you," that they just let the matter go and do nothing about it at all.

My husband is a minister (please don't say where), and within the last year, he was called to officiate at the funeral services of both an elderly man and his wife, who lived 35 miles away. He was given no fee.

Abby, can you imagine anyone writing the following note to an attorney? "Thank you, Mr. Jones, for your legal services. Mother and Dad would have wanted you to come down to handle these legal services for us at this trying time."

Or the minister to his barber: "Thank you, Mr. Smith, for cutting my hair at this time. I would not want to embarrass the family by needing a haircut." Or: "Thank you, Mr. Brown, for the gasoline, oil and car wash. I wouldn't want to run out of gas on my way to a funeral or show up with a dirty car." Or: "Thank you, Mr. White, for cleaning and pressing my suit. I would not want to embarrass the family at this time by appearing unkempt."

In order to make ends meet, my husband moonlights and had to pay a substitute for his second job so he could make these two funerals.

INDIGNANT

DEAR INDIGNANT: Perhaps because there is no set fee for conducting funerals and weddings, some folks feel that there is no fee at all. Also, some clergymen have written to tell me that they consider such services a part of their job, and they're insulted when they are offered money for doing the work of the Lord.

I say: "Offer anyway. The offended clergyman can always refuse."

CONFIDENTIAL TO LU: Don't believe everything you see in print. Many celebrities prefer to let vicious untruths go unchallenged rather than sue for defamation of character because they believe that if one wrestles with a skunk, he's apt to emerge smelling as bad as the skunk.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Parent Counseling for Teeners

A group study to help mothers understand the steps to self-discipline and to use them in counseling their children to develop self-discipline will be conducted by Mrs. Barbara Puster, R.N. of Kingston, at The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Fording Place Road, Lake Katrine, Tuesday, April 15, at 10 a.m.

In order to achieve the best results, maintaining a happy home is fundamental to the total gospel plan for families. Home must be a place where the children like to be, a place where the mother is close to each child, where there is time for each and a time to focus on each child, whatever his age.

Mrs. Irma Gallagher of Woodstock will conduct a study on the one-parent family with the objective of helping women understand ways they can best serve one-parent families. The problems of separation through death of either spouse is a natural one and one that should be discussed when people marry. Separation through divorce presents emotional adjustments and different problems that will be studied and discussed, and how women through compassionate service can help to meet the needs of these one-parent families.

Visitors are always welcome.

Anniversary Activities

KINGSTON St. Clara Church of God in Christ, 155 Murray Street, recently celebrated its anniversary with a gala banquet, awards and special speakers.

Theme of the celebration was The Three Dimension of a Complete Life. In keeping with the theme, plaques were presented the following persons in recognition of their contributions to the community:

Donald I. Shambo received the St. Clara Award for his dedication and outstanding contributions as educator in the personal development of the church youth.

Belle Dunbar received the St. Clara Award for the numerous contributions for others and her concern for people.

Everette Hodge received the St. Clara Award because he exemplifies what altruistic is defined to be. He was cited for his high regard for and devotion to the interest and welfare of others.

The anniversary banquet was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel with 230 persons in attendance. Keynote speaker was the Rev. John Butler of Brooklyn who spoke on Brotherly Love. The Rev. James Childs, pastor of St.

Clara, discussed the theme of the anniversary.

Deacon Charles Williams and the youth choir presented musical selections. Clara Cooper, oldest member of the church, received special recognition.

Funds raised in connection with the event will be used to establish a scholarship fund.

Marbletown May Rites

KINGSTON The Marbletown Reformed Church of Stone Ridge has nearly completed plans for rededication ceremonies to be held Sunday, May 18 at 3 p.m. in the church sanctuary. Restoration and renovation work has been completed well ahead of schedule under the supervision of Carl Gazlay. Kenneth Davenport headed the building committee. Albert E. Milliken of Kingston was architect and A. Lawrence and Son of Stone Ridge was contracting firm. Decorating was coordinated by Wessel Cross through John Martin of High Falls. Rededication base committee includes the pastor, the Rev. Jay McIntosh; the Mmes. Wessel Cross, Frank Grapel and William Collins in addition to the consistory of the church.

At the rededication Walter Bond of the Rogers Organ Company will present special music; a brass choir will play baroque and contemporary selections. Chouch choirs will participate also. Litany of dedication and prayers will conclude the rites.

The church was officially organized in 1738. Cornerstone for the present structure was laid on June 17, 1851. In January of this year work was started on the restoration and renovation project.

Joyful Praise Ringers Here

KINGSTON The Joyful Praise Ringers, a handbell choir from the Catskill Reformed Church, will be performing at the 11 a.m. service at Fair Street Church, Pearl and Fair Streets, Kingston, next Sunday, April 20. High School young people, some of whom have been in handbell choirs for more than ten years, comprise the Joyful Praise Ringers choir. They have appeared in local concerts, including a Guest Artists spot at the Christmas concert of the Greene County Choraleers.

The young people first participated in a Children's and then a Junior Handbell Choir at the Catskill Church, before being promoted to the Joyful Praise Ringers. The musical organization is under the direction of Mrs. Tomas Lhomax, wife of the organist of the Catskill Reformed Church.

Witnesses' Convention

KINGSTON Delegates from the Kingston and Saugerties congregations witnessed the complete water baptism of 41 persons at recent special services conducted at Jehovah's Witnesses Assembly Hall, Forest and Mountain Roads, Monroe. The event was the highlight of the two-day circuit convention comprising 14 congregations. The peak attendance of 1,972 persons heard R. E. Hendricks deliver the principal talk of the convention, Stand Still and See the Salvation of Jehovah.

Gospel Concert Guests

The John Mathews Family of Nashville, Tenn., will present a gospel program at First Baptist Church, Albany Avenue at Broadway, 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 18. The family group is winner of gospel music's coveted Dove Award for the Most Promising New Talent in Gospel Music in 1973. They are recording artists for Tempo Records and make more than 300 personal appearances each year across the country.

It's Getting to Be That Time to Open the Family Pool

MILLWOOD
Springtime is here and swimming pool owners across the country are getting set for the first big splash of the year. In fact, those who have invested in a pool heater or enclosure may already be in the water.

For those just beginning to think of the pool, however,

Franklin C. Odell Jr., president of the Northeast Chapter of the National Swimming Pool Institute, says that "opening a pool is easy if a few simple rules are followed."

"The rules vary a bit, depending upon which kind of pool you have," noted Odell, "so check with your pool builder or service company if there are particular questions or problems."

Odell, a professional engineer who specializes in swimming pools, offers the following advice to help you prepare your pool for daily swims during the long summer months ahead.

Remove the protective winter cover. If water has been left in the pool, drain it or vacuum and remove the debris. (There is probably no need to drain a pool if it is only two or three years old. Vinyl-liner pools should not be drained.) Concrete pools where repainting or repairing is necessary need, however, to be emptied of water. If so, first drain the pool but be careful to scrub the walls as the water level drops. This will prevent the formation of a "bathtub ring" in the pool. A word of warning: underground water pressure may push an empty pool upward. To avoid this, many pool builders install hydrostatic relief valves which allow ground water to enter the pool and relieve any pressure. If there is any question, contact a professional pool service company or builder, who will be able to make recommendations.

Repair cracks and paint as necessary. Call on a professional pool service company or a builder who offers this service.

Examine exposed valves, controls and pipes for obvious deterioration and for leakage when the water is turned on. Minor seepage from exposed valves and joints probably will stop when dried packing and gaskets absorb water. A turn of a wrench may be needed to stop seepage. But if major leaks occur, Odell suggests calling in a professional, depending on how adept the man of the house is with tools.

After a pool has been filled, you are ready to start up the filter operations. Be sure to prime the pump by first filling the lint strainer. When pump is started, if it does not pump water immediately, turn off the motor, remove the cover from the pipe, and inspect the impeller. If impeller is clogged with debris, clean it thoroughly before replacing cover. A noisy pump operation may also indicate worn bearings. A pool builder or service company can replace them. Follow all other steps as outlined by the filter manufacturer to put the equipment into use.

You are now ready to add the chemicals. Be sure to check your chlorine residual and pH level often with a good test kit. These kits are available from your professional pool supply dealer.

Odell suggests an excellent booklet designed for the pool owner entitled "Residential Pool Care Guide" available at $1.50 per copy from the National Swimming Pool Institute, 2000 K Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. 20006.

One last piece of advice. If you are not a do-it-yourselfer, call a professional pool service firm. Most such firms charge a reasonable flat rate for a thorough inspection and add only the cost of replacing the equipment. A list of such firms who are association members is available free of charge by writing the Northeast Chapter, NSPI, Box N, Millwood, N.Y. 10546 and enclosing a stamped (large-sized No. 10) self-addressed envelope.

Cool-Season Vegetables

Vegetable crops that can be planted as early as mid-April include beets, carrots, lettuce, peas, radishes and spinach.

These crops are frost tolerant and can be planted as soon as the garden soil can be worked.

A good test is to mold a handful of soil into a ball. If the ball is not sticky and crumbles readily when pressed with the thumb, the soil is ready to be planted.

The garden plot can be spaded to a depth of eight inches, or if it is a large plot, it should be plowed. Apply fertilizer at the rate of four to five pounds per 100 square feet of garden space.

On soils that have been well fertilized for many years, one to two pounds of fertilizer is adequate if the pH is in the ideal 6.0 to 6.8 range.

If the soil pH, the level of acidity or alkalinity, is between 5.5 and 6.00, apply ground limestone at a rate of three pounds for each 100 square feet on sandy soil or five pounds on clay soil before plowing. Where the pH is 5.0 to 5.5, double the application. Below 5.0 quadruple the application. The soil pH can be determined at Ulster County Cooperative Extension Office, 74 John Street, Kingston, 12401.

After fertilizing the soil, harrow or rake it to break up the clods and to prevent excessive drying. A final raking may be necessary just before seeding.

Crops such as tomatoes, cucumbers, squash and sweet corn must wait until mid-May because they do not grow well until the soil has

Reviewing the vegetable varieties available to the home gardener good beet varieties include Detroit Dark Red, Early Wonder, Ruby Queen and Firechief.

AG Report

By

William H. Palmer

As for carrots, a variety in the Nantes group, plus Royal Chantenay and Danvers 126 are recommended.

Good leaf lettuce varieties recommended for transplanting in April include Prizehead, Black Seeded Simpson, Slobolt, Salad Bowl, and Grand Rapids. Buttercrunch and Summer Bibb (both Bibb type) are excellent for toss salads. Ithaca and Dairton are new crisp head varieties of good quality. If some of the extra plants at thinning time are transplanted, the harvest period can be extended.

Sparkle (early), Frosty (mid-season), and Green Arrow (late) make a good variety sequence for peas. The Sparkle peas do not develop as fast as the pod, so wait until the peas are well developed before harvesting.

As for radish varieties, a combination of Champion and Cherry Belle or Sparkler and White Icicle give a mixture of different types and a short range in maturity.

In choosing spinach for early planting, the gardener is advised to pick out a "spring" variety such as Long Standing Bloomsdale, America, or Northland. Otherwise, the crop may develop seedstalks prematurely — a condition known as bolting.

Onions can be transplanted into the garden fairly early in the season too. Early Yellow Globe, Early Harvest, and Pronto give good bulbs. The Yellow and White Sweet Spanish onions, which are late maturing types, can be planted a little later in the season. Some late varieties such as Downing Yellow Globe can be seeded directly in the garden in April. Green onions grow quickly from sets, which should be planted two to three inches deep to obtain a long blanched stem for eating.

Cabbage and broccoli are also frost tolerant, and can be transplanted into the garden during the second half of April.

Early Marvel, Market Victor, and Emerald Cross are among recommended cabbage varieties. Ruby Ball and Red Head are fairly early-maturing red types. Yellow resistant strains of Golden Acre are recommended.

Spartan Early, Early One, and Green Comet are fast growing broccoli varieties that should do well in most home gardens.

All About Trees

STAMFORD, CONN.

Sanitation can save weakened trees, it helps eliminate borers and bark beetles and reduces the threat of tree diseases.

Tree sanitation, according to Robert A. Bartlett Jr., president of The F. A. Bartlett Tree Expert Co., is pruning out and destroying dead and dying limbs and branches. It also means the removal of completely dead and diseased trees.

Sanitation can be carried out any time of the year, but it is especially important in fall and winter because of overwintering insects in trees. If neglected, borers and beetles that have invaded trees through the summer will develop and peril these trees, as well as neighboring trees next year.

These insects usually prefer diseased or dying parts of a tree. By pruning and destroying such limbs and branches now, the pests will be destroyed, too. Moreover, many beetles, notably elm bark beetles which breed in diseased elms, transmit the fungus disease to healthy trees. Sanitation eliminates both the source of inoculum and the insect vectors.

A good sanitation program carried out in communities in the fall and winter may save countless numbers of trees. It carries with it dividend factors—the elimination of dead and weakened wood in trees which will improve the trees structurally and add to their health and beauty.

Two Masters:
Leonardo & Paddock

What does it take to attain a position of unquestioned superiority and leadership? It was Leonardo Da Vinci's capacity for original thought and perfection of execution that brought him widespread fame and recognition as a master.

One of the reasons why Paddock has become the most respected name in the swimming pool industry is because the men and women at Paddock are innovators, too. In 1936, Paddock was the first company to construct swimming pools using the Gunite method; pneumatically applying concrete over a steel framework. The result — unlimited structural adaptability.

Because of the versatility of the Gunite process, your Paddock Pool is custom designed and site-engineered for you. The exact size, shape and depth of your Paddock Pool is determined by the terrain of the swimming pool's location, your family's needs, and your own personal taste.

The beautifully planned, expertly composed and executed works of a master such as Da Vinci have much in common with swimming pools of Gunite, by Paddock. That commonality may be expressed in one word: excellence. In both cases, impeccable craftsmanship, dedication and innovation, have resulted in immediate popularity and continuing acceptance by the public.

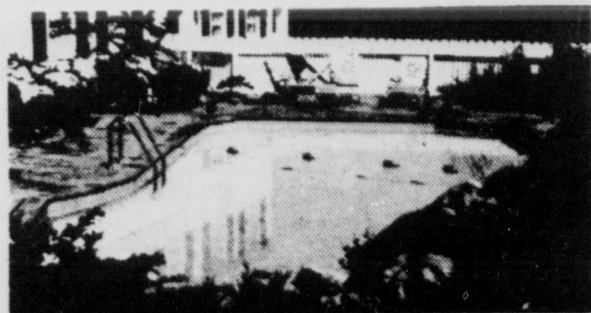

If you are the kind of person who finds pleasure viewing the works of Da Vinci or any great artist or craftsman, then you're also, most assuredly, an individual who will appreciate the superb planning and workmanship that goes into the construction of every Paddock Pool. ELTON JOHN: 'Unusual' friends

TATUM: The big question . . . an affair

News From the Gossip Beat By Robin Adams Sloan

Q: Is Tatum O'Neal really as precocious and obnoxious as publicity makes her out to be?—F.G., St. Louis, Mo.

A: The pint-sized Oscar winner has her admirers and detractors in Hollywood, but there's no question the 9-year-old is precocious. She says her main ambition is to have an affair as soon as possible.

Q: I saw Elton John in "Tommy" and loved him. Tell us something different about this rock star. I can't get enough of him.—J.T., Brooklyn, N.Y.

A: Bet you didn't know that Elton is friends with unusual people out of his age group like Katharine Hepburn. Says Elton: "She's an amazing woman. I was sitting at home one day by the pool when she cycled up the drive. I said I wouldn't go in because there was a frog in the pool. She immediately dived in and fished it out. When I asked her how she could bear to touch it, she just said, 'Character, dear boy, Character!'"

TIP OF THE GODFATHER'S TONGUE: Jimmy Caan is telling this one about Marlon Brando's difficulty in remembering his lines. Because his problems got to be a joke, fellow actors typed Marlon's lines on a small piece of paper and taped it across the tongue of a tall Italian actor Brando was to do a scene with. Caan: "So when Marlon came to say his lines, his eyes started to wander. At that moment the Italian opened his mouth and stuck out his tongue. Brando fell to his knees, he laughed so much." Hmmmm, there's no business like show business.

Q: Is Frank Sinatra on or off with Barbara Marx?—H.W., Silver Springs, Nev.

A: At the moment they're on. He gave her a 44th birthday party recently and invited the Kirk Douglasses, the Spiro Agnews, her parents, and her son by Zeppo Marx. Frankie's gift was a modest diamond bracelet. "The sort of thing you might give a sister," says one onlooker.

Q: What's Ann-Margret really like?—J.T., Boerne, Tex.

A: She's really rather sweet. For instance, Ann-Margret was most touched when she came to New York for the premiere of "Tommy" because one of her undying fans came around to show her he'd had her name tattooed on his arm over a heart. Ann-Margret told everybody about it and was thrilled to pieces.

Q: Why doesn't somebody put the wonderful Rudolf Nureyev into a dramatic play or movie?—W.S., Salt Lake City, Utah.

A: Funny you should say that. The story is around that Tennessee Williams wants to do just that and has written an acting part for the male ballet dancer. Says Rudi: "Yes, Tennessee has spoken to me about a part. It is an idea of his. It hasn't become mine at the moment because I should get on with my dancing."

Your Astrographs for Today, Monday

Sunday, April 13, 1975
ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you're the one who makes out the family budget this week, chances are there'll be a little surplus after bills are paid.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're up to handling matters that call for firmness and persistence. What you start, you're likely to see through.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be hesitant today about calling in nearly forgotten IOU's. Your odds of collecting are better than even.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A good day to appraise the project you've been thinking of undertaking. Today you'll reflect upon it in a practical manner.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Goals are not likely to elude you today. You have some aces in the hole. You know how to play them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you'll be able to put in some good words for a friend of long-standing. She'll learn of this later and be grateful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Talk over financial matters jointly affecting you and your mate. If your goals are in accord, success is within reach.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A decision you'll have to make may at first appear stern to the casual observer. Events will prove that to be necessary just and fair.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll go out of your way to be of service to one who is older. Your kind deed will be remembered and later rewarded.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have an ally who is always there when needed. Again today, she'll do her best to make things pleasant for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll be in the mood to clean up those bothersome little chores you haven't had a chance to get to this week. Get at them!

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today, seek out persons with whom you have ideas in common. Something good will come from your conversations.

April 13, 1975

Your material situation will be more stable this year. Funds should be available to do things for the family you've had to hold in abeyance.

For Monday, April 14, 1975
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't rely on flattery to gain your ends today. If your compliments are insincere, they'll be detected by the recipient.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Put a limit on what you plan to spend at this time for items or activities outside of your normal needs, or you'll get carried away.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have a tendency today to dissipate your small importance. Sight on worthwhile targets only.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A problem can be avoided with one you're fond of by not expecting the other party to jump every time you snap your fingers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's not the time to rehash something a friend did in the past to perturb you. Let bygones be bygones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The co-operation you need from someone will be denied you. Through other circumstances, what you hope to accomplish will be gained.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll have more success with plans today if you deal with the top man instead of going through subordinates.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't try to dominate the social scene today. Allow others in your company and opportunity to occupy the spotlight, too.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In order to keep peace on the home front a compromise will be called for. Center-ground will be the safest spot.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A task that you can normally handle with ease will develop some unexpected problems today. Be careful and patient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're sharing something pleasurable with friends today, be sensible about dividing the costs. Let each pay his portion.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be overly anxious about the outcome of an important event and do something impulsive. It will be okay if allowed to run its course.

April 14, 1975

Surprising success will come to you this year through your creative efforts. Don't let your good ideas go untested, or sit on the shelf to gather dust.

A Ford Medal

By Mort Reed

One of Canada's oldest and finest mints has just issued a Gerald Ford Medal. This month the Lombardo Mint of Sherbrooke, Quebec, will feature a 24-karat gold medallion honoring the United States President.

The new medallion's design, in the tradition of the Lombardo Mint, is overwhelming in simplicity, accenting the strong facial characteristics of President Ford in profile on the obverse. The inscription reads: "Gerald R. Ford, 38th President of the United States."

The reverse of the medal is the legend "Communication, Conciliation, Compromise and Cooperation," keyword a reputed to represent the overall Ford policy in dealing with Congress.

The President's Medallion.

The medal is a full 1.5 inches in diameter (silver dollar size) and available in 24-karat gold for $350, a frosted proof finish in .999 Fine silver for $14.50 and bronze for $3.50. Order from The Lombardo Mint, P.O. Box 15225, Santa Ana, Calif. 92705. Add 50 cents for postage and handling.

CARSON CITY (CC) DOLLARS
With roughly one third of the original number of silver dollars still on hand, the General Services Administration is going back to Congress for permission to try an alternate method of sale.

The original legislation was very explicit in its specification for the method of sale, in that it required minimum bids for coins of each date in the CC hoard. The coins were offered to those bidders who offered more than the minimum bid.

Despite the elaborate promotion which accompanied the Carson City silver dollar sale, the GSA found $2,185,000 in funds still remaining at the end of the five auctions it conducted.

Under the new Budget Reform Impoundment Act, passed last year, it became necessary for the agency to report these funds back to the office of Management and Budget on a deferral basis; that is, they will remain available for use in the future.

The publication of the deferred status of these funds on Feb. 19 confirmed rumors that no additional GSA auctions of the "CC" dollars would be conducted during the fiscal year. The coins that remain have been offered for sale at least twice before, and the response was insufficient to deplete them.

Overall the GSA has been absolutely satisfied with the response to the auction in each of the sales conducted so far. These netted a total of $55 million; though there is some chagrin over the fact that around a million of the more common dates still remain on hand.

While the spokesman insisted that no plans have yet been formulated for disposing of the remaining coins, he said they would not be returned to languish in Treasury vaults for another half century.

The Book Corner

By JOAN HANAUER

United Press International

Roosevelt and Churchill, edited by Francis L. Loewenheim, Harold D. Langley and Manfred Jonas. (Saturday Review, $17.50)

"Seldom have two world leaders worked together so closely or attained such a degree of intimacy." Such is the judgment of the editors of the secret wartime correspondence of the two men.

In the five and a half years between the outbreak of World War II in Europe and Roosevelt's death in April, 1945, Roosevelt wrote 700 letters and Churchill, always the loquacious one, wrote 1,000. Some of them are snippets of congratulations or some such, but many run on for several pages.

They make endlessly fascinating reading. These men are writing about immense events, explaining their views, measuring each other at one point, jousting at another.

From the date of their first meeting as world leaders (pushed by Roosevelt), their letters take on a much more relaxed, friendly tone.

Interestingly, they had met at a dinner in London in 1918, but neither was struck with the other. Both men followed and admired each other's public careers through the 1930s. It was Roosevelt who initiated the correspondence when Churchill was First Lord of the Admiralty.

The aristocratic Englishman, despite his siren suit and display of good fellowship, was more formal in his expression of friendship than his American counterpart. Churchill's stilted compliments to Roosevelt were in contrast to the American's frequent outpouring of affection for the Englishman.

Such effusion apparently led Churchill to believe he had the American in his pocket. Thus, he was miffed and baffled when Roosevelt failed to act positively toward Churchill's plans for a postwar British empire, or when Roosevelt courted Stalin to Churchill's dismay.

Still, the "close personal relationship" persisted. And it benefited both nations. "Without it," the editors conclude, "the establishment of joint planning and joint command would have been far more difficult, the meshing of national priorities less effective, and the cost and length of the war almost certainly far greater."

Stranger at the Party, by Helen Lawrenson. (Random House, $8.95) From small city newspaper reporter to managing editor of Vanity Fair magazine and full member of the swank set of the 1920s and 1930s, Mrs. Lawrenson led a merry and, she cheerfully brags, highly sexual life. Her dalliances with Conde Nast and a famous rabbi are juicy reading. Incongruously, she eventually married a tough Irish waterfront union organizer. Here is an honest report on a zesty life.

Come Out to Play, by Alex Comfort. (Crown, $7.95) Comfort, the author of The Joy of Sex, dashed off this farcical novel about the goings-on in a sex clinic in 1961, well before Masters and Johnson. It is being printed for the first time in this country. The protagonist, a rogue of a medical biologist specializing in sexual behavior, starts a clinic in Paris more or less as a lark. He finds that the clinic's graduates, mostly high NATO officials, have shed their inhibitions and gotten more interested in love than war. A witty and tantalizing escape novel.

The Massacre at Fall Creek, by Jessamyn West. (Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich, $9.95) In 1824, on the frontier of what is now the Midwest, a group of white men were tried, convicted and hanged for the murder of American Indians. Skilled novelist West takes this true incident and molds it into a dramatic story of the clash of two cultures. A well-paced, engrossing piece of early Americana brought to life.

Lithographs of Stow Wengen-roth, by Ronald and Joan Stuckley. (Barre, $25) Forty years of the works of the famous artist-lithographer, including reproductions of his dry brush drawings and prints, are beautifully presented here. Few persons have succeeded in catching the cold loveliness of the New England coast or the joy of its varied scenery as well as Wengenroth. Expensive but worth the pricetag.

Dr. Lamb's Advice

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am one of 100 persons working in a sheltered employment situation. Most are seniors, women, and men, but some teenagers also.

There is a kitchen which serves a hot dinner at noon. We all like the cook but almost every day the entree or the salad and green vegetable are heavily salted. I have seen the food left on many plates because it is "too salty."

Almost all senior citizens have problems with salt. We pay for the noon meal which costs very little. However, if you have to pay for the lunch and can't eat it there is money wasted for the employee and budget funds are also wasted.

Please advise us about the hazards of too much salt in the diet for old and young alike. There are salt shakers on the tables. It is surely no problem to measure salt meagerly. In volume cooking when a recipe is increased, salt should be used with restraint.

DEAR READER—You have a good point. It is always easy to add salt but impossible to take it out.

Many authorities believe too much salt in the diet may contribute to the development of high blood pressure. It is probably wise even for young people to go easy on salt.

When the body is healthy and a person drinks plenty of water the excess salt is simply eliminated through the kidneys. A number of medical problems, though, cause the body to retain salt. This leads to an accumulation of water and can be quite serious.

Women may have salt retention and retain fluid in response to their normal menstrual cycle. Estrogen stimulates salt retention. Birth control pills have the same effect and so do hormones used after the menopause. When this is fairly marked, women need to take pills to cause the kidneys to eliminate salt and fluid to relieve the problem.

Progressing along the way, anyone who has heart disease with heart failure or requiring digitalis may have a tendency to retain salt. The fluid that might accumulate in this case can cause real problems by literally filling the lungs with fluid and affecting the breathing.

Both liver disease and kidney disease may cause a retention of salt and, hence, water. These conditions that cause fluid retention can progress to cause marked swelling of the liver, abdomen, feet, ankles and fluid in the lungs. In short, the salt retention tends to defeat the doctor's efforts to prevent these complications.

In all, there is simply no good sound medical reason to add salt to food for a population that has many people with medical problems. For those who are healthy and have no problems there is always the salt shaker. The rest would certainly be healthier if they could avoid the bad effects of salt in their diet.

Win at Bridge

Brilliant Defense Thwarts 3NT

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Ely Culbertson once said that any time he could see all the cards, the Culbertson system would get him to the right contract.

Five clubs would be the right contract for today's hand. South would make it easily by winning the first heart, drawing trumps and knocking out the ace of diamonds.

When this hand appeared in the finals of a regional open pairs no one reached that contract. Those few pairs that did get to game all played in three notrump and most of them wound up making their contract.

It didn't require any great skill on their part. West opened the king of hearts and continued with the queen after South ducked. Then he led a third heart to clear the suit. South would run off six clubs, finally lead a diamond and be home free since East held that ace.

The one South who went down for a nice fat goose egg on the score was the victim of really fine defense. West did open the king of hearts, but shifted to a low heart at trick two.

This put East in the lead and East led the four of spades.

South ducked that to West's queen. A spade came back and East was careful to hold back his king so that all South could do was to run with his eight tricks and give up.

Co-Ed Theater Workshop

KINGSTON

A co-ed theater workshop for teens at the YWCA is now accepting members. Meetings are held every Tuesday 3:30 to 5 p.m. at 209 Clinton Avenue under the direction of Ginger Licopoli, YW youth director.

Improvisational techniques and theater games as well as movement and speech will be emphasized. The workshop will cover costume, make-up and play production. Scenes will be performed as well as a one-act play.

There will be field trips to local theaters and possibly a Broadway play.

Those wishing to join may contact the YWCA. There is no fee but Y membership is required.

Academy Class Off to Gotham

Ulster Academy students are scheduled for a field trip to New York City April 23 with six tours being offered under the direction of Academy faculty.

The French Department tour includes a visit to Librairie Larousse, lunch at a French restaurant and a matinee performance of "Le Misanthrope," an English version of Moliere. This tour will be directed by Mrs. Magdaline Scully, head of the department.

A musical treat, "Raisin," is the main feature of another tour being led by Ms. Lois Herman, head of the math department. The musical is based on "Raisin in the Sun."

A general tour of the four major theaters at Lincoln Center, with a special visit to the theater exhibit at New York Library of Performing Arts, will be directed by Alphonse Apalategui, director of the Academy Drama Department.

Another choice includes a visit to the Museum of Contemporary Crafts, picnic lunch, and a matinee performance of "Wonderful Wizard of Oz," led by Rudy Hopkins of the English Department.

A seaport lunch, a tour of South Street Pier and the Maritime museum, plus a ride on the Staten Island ferry, will be guided by Richard Wolter, head of the English Department.

The history and music department offers a tour of NBC facilities, lunch at Rockefeller Center and a matinee at Radio City Music Hall which includes the Easter Pageant stage show plus the film, "At Long Last Love," musical based on Cole Porter music. This tour will be guided by Richard Gavitt, head of the department.

Buses will leave the Academy at 8:30 p.m. and return at 7 p.m.

Youth in the News Honors

Outstanding achievements and resultant recognition highlight Youth in the News this week.

Reggie Steele, 12-year-old Ellenville student, has won first prize in an international essay competition sponsored by Ebony Jr. magazine.

His winning essay, an adaptation of a black folktale, is titled Why We Have Earthquakes and Other Things. In addition to having his article published in a recent issue of the sponsoring magazine, Johnson Publications awarded him a check for $50, a watch and a four-volume encyclopedia of Black History.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Steele of Ellenville, Reggie is a seventh grade student at Ellenville Central School. After high school he plans to go to college and eventually become an author of children's books.

Another of his stories, The Hippie Genie, has been used in performances given before students at the Ellenville and Nanapanoch schools.

Eugen Chua, son of Dr. and Mrs. Steamson Chua of Lake Katrine, a freshman at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is a member of a team of MIT students who devised energy conservation procedures.

The proposal would cut the Boston school system's energy consumption by 10 percent.

The MIT team, along with students from Northeastern and Boston Universities, constitutes the staff of the Boston Energy Office — formed to investigate ways of conserving energy in the Boston area.

Other projects include a film explaining how to set up a student-run energy office and a conservation guide ori-

REGGIE STEELE

Studying energy consumption in two Boston high schools, the MIT students found cases of overlighting, overheating and poor scheduling of heavy electricity consumption. On the basis of this research, the students drew up a series of recommendations which are currently being reviewed by the Boston School Committee and the chief custodian of the Boston School system.

These recommendations may also play a part in the design of 12 new schools currently under construction.

The idea of the student-run office was conceived last summer because Boston did not have enough money to set up a full-time professional office. Besides measuring energy consumption in Boston Schools, the office is working on developing an energy inventory for the city.

Other projects include a film explaining how to set up a student-run energy office and a conservation guide ori-

Chua is a 1974 graduate of Kingston High School.

A Dartmouth College junior from Kingston has been cited by a professor of Native American Studies for outstanding academic achievement during the past term.

Thomas Sorci was cited by Professor Beatrice Medicine who wrote "I have had the honor and privilege of instructing this student in several courses. He has consistently been the Top of each class. His research and writing displays creativity and cogency. He is the best student I have taught at Dartmouth."

Sorci is the son of Mrs. Josephine Sorci of 329 Wall Street. He is a 1972 graduate of Kingston High School where he was a member of the National Honor Society.

Citation reports at Dartmouth are submitted only when a student's work is sufficiently distinguished to merit special recognition. Such citations are rare and relatively few are submitted each term.

Barbara E. Gardner, a sophomore at Ulster County Community College, has qualified as an "outstanding" new transfer student for Rochester Institute of Technology for next fall.

With this designation she has earned an invitation to compete in the 1975 RIT outstanding transfer scholar award competition.

In this competition, on the RIT campus, everyone will win something. The four top students will receive awards equivalent to two years tuition (approximately $5,300) without regard to need. Every other contestant will win a $50 book award available during the first year at RIT.

During the competition, students have the opportunity to meet with faculty members and students at RIT in the academic field of their choice. They also learn more about the total RIT program and the student life-style there.

Miss Gardner, a resident of 16 Mt. View Avenue, Saugerties, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Gardner. A graduate of Saugerties High School, she has been majoring in Liberal Arts — Math at UCCC and is scheduled to graduate in June.

ROLLING STONE

Joe Walsh's So What

By Bud Scoppa

As he's moved westward — from the East Coast to Ohio to Colorado to Los Angeles — Joe Walsh has assimilated one regional rock style after another. Walsh's appealing and extremely well-made third solo-album, So What, attests to this former leader of the James Gang's varied background. It pits his adonoidal vibrato against Eagle-like California harmonies and plays off his bashing, propulsive chording style against the more sedate picking of an apparently gentle soul.

Disregarding a brief, sophomoric goof track, "All Night Laundry Mat Blues," So What goes eight for eight, both in the performances themselves and in the clean way they've been recorded (by Walsh and John Stronach, with his old producer Bill Szymczyk responsible for one track). Three simple rockers, "Welcome to the Club," "Time Out" and "Turn to Stone," are distinguished by shimmering riffs as distinctive as those by Peter Townshend and Keith Richards, but played more with refinement than sheer raunch.

Walsh originally cut "Turn to Stone" on Barnstorm, his first LP after quitting the James Gang and heading for Colorado. The new version shows how well he's honed his style over the past two years. The first performance relied on power chording for impact; the second shows Walsh playing less but with more awareness of the power of suggestion. The increase in restraint results in an increase in drama. The new version, however, hardly sounds restrained.

On the three rockers, Walsh's chording, leads and slide work harmonically and rhythmically resemble his ear-catching guitar playing on the '73 hit single, "Rocky Mountain Way." But each of these new tracks cuts that hit in both material quality and Walsh's use of his guitar and vocal techniques. Simultaneously burly and beautiful (in a functional way), these are three unforgettable rock & roll tracks.

Add to these an inexplicably touching synthesizer performance (by Walsh) of a brief segment from Ravel's "Mother Goose Suite," a pair of harmony tunes, "Falling Down" and "Help Me Through the Night," that would make an country-rock group green with envy, a first-rate orchestrated, pop melodrama, "Song for Emma," and an almost completely instrumental "Country Fair," and the result is an unpretentious, playable album. And if the mode in which this music is presented appears through its harmonies and sentiments to be mainstream L.A. rock there's an important difference: Walsh doesn't need to rev himself up to play rock & roll — if anything, he has to hold himself back.

In his unassuming way, Walsh has made So What into a nearly classic representation of the forms and textures of present-day American rock & roll.

Miller Band Fund Raising

M. Clifford Miller Band members (L to R) Lisa Throop, Donna Zickler, Jeff Baechtle and Ed Glennon discuss with Band Director Thomas Keenn their plans for the band's annual fund raising event, this year a candy sale. The proceeds of the candy sale will be used by the school's Instrumental Music Department to cover trip expenses, registrations at contests and equipment purchases.

The Windmills of Our Minds

Sometime ago a Freeman columnist published speculations that Soviet research on the development of mental powers may have paid off — that this might explain the Russian wheat deal, and other negotiations that were not exactly in the best interests of the West. The Russians practicing mental control on American diplomats? James Bond, where are you, now that we need you? When did far-out sci-fiction start showing up in the news opinion columns?

Perhaps about the time Uri Geller started showing up in the news columns. This sexy, dynamic young Israeli psychic claimed to be able to bend silverware, turn watch-hands, and take photographs all with the aid of his amazing mental processes. Reporters — mostly male — tried to discredit him. Followers — many female — mobbed him. Nobody quite believed that the handsome young performer could really tie knots in forks with the power of his mind — but everybody wanted to believe it. Even today, while Uri Geller has been exposed as a fraud several times, his followers are many — and some of his feats remain explained.

"The Exorcist" sent audiences from the theaters pale and shaking, most of them haunted by the knowledge that while they had just watched a movie, somewhere in the world, there really was a little girl like Reagan — a child possessed by some terrible force or power that enabled her to hurl furniture across the room without touching it and change physical form. Sure enough, the quarter horrors came out with vivid stories of real-life exorcisms and we became a nation of poltergeist-hunters. Scarily enough, we found a few, too.

Sometime we mean to do a column on "Childhood's End," that chilling science-fiction masterpiece that, it seems, everyone has read, and yet, it is not a book that "everyone's read." It, too, deals with the fascinating possibility that a generation of superchildren could develop their minds to the points where their physical beings became secondary concerns.

And there is something eerie about the fact that man cannot find the cube root of 7867.957 in a tenth of a second, but he can invent a machine — a computer — that can find the answer in a hundredth of a second, while playing a chess game at the same time. It is obvious, even to the skeptics, that most of mankind uses only a small part of its mental powers in routine life, but most of us are not sure of what the human mind, properly trained and exploited, can accomplish. In fact, most of us are not sure if we really want to know all that we can know.

"ESP" and "psychic research" have come a long way — once the province of supposed eccentrics, they are now the basis for games in the newspapers. There are now "witchcraft kits" for sale at the corner notions stores, and people who once would have denounced astrology as superstitious bunk are trying to find out what their rising sign is.

What can the human mind accomplish? There has been intense research into this, in America as well as in other countries in the world. Results are not conclusive, but they do indicate that we are using only a tiny fragment of the potential of our minds. It has been established, quiet definitively, that it is possible to send and receive mental messages, particularly between loved ones. Some researchers believe that the conscious attempt to send a message may actually jam the transmission, and that the purest ESP messages may be the, "How odd, I was just thinking about you!" co-incidences familiar to us all.

It also seems likely that mental powers can be used to move, bend, or heat inanimate objects — whether or not Mr. Geller could actually do this. It is possible that our mind can transport us to the past or the future. Some psychic researchers firmly believe that our key to the exploration of other planets and solar systems is not the costly and cumbersome system of rockets now in use, but rather in the development of our mental powers to the point where they will be the means of exploration.

Right now, it is all very speculative. So were Leonardo Da Vinci's diagrams for an airplane, or Jules Verne's description of a journey around the world in 80 days. Skeptics cried, "If God meant man to fly, he would have given him wings." He gave us minds, and perhaps he intended us to do more with them than we have found to do in the last billion years or so. Perhaps, in fact, our minds shall be our wings . . .

Solar Energy Highlights Sun Fair

The Ulster County Environmental Management Council's second annual Sun Day Fair, to be held Sunday, April 20, from 12 noon to 5 p.m. at the Elting Gymnasium of the New Paltz College, will feature alternatives to traditional methods of heating and cooling your home. Several displays at the Fair will deal with the uses of solar energy — from complete home heating to a small solar dehydration unit.

Ahead Co. of West Hurley, run by Neil and Ursula Freer, will give half-hour slide lectures outlining the basic developments of solar heating to present-day applications. Emphasis will be on how a basic solar system works and what an individual can do to take advantage of the free energy of the sun in his particular situation.

Paul Sturges, a Stone Ridge businessman and inventor, will demonstrate how his "heat exchangers", when installed in a Franklin stove, can increase its efficiency by 50 percent. His heat exchangers are basically a series of copper tubes that are installed in the chimney pipe. The heat that would ordinarily escape up the chimney is captured and circulated through these tubes and can be used to warm a room or an entire small house.

To demonstrate that building to conserve energy can be dramatically efficient and still provide very attractive and livable houses at reasonable cost, the engineers of Ark-Tech Systems, Glenford, will be displaying scale models of two houses they have designed. One is a spacious and elegant solar house utilizing a multi-fuel alternate heat system. The other is of a house which is now being built in Woodstock.

David Hartman of Dubin, Mindell, Bloom and Associates of New York City, a consulting engineer firm, will display architectural designs and drawings of solar heating that is to be incorporated in condominium apartments to be constructed at Grassy Brook Village, Brookline, Vt.

Ralph Swenson of the Town of Rochester Environmental Conservation Commission will demonstrate a solar dehydrator — a cabinet constructed entirely of recycled materials which used the sun's rays for drying foods.

The Alternate Community Technology Site, a project of students in the Department of Innovative Studies and the Department of Physics at the State University College at New Paltz, is only a short distance from the gymnasium. The public will be able to tour five structures at the site including a solar house and an underground house. The structures surround a large organic garden that is presently under cultivation. The four-acre site has been developed over the past three years in an effort to experiment with and demonstrate feasible alternatives in architecture and construction which conserve valuable natural resources.

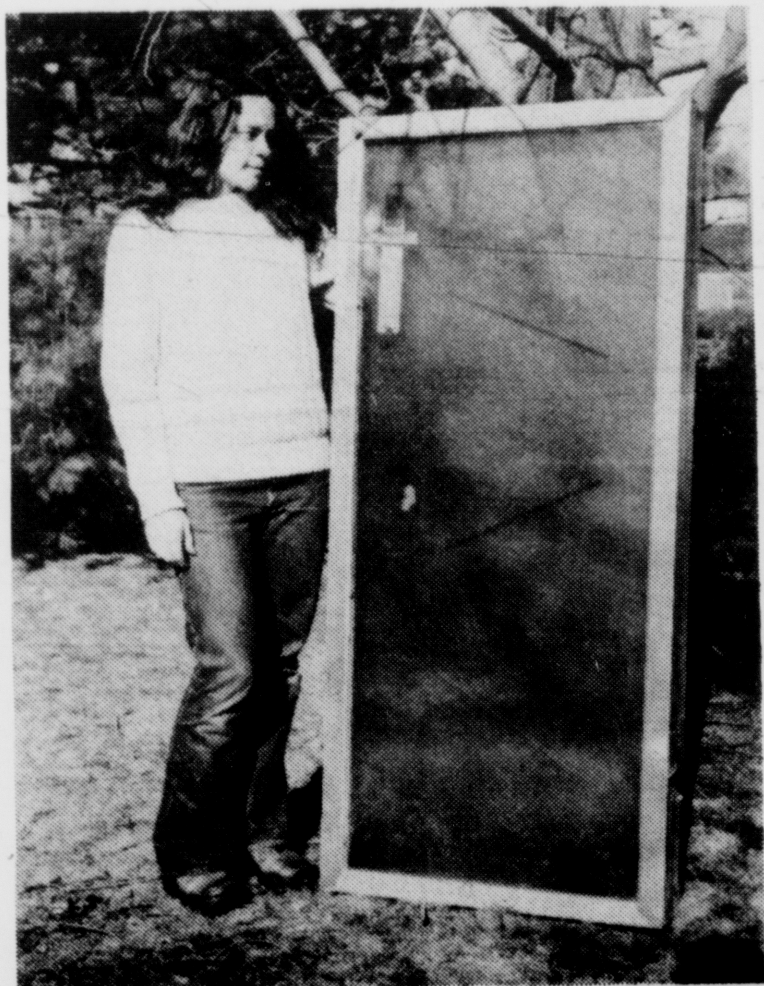

Other booths that will be included at the Fair are:

The Temporary Commission to study the Catskills, the Cary Arboretum of Millbrook, Leo Breton with a booth on Organic Gardening, the Ulster County Health Department, Cooperative Extension, the Mohonk Trust, the Parrisades Interstate Park Commission, the Soil Conservation Service, the Nature Conservancy, the Catskill Region TB & RD Association, the Catskill Center for Conservation and Development, the Environmental Protection Agency, the New York Federation for Safe Energy (anti-nuclear), and others.

A total of 40 booths have been confirmed.

Friday Night Is Indian Night in New Paltz

All roads lead to New Paltz for many from Kingston, Albany, Troy, Poughkeepsie, New York City, Red Hook, Rhinebeck, Saugerties, Rosendale and even Florida and the State of Washington.

This particular outpouring occurs especially on Friday nights when the Association of Native Americans, a group of American Indians, holds its weekly Pow-Wow Social.

The Pow-Wow Socials, open to the public, are held from 8 o'clock until 11 at the New Paltz Middle School, corner of Manheim Boulevard and Main Street.

And on these Friday night Pow-Wows it's a good time for all with dancing, the opportunity to meet people from far and near, refreshments and some delightful music to dance by furnished by the Cloud Breaker Society musicians.

The Association of Native Americans was founded to create an awareness of the native American as a human being, to promote the growth, influence and welfare of these native Americans throughout the Hudson Valley, as well as other parts of the country.

Its goals also are to establish Council grounds to promote a spiritual renewal for the native American people, establish a native American cultural center and to develop a collection to be used in preserving and transmitting the heritage of the native American.

And John DeVoll, president of the ANA, reports that if anyone has property for such a cultural center the association would be interested in obtaining it at a minimum price, or even accept it as a donation from the owner.

Qualifications for membership in the ANA includes any person with traceable native American (American Indian) heritage, 12 years of age or over who supports the purpose of the group.

One of the many festivals of the ANA is the Green Shoot Festival which was held recently, marking the first day of spring and the start of a new year for the American Indians.

The festival got off to a rousing start with a tasty pot-luck dinner followed by a Pow-Wow of song and dance.

The Cloud Breaker Society musical group furnished the music. Its members include head drummer and lead singer Jack Preston (Seneca), first drummer and first singer Jack Lyday (Cherokee), Dr. Gerald Kitzman (Ojibwa), the Rev. Nicklos Miles (Algonquin-Pomunky), Fred Brough (Penobscot) and Hank Slattery (Mohawk).

Officers of the Association along with President DeVoll includes Louise Slattery (Mohawk), first vice-president and Margaret Richter (Algonquin-Narragansett), second vice-president. DeVoll also is identified with the Algonquin-Narragansett heritage.

President DeVoll may be contacted for further details or by writing to the ANA, P.O. Box 1100, New Paltz, N.Y., 12561.

'SEND ME NO FLOWERS' CAST MEMBERS TALK IT OVER

Next Coach House Production

'Send Me No Flowers' . . .
Night of Riotous Foolery

Forget all your troubles with an evening of riotous foolery as Coach House Players present "Send Me No Flowers." Scheduled for May 8, 9 and 10 at the J. Watson Bailey School, the curtain will go up on this hilarious farce at 8:30 p.m. Written by veteran comedy and gag-writers Norman Barasch and Carroll Moore, the comedy is being directed by George Quartell, no novice himself with witty effects. Active on both sides of the curtain, George is packing the show with laugh-provoking capers. Susan Reckhold is assistant and stage manager.

"Send Me No Flowers" is a sly antic about a hypochondriac who overhears his doctor describing someone else's fatal symptoms, jumps to the wrong conclusion and clumsily tries to arrange various forms of security for his wife's supposedly imminent widowhood. These entail absurd encounters with a seller of cemetery plots, his drunken best friend and his wife's former college-days sweetheart. Bill Sill will have the choice role of the healthy husband who mistakenly thinks he has only a few days to live. Seen last season as the enigmatic police sergeant in "The Mouse Trap," Bill here returns to the type of farce at which he is a past master. Among the highlights of his many roles for Coach House, previous audiences will recall his exuberant portrayal of the sculptor-lover in "Black Comedy" and as one of the convicts of "My Three Angels." He has also been active this year with other theater groups. An artist to the core, Bill is also co-partner of Photo Workshop in Kingston.

In the role of the "imaginary invalid's" wife, Joan Cirrito copes brilliantly with the bumbling antics of her husband as he attempts to plan for her future without him. Finally playing as her attractive self, Joan has run the gamut of off-beat parts. Beginning with Coach House Players in the role of the husband-hunting widow in "Middle of the Night," she also played the odd-ball grandmother in "Absence of a Cello," and a fast-talking hip chick in one of the segments of "Lovers and and Other Strangers." Joan resides in West Hurley with her husband, also a Coach House member, and their three children.

Playing the part of the husband's best friend is John Neitzman. Laughs pile up as the grief-stricken friend goes on a three-day bender during which he painfully writes a eulogy for the up-coming memorial service, and even mows his stricken pal's lawn. Merrily reaching for each implication of laughter in his lines, John has a pleasant change from his lugubrious role as the valet in "Last Exit."

Robert Clemmons assumes the role of the doctor who the husband thinks is hiding from his his fatal symptoms. Robert was last seen as the police officer in "Bells Are Ringing." Frank Marquette will be playing the role of the wife's ex-boyfriend, and the part of a fortune-hunting delivery boy goes to Tim de Illy. In a hilarious characterization of a seller of cemetery plots is Cindy Marcus in strong contrast to her portrayal in "Anything Goes," of a night club queen.

Featured in the dream sequences which are one of the highlights of the show, are Eloise Gardner, Kit Scherer, Steve Bernstein and Lynne Arone.

In charge of production is Al Curl with Ray Caddy on sets and Frank Gardner handling lighting. Costumes are by Teresa Cegelka and props are in charge of Ginger Curl. Program by Eloise Gardner, publicity by Vicki Schacht, associate memberships by Mrs. Ray Caddy and Mrs. Michael Boyle, single tickets by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Becker. For ticket information call 338-7477.

Driftwood Lists Its '75 Lineup

The Driftwood Floating Theatre, located at the foot of Broadway in Kingston, has announced its program of shows for the 1975 season.

Opening night will kick off a weekend of fun on the river during the Memorial Day weekend, for which the boat management has scheduled a special Sunday night show as well as its regular Sunday matinee.

"Just Married" is the opening show of the season which starts Friday, May 23, and runs until Sunday, June 15.

Tuesday, June 17, sees "This Thing Called Love," which is another family comedy at the showboat, and this vehicle remains on the Showboat boards until Sunday, July 6.

During the rest of the season fun and laughs will be provided by "Cradle Snatchers," "Sis Hopkins," "Ladies Night at the Turkish Bath," "Jennie Kissed Me" and "The Pursuit of Happiness."

Heading the list of invited VIPs for the May 23 opening night show are Gov. Hugh L. Carey, Senator James Buckley, Senator Jacob Javits, Mayor Francis R. Koenig of Kingston and a host of political, religious and civic leaders from throughout the community.

Several major improvements have been completed during the past winter months, one of which is the opening of the theater's balcony section which will make all of its seats available for the $2.50 price. Also the boat management has installed on board rest room facilities for the convenience of its patrons.

The Driftwood Theatre box office is now open daily from 1 to 6 p.m. and tickets for the big weekend in May are reportedly going fast.

In addition, seats for all performances and season tickets are available at Abrams Music Store on Wall Street.

Heritage Seminar In Paltz

It's still a couple of months away but plans are already underway by the Huguenot Historical Society of New Paltz for its fourth Mid-Hudson Seminary on Literature and Our Historical Heritage.

This year's program will be held from July 7 through July 12 and another interesting agenda has been scheduled.

Aims of the seminar are to provide historic and a literary background of the five-county Mid-Hudson area and is geared to orientation, visiting speakers with special knowledge in the field, slide lectures, tours, social activities and suggestions to teachers for classroom use.

Headquarters for the seminar, limited to 50 persons in order of application, will be at the Deyo Assembly Hall.

Those interested should write to the Huguenot Historical Society P.O. Box 339, New Paltz, 12561.

Dinner-Theater in April, Two Plays in Kerhonkson

Two one-act plays will be the theatrical fare for a dinner-theater offering presented on two Wednesdays, April 16 and 23, at the Travelers Inn in Kerhonkson.

The Performers' Workshop of the Marbletown Artists Association, which presented "Spoon River Anthology" in its February dinner theater debut, will mount Thornton Wilder's "Infancy" and Dorothy Parker's "Here We Are." "Here We Are" will be the first production of the evening.

"Infancy," which is about the ultimate generation gap between adults and infants, is one of the earliest of the author's "Plays for Bleeker Street" in which a cycle of one-act plays portrays the ages of man.

Gabe Kajeckas directs; Lou Miressi and Ralph Calcavecchio play Tommy and Moe; Helen Winer portrays Mrs. Boker and Adele Kajeckas plays Millie Wilchick. Ken Brett takes the role of Officer Avonzino in this hilarious, yet thought-provoking piece.

Dorothy Parker's vehicle is about two honeymooners, and is directed by Nancy Sack. Carmen Gehring and Bob Oon play the lead roles, and show how married bliss can begin with misunderstandings.

Advance tickets are required for this dinner-theater offering and may be obtained by calling the Travelers Inn at 626-7718. The menu for this month's program is a Seafood Delight, featuring Alaska King Crab.

ABOUT ANTIQUES

Who can resist the aroma of freshly ground coffee beans? Even though the taste of the brewed cup rarely lives up to the promise of its fragrance, we North Americans have been busily grinding our own mixtures since the late 1800s.

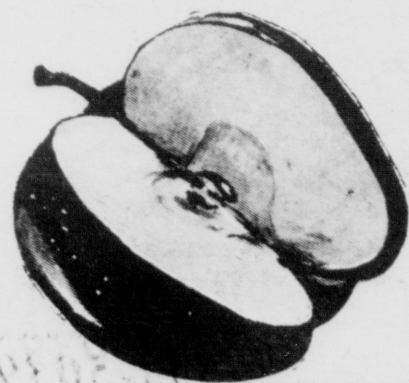

Until after the Civil War, when the mechanical coffee grinder was introduced to the public, the usual method of grinding was to merely pulverize a few beans bound in a cloth by hitting them with a hammer. This primitive method quickly went out of favor when mass-production made small mechanical coffee grinders available to every kitchen for the nominal cost of about a dollar.

Made in a wide variety of models and styles by many manufacturers here and abroad, these grinders can be classified into three basic types; the wall grinder; the heavier counter or table type; and the lighter lap model. All were equipped with either one or two wheels or cranks which were turned by hand to activate the simple metal mechanisms. The cases, which were usually gaily painted, were made from metal, wood and even glass.

Coffee grinding was eventually taken over by the local grocer, who used a much larger commercial version of the home grinder. As a result of this the small kitchen model practically disappeared from use, and it is only within the past decade that the art of home grinding and brewing has become popular again.

Considering the great number of old coffee grinders made, there are surprisingly few left today. The antique models can be purchased in a broad price range running from about $20 to as high as $200. If you should find an old one still in operating condition, try using it to grind a fresh brew before you convert it to a lamp. You might just switch from the instant variety.

Chamber Concert Music At Woodstock Church

Performing Arts of Woodstock will present the Nottingham Woodwind Quartet in a concert of chamber music Sunday, April 20, at St. Gregory's Church in Woodstock.

The concert will begin at 3 p.m. and the public is invited.

The group consists of Melissa Sweet, flute; Kathleen Karlsen, oboe and English horn; Mary Leonard, French horn; Michael Kaminsky, clarinet and Robert Lewis, bassoon.

The 20th Century as well as more standard quintet literature will be featured. A highlight of the program will be Carl Nielsen's Quintet. This work by Denmark's foremost composer is one of the most beautiful and intricate works in the modern repertoire and features the English horn — the exotic alto voice of the double-reed-family.

The English horn also will be featured in an Andante and Adagio by Anton Reicha.

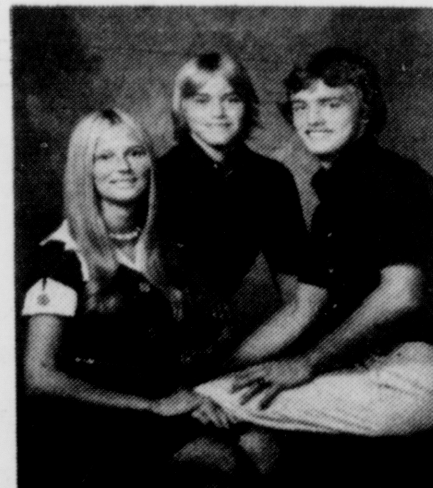

St. Gregory's Church is the A-frame church located on Route 212 between Woodstock and Saugerties.

Tickets, available at the door, will be $2 while the price for students and senior citizens is $1.50. Further information is available by telephoning 679-7900 or 679-2114.

HV Philharmonic Cruise

Music lovers have a bonus in store for them, according to John W. McCauley, chairman of major gifts of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

The HV Philharmonic is sponsoring A Music Festival at Sea, Opus VI, featuring a cruise aboard the SS Rotterdam through the Caribbean from May 31 to June 7.

And McCauley reports that a galaxy of world-renowned concert artists will be on board for this unforgettable cruise of the Caribbean.

The Philharmonic office reports that the cruise will prove a double benefit for those music lovers who sign up. One is that 10 percent of the cost is tax deductible and that this donation goes to the Philharmonic.

Secondly, as sponsor, the Philharmonic receives one free accommodation which will be awarded to one passenger who signs up for the cruise. "And if we sign up more than 20 paying persons (10 couples), the free accommodations will be increased to two," Chairman McCauley pointed out.

McCauley said "I can personally attest to the Holland-American Line for its high standards in food, service and cleanliness. And the cruise cost includes all tipping which helps make the package price most attractive."

Artists aboard this outstanding cruise offering will include Jan Peerce, who has delighted audiences throughout the world with his engaging warmth; Eleanor Steber, one of the truly great sopranos and a bright operatic legend in our own times; Charles Treger, regarded as easily one of the top violinists of the time and many others.

Further particulars on the musical cruise may be obtained by contacting the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, Box 191, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. 12602.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

Night-spot hoppers, banquet buffs and just plain party-goers are in for a plain surprise. In about five weeks, there's gonna be a transfiguration on Field Court. Call it a face-lifting, plastic surgery, or what-you-will, but come May, if Walnut Grove proprietors' plans pan out as scheduled, that place promises to be a social spot like you "ain't never seen."

First off, Sam Cerasaro of Sera-Mont Galleries is doin' the decor. From what we hear, first reactions should be startling. The major miracle will be done with mirrors . . . walls, stage, lounge; a case of "mirrors, mirrors everywhere, to watch one eat 'n drink." A gent's comin' here all the way from California to do the special lighting effects — multi-colored, set in strategic points all over the place. The color scheme is somethin' else again, as are Sam's plans for the entrance foyer and seculod lounge.

The Spada family was all a dither Saturday night with high expectations. Rapid Hose Fire Company No. 1

Auxiliary was havin' its annual banquet there and the place was alive with action. By midnight everybody was gettin' into the act. The band called Mayor Koenig up to sing a chorus of "When the Saints Come Marchin' In" . . . at least, we think that's what he sang. It was hard to tell. You see, when Frank sings, all the songs sound alike.

Martin Kelly got a standing ovation for his rendition of "When Irish Eyes are Smiling." Then a 75-year old gent, known affectionately as "Pop," took over the drums and there wasn't a quiet foot in the house. Pop, incidentally, played at one time with Count Basie; fans of the Buddy Rich and Gene Krupa-era were in their glory.

Food was fine, even the dessert. Mike Spada may've been tendin' bar but he had a hand in the menu, too. Seems Mike doctored up the dishes of ice cream—not with creme de menthe nor creme de cacao. He used a cherry cordial and . . . viva la difference.

The Spadas take pride in their menu. Good thing, too, 'cause one never knows who's comin' for dinner. At St. Mary's Italian Night at Walnut Grove, none other than Gene Leone, son of New York's famous, Mama Leone, dropped in on his way to do an Art Linkletter TV show.

The Gene Radells flew back from Bermuda in time to be there. Bob Hinkley's wife Pat made an important announcement; she's learnin' to drive. As for Bob Richmond, he may be an optometrist by trade, and firemen by choice, but he's a Lion at heart. "Tho we didn't actually SEE any Expo tickets in his hand, we know the reason why. He talked Freida Whipple into sellin' 'em for him and she was unloadin' 'em left 'n right.

Bill and Ethel Jordan came, along with John and Catherine Dittus, Frank and Harriet Jones, Mrs. Wesley Dunbar, Dolores Colvin. Between the dancin', singin' and laughin', the whole crew was livin' it up like there was no domani!

The Great Talent Search Goes On

Ted Mack Still Traveling Country

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — His "Amateur Hour" left television five years ago but Ted Mack continues to travel the country listening to singers, monologists and guitar virtuosos who should have stood in bed.

Once a month Ted heads for a college campus where students and faculty put on an amateur night. Ted does the judging.

He was in Southern California recently at Busch Gardens, an amusement park brewery, for "The Great Ted Mack Talent Search." Hundreds of wild-eyed natives dropped out of palm trees, emerged from the surf and burrowed from tar pits to vie for a $1,000 prize.

Ted was staggered by the range of no-talent, but he gamely hung in there.

He looked youthful as ever and said there were no amateur shows on network television because the line between pro and amateur has disappeared.

"A guy gets one hit record and they put him right on television," Mack explained. "He's really an amateur but they treat him like a professional."

"We always screened the contestants before they went on the television show," he said. "But on this trip to California, for instance, anybody can enter."

"Back in the 1930s when

Major Bowes was running the radio show he didn't screen the amateurs either. If they were terrible he rang a gong and wished them better luck next time.

"When I took over on television we stopped using a gong. You could see the stricken look on the contestants' faces. It was as if they had been stabbed through the heart. It was sad."

Mack, who calculates he has seen a million amateurs since joining Bowes in 1935, could have used a large and sonorous gong on the California nuts seeking stardom.

"One of them was Lou Nova, the old boxer," he said. "Lou wanted us to forget he was a fighter. Then he recited 'The Highwayman' while he shadow-boxed."

"Another guy played a stuffed chicken, but I didn't recognize the tune."

"One of the craziest was an old man with cowbells tied to his feet, wrists and neck. When he played a tune lights on his head flashed on and off."

Ted tries not to laugh at the weirdos but often he breaks down and guffaws. He doubts the possibility of underestimating the ego of most star-struck amateurs.

What can he tell a genius who plays the piano with his feet or a hooper who does a three-legged dance? How to dampen the ardor of a blow gun act by telling the artist there is little call for his specialty in show biz?

All these cases turned up in Southern California along with a bird caller who accompanied himself on the piano.

A Cherokee Indian named Grey Otter held everyone's attention with a knife-throwing act which Mack acknowledged is a rare skill among amateurs.

Before leaving the land of the fruit and the nut, Ted expressed satisfaction at maintaining his home in New York. But he insisted the old "Amateur Hour" did uncover some stars.

"Frank Sinatra appeared on radio for the first time with Major Bowes in 1934 as part of the Hoboken Four," he said. "And Ann-Margret was a contestant, but she lost out to a guy who played a laurel leaf."

Mack, ever a man of dis-cernment, auditioned Tiny Tim 10 times and never had him on his show.

Authors, an Award and a T.V. Show

Author

Laura Ingalls Wilder

At the remarkable age of 65, Laura Ingalls Wilder began writing her series of "Little House" books that have become children's classics.

"I lived everything that happened in my books," she wrote. Mrs. Wilder lived from 1867 to 1957. She wrote warm and inspiring books about the hardships and joys of pioneer life.

T.V. Show

Michael Landon plays "Pa" Ingalls

The T.V. series, "Little House on the Prairie," is based on Mrs. Wilder's "Little House" books. Although it has been criticized for not being a true picture of pioneer life that the books are, the show is popular with young viewers.

Beverly Cleary, winner of the Wilder Award.

The Award

The Laura Ingalls Wilder Award is presented every five years to the author or illustrator whose books have made a lasting contribution to children's literature.

Winner Beverly Cleary

The Laura Ingalls Wilder Award is presented by the Children's Services Division of the American Library Association. The membership votes for their choice. This is a very big honor. Mrs. Wilder was the first to receive the award back in 1954.

Beverly Cleary, whose stories have delighted millions of children, is the winner of the 1975 Wilder Award.

"Henry Huggins," "Ramona the Pest," "Henry and Ribsy" and "The Mouse and the Motorcycle" are only a few of the books she has written for the 8 to 12 age group.

Mrs. Cleary, who used to be a librarian, lives in Carmel, California. She is the mother of 19 year-old twins. Her hobbies include travel and needle work.

Q. Your books are very funny. Don't you laugh and chuckle as you write?

A. "Oh, yes. I laugh with my characters and cry with them, too. When Ribsy, a dog in the Henry Huggins books, barks, I bark, too."

Q. How long does it take you to write a book?

A. "I think about books for years before I write a word. Actually putting words down takes from six months to a year. I write my first draft in long hand. Then I copy it on the typewriter. I work in the mornings. I work in a small study off my living room."

Q. What advice would you give people who would like to write children's books?

A. "Read widely while you are growing up, so you will have standards for judging books."

1975 The Caldecott Winner:

Gerald McDermott

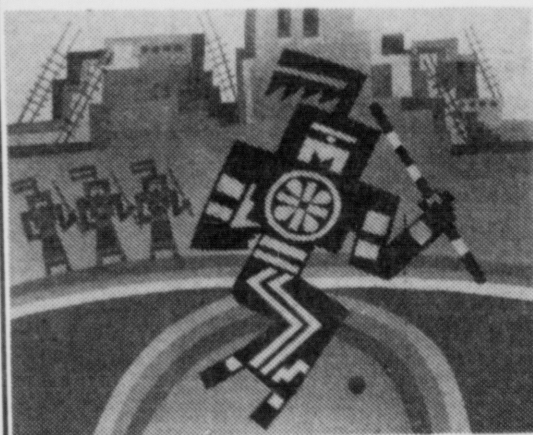

The Randolph J. Caldecott Medal is awarded to the illustrator of the year's most outstanding picture book for children.

This year's winner is Gerald McDermott, the illustrator of "Arrow to the Sun, a Pueblo Indian Tale."

Gerald McDermott began art lessons at the Detroit Institute of Art when he was only four years old. He later graduated from Pratt Institute in New York. He is the illustrator of a 1972 Caldecott Honor Book, "Anansi The Spider." Mr. McDermott is also an award-winning film maker. He usually works alone and makes from 4,000 to 6,000 drawings for a 10-minute film.

He lives in a small town in the Hudson River Valley with his wife who is also a painter and illustrator.

An illustration from "Arrow to the Sun, a Pueblo Indian Tale" by Gerald McDermott, published by Viking Press, 1974.

The book, "Arrow to the Sun, a Pueblo Indian Tale" is based on a myth about a boy's search for his father. The art work uses symbols, patterns and colors found in Indian pottery, weaving and painting.

Entertainment

Lindsay

Twins play the role of Baby Carrie Ingalls in "The Little House on the Prairie" series.

Sidney

Carrie, the baby of the Ingalls family, is played by two four-year-old girls, Lindsay and Sidney Green Bush. They take turns in the role because of a California law that limits the daily work span of young kids to three hours.

They began their careers by accident when a friend told their parents, who are both actors, that a director was looking for twin girls. They first appeared in a movie.

Hamilton Wins the Newbery

Virginia Hamilton who wrote "M. C. Higgins, the Great" won this year's Newbery Medal for the most distinguished literature for children.

The story is about a black boy growing up on a mountain near the Ohio River.

Virginia Hamilton believes that black children need more knowledge about their history and a sense of tradition. Her books have won several awards. Ms. Hamilton's mother was the oldest daughter of a slave.

Ms. Hamilton lives in Ohio with her husband and their two children.

Super Sport: Ralph Kiner

Ralph Kiner, a former Home Run King, was recently elected into baseball's Hall of Fame. Kiner spent 10 years in the major leagues. He hit 369 home runs. Ralph led or tied for the National League home run crown seven times. In 1949, he belted 54 homers, his best season ever. Kiner spent most of his career with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

He also played with the Chicago Cubs and the Cleveland Indians. Kiner, now 52 years old, was born in Santa Rita, New Mexico. He attended the University of

SNACK PACK JACK'S TALL TALES

ONCE IN A STORM IN NORTHERN TIBET, I RAN INTO A CAVE SO I WOULDN'T GET WET.

I TURNED ON THE LIGHT AND GOT QUITE A SCARE! I WAS INSIDE THE CAVE OF A CHOCOLATE BEAR!

"YOU STEPPED ON MY PAW," HE SAID WITH A YELP. I KNEW THEN AND THERE ONLY ONE THING WOULD HELP.

SNACK PACK CHOCOLATE PUDDING, SO CREAMY AND GOOD, THE BEAR TOOK ONE TASTE AND IT CHANGED HIS WHOLE MOOD.

"THIS CHOCOLATE IS YUMMY," HE SAID WITH DELIGHT. "PUT DOWN YOUR PUDDING AND STAY FOR THE NIGHT!"

Book Fairs Are Fun!

Children make their choices at a Book Fair.

Some schools hold Book Fairs to raise money for projects. For the Fair, book sellers get a lot of books together. They take them to the schools and set up a display.

On the first day, the children usually browse through the books.

On the second day, they make their choices. Sometimes they order their books. Other times they can buy them on the spot. Parents often take up the money.

The Mini Page asked one Book Fair company president what are the best selling books.

"Any children's movie can help the sale of a book. My best sellers include 'Love Bug' and 'Herbie Rides Again'."

The readers also like sports and mystery books. "Dracula" sells well.

The sixth grade girls were interested in romance and books about make-up and charm.

Nancy Drew and Hardy Boy books still sell. Other popular books include joke, cross-word puzzle and scramble books.

Q. What's the difference between unlawful and illegal?
